ANNOUNCEMENTS.

We are authorized to announce P. S. Whitlock of Kirksville, a candidate for the office of Assessor of Madison county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce W. L. LEEDS as a candidate for Police Judge of the City of Richmond, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce that The MADISONIAN is a candidate for entry into each home in Madison county, subject to the approval of the Family. We stand for the HOME CIRCLE first, last and always. $1.00 per year.

OUR SLOGAN: Reduce our taxes. OUR AIM: To bring about a reform in our administration of public affairs, to the end that the people may obtain relief in a reduction of their tax burden. OUR HELPERS: Every person who speaks kindly of us to his neighbors.

We appreciate suggestions. We want your opinion on public questions. Write to us, talk to us, phone us, but sign your name to all written communications. Phones—638, 659, 791.

THE BLUE AND THE GRAY

Elsewhere in this paper, we print the picture of the beautiful monument to be erected in Fitzgerald, Ga., to the Blue and the Gray, commemorating the great peace of our re-united country. We have secured it especially for our readers. It is fitting that such a monument be erected, and it is extremely gratifying that it is a Southern product.

We have long had this idea in our minds, only we had located it in our thoughts and plans at another point, but along somewhat different lines. We believe that there should be erected an immense bridge across the Ohio river between Cincinnati and Covington, spanning the old Mason and Dixon's Line, resting upon four great columns, one each of which should be built by the North, South, East and West.

Let this beautiful structure be typical of the re-united Government, supported equally by the East, West, North and South. In the center of the stream (if practicable), there should be a beautiful column rising high above the superstructure of this bridge, surmounted by the Dove of Peace.

The asperities of war have been forgotten, its wounds healed and our country is re-united in a common purpose. The water courses, the steel rails of transcontinental railroads, commerce, the telephone, the telegraph, and the daily mail, has made us one great family. Dan Cupid, too, has played his part, uniting the hearts of the North and South and filling them with a boundless love.

There is no East, no West, no North, no South;

"We are all but parts of one stupendous whole. Whose body, nature is and God the soul."

[Being of both Federal and Confederate blood, I bear no animosity to either side.—Editor.]

PAYNTER'S SPEECH.

We have read with care the speech of Senator Paynter delivered in the United States Senate in opposition to the Webb bill regulating inter-state shipments of liquor and we must confess that we are at a loss to tell whether the Senator is coming backwards, going forward or just standing still. That he is doing much puffing, making much noise, stirring up the dust and clouding the issue, is very evident. That he is a state righter, a federal righter and no righter at all, is quite evident. At the conclusion of his effort, he could not tell where he stood or why he was there. But he did the best that he could for the liquor trust.

That the Senate of the United States would waste its time in allowing a discussion on the constitutionality of the bill, is explained by the fact that it must allow a reasonable time for debates. Its the privilege of any senator to make an ass of himself at any time or for all the time as for that. Some exercise the privilege.

In making the constitution, the people delegated certain rights to the states, certain rights to the federal government and retained all others to themselves not specially delegated. The right to regulate commerce was one of the rights delegated to congress and thereby prohibited to the states. Congress has power to regulate commerce between the states by express words of the constitution. Sec. 8 of Article 1 says, "The Congress shall have power to regulate commerce among the several states." One form of regulation is by prohibiting a thing altogether. But if this should appear far fetched, then the right to prohibit shipments altogether, remains in the sovereign power of the people, who by their representatives in congress can prohibit the shipment of liquors entirely or in any territory it may deem expedient. That the congress has limited the right to that territory wherein the states have first acted and passed local option laws, does not invalidate the law commonly called the Webb bill. But we will see what the President does with the bill. He is a great lawyer. He goes, when his term ends, to one of the great institutions of learning and he must put the political game behind him.

ONE TERM

President Wilson will be untrue to himself and recreant to the cause of democracy, if he opposes the bill now pending in Congress to limit the presidential term to one term. The Democratic platform adopted at Baltimore stood unequivocally for this, and pledged Wilson to a single term. That our readers may know that we are right, we quote the platform declaration:

"We favor a single presidential term and to that end urge the adoption of an amendment to the Constitution, making the President of the United States ineligible for re-election, and we pledge the candidate of this convention to this principle."

It is said that Governor Beckham, who is now a candidate for the office of United States Senator from Kentucky, was the author of this provision of the platform. It matters not who wrote it, it is in the platform, and Governor Wilson accepted the platform and thereby adopted this pledge for himself and the party.

The Democratic party must redeem its pledges. The President of the United States must keep his pledge to the people. The Democratic representatives in Congress must be true to the pledges of the Democratic party. We believe that the States will refuse the amendment, but nevertheless, they should be given the opportunity to vote on it.

MR. WATTERSON

Kentucky's veteran editor, Marse Henry, celebrated his seventy-third anniversary on last Sunday week, the 16th, inst. He has been and is now a most picturesque figure in journalism. Independent in thought and expression, his writings are always read with interest. The editor of The Madisonian has always been one of his admirers and has enjoyed his editorials and has profited by them. While we differ from him in many things, we have always accorded to him sincerity of purpose. May he have many and pleasant returns of the day.

Now that Congress and the several States have pure food laws on the statute books, why not put a few laws on the books to protect people from worthless fabrics sold as genuine wool, pure linen, all silk, &c. This will give some great relief from the frauds that are being worked on the people daily, not by the merchant, but by the wholesale house whom they represent. Speak out in meeting, you gentlemen who want to represent this good old county of Madison in the next legislature.

SPECIAL JUDGE

Hon. J. M. Benton has been designated by the Governor to hold a special term of the Bath Circuit Court in the absence of the regular judge, Judge Allie W. Young. With Judge Benton after the Breathitt county outlaws in Clark county and Judge Allie W. Young after them on their native heath, it would appear that they had better "hide out little ones."

SILENCE AND NOTHING BUT SILENCE

The President maintains his silence in reference to the cabinet and refuses to take the people into his confidence. He may be right. However, the people whom he serves think otherwise.

WE REPEAT THAT PERJURY IS THE UNDOING OF THE COURTS AND OFTIMES BRINGS THEM INTO CONTEMPT FOR THEIR APPARENT FAILURE TO METE OUT JUSTICE. GO AFTER THEM GOOD AND STRONG AND BE SURE THAT IT IS NOT CONFINED TO BREATHITT COUNTY PEOPLE. THERE ARE OTHERS.

The militant Suffragettes will take a hand in the publicity act in the National capital and will have an immense procession. Let them march. Probably they can demonstrate that they can once more take up their lost art of housekeeping.

Politics "are" getting powerful warm around about Frankfort. If the public treasury is empty, as Gov. McCreary's political enemies charge, he will not have much trouble in showing the cause therefor.

Just think of it! Only one more week until the real Democratic fight commences.

A company of eight members of the Madison Institute senior class in the two splendid little plays, "King Rene's Daughter" and "Creatures of Impulse" and others in Swedish Folk Dancing and Miss Bess Wagers in a monologue specialty will be the bill at the Richmond Opera House very soon. The program is offered under the auspices of the 1913 class which is to graduate in May. The play always precedes the commencement exercises.

Two plays are to be presented on this occasion: "King Rene's Daughter" and "Creatures of Impulse." These are 15th Century plays. The scenery and costumes of those times. A variety of entertainment will be given and an enjoyable program is to be expected.

See "Iolanthe" the wonderful Princess in "King Rene's Daughter."

If you have friends visiting you, tell us about it; if you are visiting anywhere on pleasure or business, tell us about it. Ring any phone—638, 659 or 791.

Mr. Wm. Turley entertained a number of friends at six o'clock dinner on Tuesday.

Mrs. Joe Chenault entertained with a beautiful six o'clock dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Henry White, of Atlanta, Ga., last week.

The Mary Pattie Music Club was delightfully entertained on Wednesday, February 19th, by Miss May James. The subject of the meeting was "National Aims" and the full program was beautifully rendered.

Mrs. Elizabeth Caldwell, Mrs. L. Scott and two daughters, and Mrs. Geo. Cogar, of Danville, motored to Richmond Tuesday night to attend the Christian Science lecture, and were the guests of Mrs. Ward at Hotel Glyndon.

One of the most catchy, laughable and well staged plays that has been presented here by amateurs, was Mr. Bob given Saturday evening in the Normal Chapel. The students were coached by Mrs. Mary Dean, whose ability in this line of work was attested by the fine presentation of the play.

Of Miss Vories, in "Mr. Bob" too much cannot be said, her acting was spontaneous, her manner irresistible. Pattie, the maid, "daffy" on dramatic art, was truly ludicrous and shared the laurels with her.

Philip Royson and Kathryn were both extremely good while Mr. Brown, Miss Rebecca, and stolid Jenkins were all roundly applauded and gave evidence of great histrionic ability. The vocal duet by Miss Elizabeth Hume and Mr. Geo. B. DeJarnett with Mrs. Johnson at the piano was quite a feature of the evening and the gifted young singers were called back to the stage.

The musical program by Miss Issie Million, violinist, and Mrs. Hoskinson, piano accompanist was greatly enjoyed. This closed a week of good things—"a feast of reason and a flow of soul."

On Thursday evening the Third and Fourth Grades of the Model School, under Miss Hulda Dilling's training, presented a dramatized fairy story and were greeted by a house full to overflowing. The play was one of the prettiest ever presented by the little folks of Richmond, and reflected great credit on the teacher and the pupils. We cannot name the stars for they were all stars of greater or less magnitude, but will give the cast of characters:

- King..... Rollins Burnam

Miss Henrietta Luxon.
8 Piano Solo—Valse Gracieuse.....Spindler
Miss Miree McDougle.
Miss Margaret Arnold was a guest of the evening, while little Miss Alice Clark Kellogg played one of Beethoven's Sonatas to the delight of the club.
The guests were then invited to the dining room where a delicious luncheon of chicken salad, wafers, cheese balls, nut sandwiches, olives and almonds was served. In the center of the table was a beautiful cherry tree laden with fruit and the hatched underneath, while the daintiest little souvenirs of cherries, sprigs from the tree, and hatched were passed around. The members then departed with many expressions of appreciation to the hostess for so delightful an evening.

Mrs. J. J. Greenleaf entertained the Married Ladies Bridge Club on Friday evening very delightfully. The out of town guests were Misses Chinn and Settle, of Frankfort. The games were succeeded by a beautiful luncheon and the trophy was won by Mrs. T. H. Pickels.
