DIED—April 30, 1899, of catarrhal fever and paralysis—Thomas Tarry, aged seventy-two years.

Deceased was born at Manchester, England, February 13, 1827. At an early age he learned the trade of a machinist, which occupation he followed after coming to the United States, which we think was about the years '52 or '53.

He enlisted in a New York regiment at the breaking out of the war. After serving awhile as brigade bugler he was assigned to a brigade band where he served until the close of the war.

He was twice married. His first marriage was in England, (time not known to us) three children were born to this union, all of whom together with the wife died within one week with typhoid fever at Cleveland, Ohio, (we think) in 1871. The deceased has told us that he was so delirious with the fever at the time of his unfortunate loss of his family that he knew nothing of their death or burial until after his recovery. After this he drifted westward, in fact, worked in many places in Colorado, Nebraska and Kansas. Our personal acquaintance began with the deceased about the 15th of March, 1879, at which time a group of about a dozen men, who were domiciled in a 16x16 board shanty, who were then surveying out a townsite one-half mile east of Ogallah. His oddities at once became detected and he was soon put under the fire of all manner of gibes. The roustes soon discovered that they were trying to squeeze a hornet who was capable of taking care of himself, and thus he soon became a favorite. Since then he has been recognized as one of the old crowd of '79. So much for reminiscence.

About ten years ago he married a second time—Mary Oline—who is now pronounced an incurable at the Insane asylum at Topeka, Kansas. One child was born to them, now nine years old, Benjamin Harrison Tarry and "Duke of Ogallah."

If it may be said that all men leave an impression behind them when they depart—hence then above all that our deceased neighbor left with us is the impression of absolute honesty, a most positive disposition, a devotion to friends seldom equaled, a contempt for enemies never. So independent in disposition that if caught in mid-ocean on an ice float he would not humble himself to ask one of her Majesty's vessels to heave along side and take him off.

The loss of Thomas Tarry is truly and deeply mourned in this neighborhood. Faults that are mortal may have been his, but our memory recurs to so many of his good qualities of heart that with these and our tears they are lost to sight. In that Great Resurrection morn of which we talk and sing, when the righteous and the just and all shall be gathered together, all to be judged by that Great Unerring Judge, when every motive and purpose in life shall have been put in the balance and weighed, may we indulge in the hope that Thomas Tarry will be found entitled to that better immortality.

The funeral services were conducted under the auspices of Ellis Post G. A. B. (of which the deceased was a member) assisted by Captain Trego post, and the remains were interred beside other departed comrades in the Wa-Keeneey cemetery Tuesday forenoon. A NEIGHBOR.
