SURVEY OF FARMS

United States Department of Agriculture at Head of Plan.
Corps of Demonstrators Will Go Over Entire State.

Manhattan, Kan., Oct. 15.—In line with the policy of the Kansas State Agricultural college to be of all possible help to the farmers of the state, comes the announcement that a survey of the farms of the state will be made under the general direction of L. H. Goddard, United States department of agriculture, who has charge of the government work in farm management.
 Mr. Goddard was at the college last week completing plans for co-operative work with the extension department. A corps of demonstrators, known as farm efficiency men, will be under the general direction of Mr. Goddard and the divisions of the various agricultural colleges, one or more men serving in each state.
 It will be the duty of these men to make farm management surveys in the counties having county agents, making careful analysis of the business on seventy to a hundred farms in each county. After these reports have been carefully analyzed and the results compiled, the records will be returned to the owners of the farms. By comparing the report of his farm with that of his neighbor, the farmer can see where he failed or excelled.
 P. E. McNall, a graduate of the Kansas State Agricultural college, will have charge of the work in Kansas.

Wichita, Kan., Oct. 15.—With "Roads, Good and Bad," as his topic, Charles J. Dillon of Topeka, pointed out the values of good roads in farming communities, in an address before the International Dry Farming congress here Wednesday. He asserted that some of the middle western states are backward in road construction.
 "Bad roads and good spirits will never be found together," he said. "Bad roads and tenantry; bad roads and poor churches and schools; bad roads and no social life; bad roads and discontent—these combinations are always to be encountered."

OIL CATCHES FIRE.

Man Looking in Barrel Lights Match and Is Badly Burned.

Inman, Kan., Oct. 15.—Herbert J. Meyer of this place had an experience this week that he will remember.  He struck a match and this ignited the gas that had formed and it flashed up, burning him quite severely about the face and one of his hands. Mr. Meyer was very lucky that it did not get in his eyes. His burned face makes him look like an Indian chief.

BRITONS ARE SCARED

Even Americans Are Taking Out Insurance Against Bombs.

London, Oct. 15.—Some well known Americans in London are among those who have secured insurance against bombs. There has been such a rush for bomb insurance that the rates at Lloyd's took a decided upward leap, the highest being for properties near government buildings and the water front. Around such places the rate rose from five shillings to seven shillings sixpence and even to ten shillings per one hundred shillings, which is a decided advance, as the rate has been two shillings sixpence per one hundred shillings. One broker said:
 "We have been swamped with requests for insuring houses against bombs. It is natural that in certain districts the rate should be higher than in others, because such points are considered objective points of the German attack should they invade this country."

GERMANS MOVE BACK

London, Oct. 15.—"Germans arriving here," said the Copenhagen correspondent of the Times, "state that owing to the failure of the Russians to make progress against the Germans the Germans have decided to immediately transfer considerable masses of troops from the eastern to the western fronts for an advance on Paris."
 "This transfer probably already has begun as train traffic is delayed 48 hours." From the same source the correspondent learns there is a large amount of sickness among the German troops. "The plans for the occupation of Paris drawn up by the Germans before the battle of the Marne, and the corresponding, contemplated a demand for an indemnity of a billion dollars and unforgotten property of equal value was to be taken to Berlin, including art works and libraries, and retained there until satisfaction of the indemnity was made."
