With the acquisition of Mexico Uncle Sam can also build his own railroad line from Washington City to Panama. As a Nation we are going some.

Chief Justice White of the U. S. Supreme Court has ruled that the owner of an automobile is not responsible for damages arising from the operation of his machine which has been used without permission.

AIN'T IT THE TRUTH.
The Daily News of London says: "If the Washington government was really surprised at Carranza's ultimatum, its surprise is not very creditable to its statesmanship and intelligence."

ADVERTISING BY PHYSICIANS.
Following the midwinter Conference on Public Health, Legislation and Medical Education of the American Medical Association, held in Chicago, February 23 and 24, numerous news-items and editorial comments appeared in the public press regarding one of the papers presented at the Conference. The substance of the newspaper items was that the American Medical Association was considering the revision of its principles of ethics with a view to removing or modifying the restrictions placed on individual physicians as to personal advertising. Some of the reports stated that revision of the principles of ethics would be taken up at once, and that an overwhelming majority of members of the Association were in favor of such a change. So far as we know, says The Journal of the American Medical Association, there is no intention or indication of any change in the position of the American Medical Association on this question. The reports in the newspapers were due to apprehension of the character of the paper in question and the intent of the writer.

The paper was an argument for a better understanding and closer co-operation between the medical profession as an organization and the newspaper publishers as a class. The author did not attempt to discuss the question of personal advertising on the part of physicians; the proposition was set forth and defended in the paper and presented to the Conference was something entirely different from personal exploitation; it was a plea for closer cooperation between medical organizations and the press for the public good, and not for personal benefit. It suggested that the expert knowledge of the medical profession could be utilized by the public press in two ways: first, by the dissemination through the newspapers of scientific knowledge which would be of value to the public in preventing disease, and second, in placing at the disposal of those newspapers which desired it the expert knowledge of the medical profession in separating worthy and reputable from dishonest and disreputable institutions which might seek publicity through the newspapers.

Of these two important activities one has already been inaugurated by the American Medical Association, and the other is worthy of serious consideration. Neither of them, however, has the slightest bearing on the question of personal exploitation of physicians through newspaper advertising or by any other means. An honorable physician could not conscientiously advertise for personal business, for the same reason that the honorable minister and lawyer would not advertise. A professional man has no commodity to sell; his only assets are his scientific knowledge and his personal ability; and he who claims to possess greater knowledge or greater skill than his professional associates—whether physicians, preachers or lawyers—is an egotist, or worse, and forfeits the respect of both his professional brethren and his fellow citizens.

A HINT TO THE UNEMPLOYED.

In a statement commending the New York Globe for devoting a whole page daily to free advertisements of "Situations Wanted" for the help of the unemployed, the American Protective Tariff League suggests that the Globe place in the center of this free advertising page a condensed statement telling the jobless how they came to lose their jobs and how to get back and hold their jobs. The League says that it is eminently proper that good advice should go with benevolence, and adds that if the Globe will combine the two in such a way as to diminish the probability of a recurrence of the conditions which have prompted its large measure of practical help to the unemployed, the ultimate benefit of its efforts will be materially enhanced.

The statement which the tariff league suggests that the Globe use reads: "You Lost Your Job Because of the Underwood Free-Trade Tariff. The Way to Get Back Your Job is to Help Get Back a Protective Tariff."

NO GENERAL MARKET FOR AEROPLANES.

A few years ago it was predicted that in a short time aeroplanes would be in general demand and use. Maybe they will be some day, but developments of the last year or two fail to indicate it. Take conditions in the business in Italy, for instance. The aeroplane industry, which was established four or five years ago and which had developed markedly by 1912 in Turin, its center, lost ground during 1913, and the outlook is quite unfavorable. Aeroplanes for sporting purposes are not in demand, and the Italian Government uses almost exclusively machines imported from France. The total Italian army equipment in 1914 will comprise some 180 aeroplanes.

The Wright business was capitalized at a million and men of great wealth were interested. It was predicted that an enormous factory would soon be needed to meet the American requirements. It has not come and it will not come until the great problem of stabilization is successfully met. A few adventurous souls have bought aeroplanes for their personal sport, but most rich American sportsmen still find the fast automobile exciting enough for their requirements.—Ohio Republican News.

THE DAILY NOVELETTE.

The Biggest Lion.
He was the hero of the day,
This man of great attraction;
But wait! What's this that draws a crowd?
Great heavens! Watch his action!

The Henflew-Edwards' semi-monthly lion reception was at its height.
Wit, beauty, talent, genius flowed like water. It was the most dazzling successful of all Mrs. V. Pierpont Drexel-Hyphen Henflew-Edwards' many famous lion receptions.

The decorations, which alone cost Henflew-Edwards a quarter of a million of the ninety-eight million his grandfather made manufacturing "Diamond Spray" shower baths for society dogs, consisted of trollees of amber Fiftieblooms, with live fire-flies, each with a thread tied about its tail and fastening it to a twig flashing amid the blossoms.

But what great man can this be who has gathered around him so thick a crowd of worshipers, all gaping for a look?
'Tis no single man, prying reader. The open-mouthed crowd surrounds a little group composed of Gen. Beeswax Issinger, only living survivor of the Revolutionary War; Clarence M. Sizzlewatt, discoverer of the Sizzlewatt Waters of Perpetual Youth, and Duncan K. Tisick, the eminent surgeon who has restored a man to life by amputating his head and replacing it with the head of a Kingwaxian armadillo. Small wonder that three such notable men, all in a bunch in the same place, should attract the wit and beauty of the assemblage as a Saxonian bar attracts a nitate of klinkfinks.

But lo! A frown gathers on the faces of the three famous men! The crowd has deserted them. The hero of the hour has entered, superbly late as usual, and is already the mute but glorious center of attraction.

With the exception of Gen. Issinger, Mr. Sizzlewatt and Dr. Tisick, every guest is surrounding Bernardas, introducer of the Bernardo maxixe!—Louisville Times.

DOCTOR SAID HE HAD DROPSY

Some time ago I had an attack of grippe which finally settled in my kidneys and bladder. I doctored with the doctors and they claimed I had dropsy. I tried other remedies and got no relief from any of them. My condition was such that I was unable to work for about two months and the annoying symptoms caused me a great deal of trouble and pain. I was hardly able to turn over in bed. Seeing one of your Almanacs, I decided to give Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root a trial and after taking several bottles was able to resume my work again. I cannot say too much in praise of your Swamp-Root as the results in my case were truly wonderful.

Yours very truly,
ROBERT BALLARD,

BULBS FURNISHED CITIZENS

Marion Officials Show How Civic Beauty Can Be Boosted.

The city health officer at Marion, O., has introduced an innovation which will go a long way to further civic beautification. He has announced that he has ready for distribution twenty-one bushels of flower bulbs which will be given away to citizens who desire to beautify their lawns. Certainly such an offer will be accepted generally by the citizens, and the result of this proposition will bring for Marion many compliments later on in the season.
