GRANT'S recommendation in his annual message to prohibit citizens of the United States from holding slave property in the West India Islands has aroused much inquiry and discussion.

THE inconsistency of General Grant becomes more apparent every day. He sends a message to congress heartily endorsing civil service reform, and asking the assistance of that body in carrying out the plan proposed.

PRESIDENT GRANT should pray to be delivered from his friends. The character of such men as Morton, Conkling, Chandler, etc., give their praise of the honesty of the administration no weight with the people.

The president attends the opera. No one knows why he attends the opera, for he has no more ear for music than Horace Greeley.

Violent wind storms did considerable damage in Chicago, Indianapolis and St. Louis, and especially to unfinished buildings.

It is stated that General Chanzy will succeed General Cley as French minister at Washington as French minister.

Mrs. Lincoln is at present stopping at the Howard house, in St. Charles, Kane county.

Two consignments of Chinese, designed for employment in cotton factories, are on their way to Salem, Mass., and more are to follow.

The third trial of McGeehan, who was defended by Vallandigham, on a charge of murdering Myers, began at Dayton, Ohio, last week.

The small pox is slightly increasing in New-York city.

Father Grant will recover from his paralytic stroke.

Prof. Morse's brother Sidney is dead.

GEN. SCHENCK'S SPECULATIONS.

OPINIONS OF THE EUROPEAN PRESS. The Etoile Belge, of Brussels, says, 'We regret to hear from London that General Robert Schenck, the minister of the United States, has committed a serious indiscretion.'

of the respectability of the company. General Schenck, who is so highly esteemed in his own country, must have been singularly blind in the consequences of what he has done.

The London correspondent of the Hans-Bureau says: 'We have a sensation here in consequence of the unobscured fact that one of our leading foreign diplomatists, the ambassador of the United States, has seen fit to add his name to the list of persons who have recommended a certain mine in Western America as an excellent investment to the people of England.'

The London correspondent of the West-Zeitung (Bremen) alludes to the gross degradation of the dignity of a foreign ambassador has never been heard of. The report was at first hardly credited.

CUNDRANGO. THE DASHING BLISS AND COLFAX'S MOTHER. [N. Y. Herald Washington Letter.] At the commencement of the war a tall, dark-complexioned and dashing physician appeared in Washington with the air of a peerless warrior.

Bliss the splendid. This was Dr. Bliss, the introducer, through the assistance of the state department, of cundurango, which is claimed to be the only cure extant for cancer.

The Persian famine. An intelligent French traveller in Persia, M. Arminio Vambury, says if the famine should continue throughout the winter, a revolution followed by a change of rulers would be inevitable.

BUFFALOES IN THE GREAT STORM. A correspondent writing of the late terrible snowstorm along the line of the Pacific railroad says: 'The train was caught in a bank; it could neither back nor go ahead.'

GEN. SCHENCK'S SPECULATIONS. OPINIONS OF THE EUROPEAN PRESS. The Etoile Belge, of Brussels, says, 'We regret to hear from London that General Robert Schenck, the minister of the United States, has committed a serious indiscretion.'

MURDER WILL OUT.

ONE OF THE MOST EXTRAORDINARY HOMICIDES OF THE AGE.

AN DELIBERATE A VILLAIN AS EVER BLIGHTS THE PEACE OF A COMMUNITY.

HE APPEARS AT THE ALTAR CLAD IN THE CLOTHES OF THE ORDERED MAN.

HIS FINAL ARREST, TRIAL, CONVICTION AND PROBABLE EXECUTION.

Up to the fall of 1869 no happier family dwelt in Illinois than that of farmer Golden, residing about 12 miles northeast of Quincy. Virtue shed its richest reward upon his plodding, tranquil life.

THE WIFE OF BALLOU. Only the bride of a fortnight, never saw her guilty husband after he rode to Quincy to attend to the proposed land transfer.

THE BEAUTIFUL CLARA GOLDEN. Unsophisticated in character, as she was lovely in person, had not recently returned from school.

THE UNHAPPY PARENTS. We were made to anticipate a speedy return and a joyful reunion. As time progressed the day of expected arrival came but their son failed to appear.

THE FEARFUL NEWS. Struck the unhappy parents like a thunderbolt. After a few weeks, when the edge of their suffering was a little blunted.

BALLOU ARRIVED. His manner was exquisitely tempered with a dignified reserve.

AFTER THE MARRIAGE. Within a few days after the nuptial ceremony had been performed, the smiling miscreant who had so cunningly planned his crime and provided for his concealment, sought to consummate his harvest of the final fruits.

THE THIRD ACT OF THE DRAMA. Up to this time villainy had been triumphant, but the justice of God was striking it sword for distribution. Col. W. G. Ewing of Quincy, district attorney, on being consulted by Mr. Golden, was singularly struck by the whole train of circumstances.

factory condition until early in last May, a telegram from McKinney, Tex., announced the startling news of the discovery of the corpse of Delict. This was strangely brought about. A half wild cow belonging to a farmer in the vicinity of McKinney, was followed by her owner, who wished to pen her, in the heart of a dense chaparral.

MR. AND MRS. GOLDEN. Were treated with the most enthusiastic interest and sympathy by the people of McKinney, and Col. Ewing was presented with a superb gold-mounted cane as a testimonial of their recognition of his ability and untiring energy.

SOME METHODIST FIGURES. The statistical tables of the Methodists for 1871 have been published. The total number of preachers admitted on trial in the 72 annual conferences, was 793, being an increase of 69 over the year 1870.

THE MARRIAGE. Within a few days after the nuptial ceremony had been performed, the smiling miscreant who had so cunningly planned his crime and provided for his concealment, sought to consummate his harvest of the final fruits.
