The Town of Hoisington.

Most people know that there is a town, or rather a prospective town, called Hoisington in the northern part of the county, on the new line of the Missouri Pacific. Some persons affect to believe that it will one day make a great town because it is surrounded by a rich farming country, others believe that it is possible that one day it will be the county seat of Barton County. We want to say in the first place that we have no unkind feelings for this town. We know several gentlemen in this town who are interested there, and we esteem them highly. We don't believe there is a single one of the members of this town company who has an idea that Hoisington will ever be the county seat of this county. The idea is simply absurd. Hoisington will no doubt make a respectable town some day, a town possibly as large as Ellinwood, but the idea of its ever reaching the size of Great Bend or becoming an active competitor is "a day dream as wild as the Arabian Nights." Great Bend is on the great trunk line of the Arkansas river in line with all the great and growing towns of the valley, it has a population of over three thousands, and property aggregating over a million. The same railroad that reaches Hoisington will also come to Great Bend. No town in the valley has fairer prospects than Great Bend. The only thing that ever can be urged in favor of Hoisington is that it is nearer the center of the county. This is a mighty slim argument when it stands alone and will never of itself make a county seat. Kanopolis is in the exact geographical center of Kansas, and when Kanopolis is the capital of the state we may begin to think that the people of Barton will want to move the county seat to the center of the county. The town of Hoisington has our best regards. We hope it will make a good town for its growth will aid Great Bend in a direct ratio.

The following complimentary notice is taken from the Denver Tribune and News: "Another large audience greeted the Dan Morris Sullivan Combination at the Academy of Music last night. The show is popular, and deservedly so. The panorama depicting scenes and life in Ireland are perfect representations, and the sketch work of Dan and Josie Sullivan is amusing and entertaining. This is the fifth visit of Mr. Sullivan to Denver, the first having been made as far back as 1870, and he has made a host of personal friends here. At G. A. R. 11th, and 13th.

Commencing November 25th the Kansas City, Ft. Scott and Gulf Railroad will run a line of through Pullman buffet sleeping cars between Kansas City and Jacksonville, Fla. The through car will leave Kansas City daily at 6:45, going via Memphis, Chattanooga, Atlanta and Macon. This popular railroad always keeps fully abreast of the times, and this is but another manifestation of their enterprise.

Saturday night the Grand had a fine audience to hear the Dan Morris Sullivan Combination and to see the beautiful scenes of Ireland as this troupe mirrors them. There are 80 of these paintings, each 18 feet high and 10 feet long. The moonlight effect on many of these pictures is charming, besides being instructive and amusing. The troupe had a warm welcome by our people, and will be heartily greeted when they return.—Topeka Capital.

Recently the B. & M. have been making surveys through this county. What their intentions are is hard to tell, but Great Bend ought to investigate the matter at all events. We need more roads. The B. & M. is one of the foremost roads of the west, and it would be a great days work for Great Bend to secure it. It will cost but little to see what can be done.

The State Historical Society desire to have a complete file of the BARTON COUNTY DEMOCRAT, beginning with our first issue, last February. If any of our readers have a complete file we should be glad to pay them five cents a number for the entire file, or if you have a considerable number of our issues we should be glad to purchase them.
