

ACCIDENTAL SHOT MAY COST LIMB OF YOUNG SARDIS MAN

Chancellor Fowler Shot in the Leg When Gun in Uncle's Hands Accidentally Discharges—Limb May Be Lost.

Chancellor Fowler, 22 years of age, is in a critical condition at his home near Sardis as the result of an accidental shooting on Claude Gifford farm in the Sardis neighborhood Tuesday afternoon.

Young Fowler with his great uncle, Mr. James Fowler, had treed a mink in a rock pile on the Gifford farm and were searching for the mink when the accident happened. Young Fowler was throwing back the rocks in the pile to locate the mink when the animal ran out. The older Mr. Fowler was holding a shot gun in his hand and being afraid to shoot it for fear it would strike his nephew, he struck at the mink. The barrel struck the rock pile and the gun discharged. The lead struck young Fowler in the right leg between the hip and knee, inflicting a very serious wound.

The wounded man was rushed to his home and given medical attention. The wound is a very serious one, the large bone in the leg being entirely severed. He will probably lose the leg.

STATE DISTILLERS TO HELP CENTER LIQUOR

Whisky Men of Kentucky Meet in Louisville With Internal Revenue Head and Pledge Their Aid.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 11. — Kentucky distillers pledged their co-operation to the Government in concentrating the liquor stocks into a limited number of warehouses at a conference here yesterday with David H. Blair, United States Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

After a tour of inspection of a half dozen warehouses in the city, which followed the meeting, Mr. Blair announced that all Kentucky warehouses to be used in housing the liquors will be designated in the immediate future. He said actual steps to get the concentration program under way would be taken within a short time.

Mr. Blair, who was accompanied to Louisville by Dr. J. M. Doran, chief chemist of the Prohibition office, will leave this morning with a party of distillers to inspect warehouses at Frankfort, Lexington, Maysville, Cynthiana and possibly at other places.

The Louisville Public Warehouse Company is the only Kentucky warehouse officially designated thus far by Washington officials for the concentration of the state's liquor stocks of 500,000 barrels, which represents approximately half of the nation's supply. Fewer than twenty warehouses in the state will be used for concentration purposes.

CARDINALS DEFEATED BY COLONELS IN TUESDAY'S GAME

Louisville Colonels Permit Maysville Cardinals to Make Three Runs But Obtain Eleven for Themselves First.

With football weather prevailing Tuesday in the game between the Louisville Colonels and the Maysville Cardinals, the Colonels won by the score of 11 to 3 with the count even resembling the gridiron score.

The Colonels used their regular lineup with Estell on the mound for seven innings when he changed places with Ellis in right field after a sufficient lead had been gained. The Cardinals had one big inning, the sixth, with Slayback and Kresser's doubles and Burman's triple, coupled with an out netted three runs.

Brakefield started for the locals and the second proved his downfall though he continued until the sixth. The visitors more than batted round in this frame scoring seven runs on five hits and numerous errors on the left side of the infield. Hurst worked the final four rounds on the hill and held them scoreless because they were run down.

OVER TEN MILLION DOLLARS GO TO THE GROWERS FOR WEED

Reynold's Purchase of Last Slice of Pooled Tobacco Brings Much Cash to Kentucky Farmers.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 11. — The sale just completed between the R. J. Reynolds Co. and the Burley Co-operative Association was the largest deal in burley tobacco on record in Kentucky in a single transaction between tobacco growers and a single purchaser. The only previous transaction in leaf tobacco anything like its magnitude was that in which the Burley Tobacco Society, headed by Clarence LeBus, sold its pooled tobacco to the four leading American manufacturers, following the cut-out of the burley tobacco crop in 1908.

Negotiations leading up to this sale have been in progress for the past ten days, President Stone and Director of Warehouses—Ralph M. Barker representing the association and Mr. Kirk the Reynolds company. The deal finally was completed late Monday and the tobacco will be turned over to Mr. Kirk as rapidly as his company can take it.

While officials of the association would not discuss the amount of money involved, one of the members of the association said he believed it would be somewhere between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000.

Both President Stone and Director Barker have declared for weeks that the market conditions were such that the holdings of the association were bound to be sold soon.

This view was justified by the government reports showing that the quantity of tobacco in the hands of manufacturers was much lighter than at the same period of last year and that early government forecasts had greatly overestimated the size of the 1922 production. The manufacturers who have purchased from the association previously have been satisfied with their purchases as evidenced by this large purchase of the Reynolds company, one of the largest of American manufacturers, which had previously made two large purchases of association tobacco.

Of the 70,000 members of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, 58,000 will share in the results of the sale of the pool's holdings, as 12,000 of the members have been added since last year's crop was sold.

DEATH COMES VERY SUDDENLY TO MR. M. F. COUGHLIN

Prominent and Wealthy Resident Died Suddenly Tuesday Afternoon of Heart Trouble at Cincinnati Hospital—Burial Friday.

Maysville was shocked late Tuesday day with the announcement of the sudden death in Cincinnati of Mr. M. F. Coughlin, prominent local business man.

Mr. Coughlin, who had been in ill health for the past several years, with his wife, went to Cincinnati Monday morning to consult a specialist. He appeared to be in as good health as he had been for weeks when he left Maysville and no change was noticed in his condition at Cincinnati. He ate a very hearty dinner at noon Tuesday and was at the Scarlet Oaks Hospital, Clifton, when a heart attack seized him and he died within a very short time.

The body was brought to Maysville Wednesday afternoon over the C. & O. and taken to his home at Third and Market street. Funeral will be held from St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock Friday morning and burial will be made in the Washington cemetery.

The deceased was born at Germantown, in 1866, the son of Maurice and Johanna Coughlin but the greater part of his life was spent in this city. He married Miss Catherine Fitzgerald, of this city, who survives him, as well as one daughter, Miss Catherine, and one son, Bernard. He is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Laurance McNamara, and one brother, Mr. Thomas Coughlin, both of Germantown.

Mr. Coughlin was an honored member of Maysville Council Knights of Columbus and a clever gentleman whose host of friends mourn his passing.
