THE "TIMES" AND PARNELL. Discussion of the Forged Letters Occupies the House of Commons.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—Upon the re-assembling of parliament today Sir William Harcourt offered a motion declaring that the London Times in publishing the forged (Pigott) letters was guilty of a breach of privilege.

Mr. Harcourt, speaking in support of his motion, contended that a breach of privilege consisted during one session could be punished during another session.

Mr. Gladstone, who was loudly cheered as he rose to speak in support of the motion, said he could not consider that the Times' offense to the house had been purged by the apologies which had been made before the committee.

Victor Polonsky, a young electrician of Omaha, has a very ingenious way of killing rats. The spring rod is caught in an ordinary owl trap, the bottom of which is covered with rat. Mr. Polonsky has a small dynamo of his own manufacture. One wire, connecting with the dynamo, is fastened to the tin lining of the trap, and another is thrust into the prisoner's cell. The well known propensity of a caged rat to do battle with itself, and he seizes the wire between his teeth. In so doing he makes the mistake of his life. The circuit is complete, his jaws close on the wire with a death grip, and without a squeak and almost without a quiver he passes into a state of eternal dormancy.
