THE LESSON IT TEACHES.

The August dry spell has ruined the corn crop of the western part of the State, and injured much of that in the eastern portion. But, in eastern Kansas, the early varieties of corn that were planted early were out of danger before the drought set in.

Year after year, the same story is told and it is now universally admitted that corn ought to be planted early, and that quick ripening varieties should be used—and yet every fall a large number of our farmers remark, "My early corn, what was of it, did well, but the most of it was injured by the dry spell."

Last spring, the early planted corn came up, but, in consequence of the long wet and cold spell, did not grow. However, as soon as suitable weather came, it shot ahead in a manner that indicated that the roots had not remained inactive—and is in splendid condition now.

Too many things are allowed to interfere with the corn planting. It has to give way to other things should. A farmer goes out after a rain and finds the land where he left off too wet to plow. Another part of his field may be just right, but he stops altogether rather than change his base—and a month afterwards harvest in his crop, is behind in working it, because of the lost time, and when he gathers his nibbins in, gloomily remarks that farming in Kansas don't pay.

The ground is now getting hard, and some are stopping their plows to wait for rain. The result will be late sown grain and smaller crops, if not an entire failure next year. The successful farmer is one who keeps ahead with his work. When two horses are not sufficient he puts on three, and if the land breaks up cloudy he goes over it with a harrow or roller. He prepares his land and has it ready to plant when the rain comes in instead of waiting until then to do his plowing.

Of course, it is often better to do things late than not at all, but there cannot be too much said on the importance of pushing the season.—Kansas Farmer. While we endorse the foregoing article as a whole, we beg leave to correct the total failure theory so far as Phillips county is concerned. We call the FARMER's attention to Mr. Nettleship's offer, but do not wish it understood that his is not an exception, but it is a fact that the corn crop of Phillips county is far from a failure, and other crops comparatively good. There is lots of corn this year that will go 40 bushels per acre.

A TEXT FOR A LECTURE.

About two years ago one Borgman of Hanover, a victim of whisky, abandoned his family, leaving them without support and with a mortgage of $200 on their little home in favor of one Chas. Jackers. The wife, in despair, commenced a suit for damages against Jackers, who had been keeping a saloon, for selling liquor to her husband, and received a judgment for $1,400 against him. Jackers has managed to evade the judgment, and has, meantime, foreclosed the mortgage, and on Wednesday morning turned Mrs. Borgman and her seven small children into the street. The Hanover Democrat, from which we learn these facts, says:

"Through the kindness of some friends another house was obtained, her goods moved into it, and her and her children again settled to house keeping. She offered, so we are informed, to pay the rent in advance to remain where she was, but this would not do, as the object seemed to be that she must go. Mrs. Borgman is a woman of unimpeachable character, of good natural ability, who has been and is yet living under very trying circumstances, and yet she is raising a family of girls who will compare favorably with any in this town, or in this part of the country. Struggling against adversity with a large family to support, she should receive the encouragement of the entire community." There is a text for temperance lecture in these facts, that would stir the most calloused heart. It will be utilized, no doubt, in the campaign.

Many people wonder how it is that the temperance cause has grown, and is growing, so strong. Just such incidents as those narrated above are the foundation on which it rests. There is probably not a family in the whole land where a son, or brother, or father, has not fallen a victim to this degrading and demoralizing vice. Upon some heartstone it has cast the ineffable shadow of crime; to others it has brought want and privation; to others, sorrow and desolation. Into some homes it has stalked like a course, and the whitening heads of father and mother have been bowed with shame and grief, others it has invaded like a thief, robbing the wife of love and happiness, and chilling the hearts of innocent childhood.

This is why, throughout the land, people are declaring war against liquor. It is a cry like that which went up in Egypt when the first born of every household was smitten, and the desolation of bereavement filled every home.—Atechison Champion.

American Polled Angus Association.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 20.—At the adjourned meeting held here this morning at the office of the "Live Stock Indicator," the breeders of Polled Angus Cattle perfected a permanent organization by the election of F. D. Underwood, President of the Merchants National Bank and President of the Prairie Cattle Company, of this city as permanent president. Jas. R. Gudge, Secretary and Treasurer, and five Vice Presidents. Nine directors were chosen; M. K. Cockrane, Quebec; G. W. Henry and A. B. Mathews, Kansas City; Wm. D. Lee, Camp Supply, Indian Territory; H. C. Burling, Maine; Messrs. Rogers and Findly, Illinois; and W. Estell and E. Leonard, Missouri. The title adopted is "American Polled Angus Association."

Resolutions were adopted requiring the herd book to be based on the polled herd book of Scotland, and to hold the next annual meeting in Kansas City at the fat stock show in 1883. A committee was appointed to solicit memberships and subscriptions to visit the fat stock show at Chicago in November. Sixteen breeders were present and the utmost harmony prevailed.

We are pleased to see the breeding of Polled Angus and Herford cattle receiving the attention they seem to be and we look forward to the time in the near future when these splendid breeds will be as common as that of the short horns and Devons now are. We were captivated by the splendid specimens of the Polled Angus on exhibition at our State Fair.

THE "JUDGE" AT HOME.

Judge James DeLong has returned to Independence, and claims that his grand work of charity in aiding the 60,000 destitute Southern refugees has been sadly broken into by Gov. St. John's letter denying that any suffering existed among that class in this state. If St. John has done this, and has stopped fraudulent begging, he has wrought a great work, and is entitled to the gratitude of the people of Kansas. In this connection, it might be mentioned that the "judge" proposes to give "a complete history of the whole affair" at a public meeting in Independence. If he was called upon by a committee of citizens appointed by a public meeting and given twenty-four hours to leave the state he has disgraced and lied about, it would be more in accord with the eternal fitness of things.

It might also be mentioned that the Independence Star is very much ruffled because the Times has exposed the tricks of "Friend" Daniel Votaw, who has been engaged in the same business of begging; and that paper proceeds to give Votaw a good character. Now, if Votaw will give the Star man a recommendation—or, Judge DeLong might do—the work would be complete. We have no doubt it would be easy to get the thing done.—Leavenworth Times.

The time for permitting such frauds to be perpetrated we had hoped was passed.—and we hope that the next party who travels through the east as this man DeLong has done, will be arrested for obtaining money under false pretence and punished accordingly.

IMPORTANT TO TRAVELERS.

A great many people are under the impression, when about to travel East or West, that it is cheaper to purchase tickets to the nearest important city or town and thence to their destination. Inquiry of any ticket agent of the Burlington routes will prove the rates quoted to be the lowest to all points via this line, as they are invariably based on the most direct routes. Daily fast express trains are now run between Denver and Chicago and Kansas City and Denver, and by a recent arrangement with connecting lines, through cars are run in connection with the Chicago express via Peoria to Indianapolis without change. Through tickets, quick time, baggage checked to destination, elegant Pullman Palace cars and day coaches are but a few of the many attractions that tend to make the Burlington Route the favorite with the traveling public.
