GRAND THANKSGIVING DEMONSTRATION IN ENGLAND FOR THE RECOVERY OF THE PRINCE OF WALES.

BRILLIANT AND IMPOSING PAGEANT IN LONDON—MONSTER PROCESSION AND MILLIONS OF SPECTATORS.

London, Feb. 27.—Great preparations have been made for the illumination of the western front and the entire dome of St. Paul's to-night with ship lanterns and lime lights. The Bank of England, club houses, and all public buildings and appointment stores will be illuminated, and thousands of private dwellings and stores are making similar preparations. The streets through which the procession passes will be festooned with particolored lanterns along the entire route.

The Queen arrived at the cathedral between one and two o'clock; the entire assemblage rose as Her Majesty entered, and remained standing until she took her seat on the throne. The Te Deum was sung by a monster chorus of picked voices, after which the Archbishop of Canterbury sermoned. At the conclusion of the services at St. Paul's the procession returned to Buckingham palace, the prince riding in the same carriage with the queen. The weather was fine and the procession a complete success.

London, Feb. 27.—Thanksgiving in honor of the recovery of the Prince of Wales was of the grandest character. The streets were thronged, houses and public places gorgeously decorated and spectators numbered by millions. Twelve thousand soldiers and almost the entire police force guarded the lines. The interior decorations of St. Paul's were superb. It is estimated that fourteen thousand people were within the cathedral. The procession moved at noon.

Then the procession moved amid the ringing of bells and a chorus of 30,000 children. The bodies of the kingdom were represented, and the crack regiments of the army furnished detachments. The prince looked stronger than was expected. Immense cheering greeted the queen. The day was observed as a legal holiday throughout the kingdom. Thanksgiving services were reported in the principal cities of Ireland, and a special prayer was offered by order of the bishops of the Irish churches. In Dublin the Te Deum was sung in St. Patrick's Cathedral.

The royal procession commenced to move from Buckingham palace at 11½ a. m. As the queen left the court-yard of the palace a chorus of 30,000 children sang the national anthem "God save the Queen." The service at St. Paul's consisted of singing by a grand chorus of a Te Deum written for the occasion from the one hundred and fifteenth Psalm, the reading of prayers and a sermon by the Archbishop of Canterbury. Fifty seats were set apart for workingmen free of expense, at the special request of the queen. The choir was composed of picked singers from the various royal chapels. At the conclusion of the religious services the procession again formed and moved westward. The whole route, to and from the cathedral was seven miles in length, and the procession was four hours in motion. The best estimate placed the number of spectators who witnessed its passage at 4,000,000.

There were 11,000 troops, besides the London police force, engaged in keeping the streets clear. That there might be no interruptions or accidents along the entire route, strong fences were erected and behind these were double files of infantry and police to keep the eager crowd from overthrowing the barriers and obstructing the passage of the procession.

Batteries of artillery thundered forth salutes from several points along the line as the procession moved, and the bells of the churches in the metropolis added their peals to the joyful din. The illumination of to-night will be repeated to-morrow night. In spite of the great excitement which existed all along the enormous masses of spectators, there was little or no disorder. The police found themselves powerless to resist the tremendous pressure of the crowds, and were obliged to call on the soldiers for assistance.

At Berlin and elsewhere on the continent, the English assembled in their churches and held thanksgiving services. A special dispatch from Bombay states that the governor and officials attended the cathedral in state.

The Parsees assembled in their fire temples, the Jews in their synagogues, Hindoos in their temples, the Mohammedans and other religious sects in their several places of worship, and offered thanksgiving according to their various rites for the recovery of the English Prince.

Midnight.—Several serious accidents happened to-day owing to the pressure of the great mass of spectators in the line of procession. One man was crushed to death in Trafalgar Square, and numbers of people were more or less injured. Two stands, each containing one hundred and fifty persons, fell and many were badly bruised.

Dispatches from Dublin state that the celebration there was a splendid success. There was a procession to St. Patrick's cathedral, where a Te Deum was sung in the presence of the Lord Lieutenant and all the principal officers of the government. In the evening the city was illuminated.
