

JUDGE COCHRAN TO SENTENCE 40 DRY LAW VIOLATORS

Last Criminal Case in Federal Court Now in Hands of Jury—Many Wait Sentence of Judge Which Is Expected Today.

Covington, Ky., Nov. 1.—With more than forty men and women waiting to receive sentence for violating the national prohibition laws, the federal jury in United States District Court for the Eastern District of Kentucky, after disagreeing yesterday, today will attempt to reach a verdict in the case of Henry and Mrs. Clara Nagel, charged with illegal possession of whisky.

The Nagel case will conclude the liquor docket for the present session of court. As soon as a verdict is reached Judge Cochran will summon the forty violators and sentence them. Sixteen of the number were tried by jury and found guilty and the remainder pleaded guilty.

During the trial of the two Nagels prohibition agents testified that while returning from an investigation on last May 9, at Constance, Boone county, they saw Mrs. Nagel driving in her car from a little green cottage near the Ohio River below Fairview. When they approached her, they said, she threw a bottle of moonshine to the roadway and broke it and then sounded a signal on the horn of her car.

The agents said they saw a man in shirt sleeves run from the cottage toward the river. When they fired at the man, they said, Mrs. Nagel exclaimed, "Don't shoot my husband." Mrs. Nagel was arrested and brought to Covington, but the man escaped.

The same night Chief Cook of Ft. Thomas said he watched the Nagel home for the return of Mr. Nagel so he could arrest him for the government. Chief Cook was positive that Nagel did not return that night.

Both of the Nagels testified they had a party of guests at their home on the night in question. She admitted going to the green cottage to purchase some liquor for her father, who was ill. She said she also drove to Constance to buy groceries.

Walter Wahl, Newport, entered a plea of guilty to making moonshine whisky in a garage on Orchard street, Newport. Wahl tried to exonerate Emil Condrea and Robert Disconella, who were indicted with him. Judge Cochran ordered each of the three men to serve three months in jail.

DIPHTHERIA EPIDEMIC IN FLEMING COUNTY

Eight Die in One Neighborhood from the Disease—Schools Are Closed.

The Fleming Gazette says: Austin, son of Owen Moxley, died of diphtheria at Sherburne last week, making to date eight deaths in that vicinity, it is said, from this contagious disease. If this is true, it would seem time for the county board of health to take some effective measure to stamp out the disease in that locality.

According to the State Board of Health, this can be done, and nearly all of the cases can be cured by the prompt use of antitoxin. The State Board also urges measures of isolation and quarantine for eradicating the disease, and measures that will prevent the loss of human life ought to be made available promptly.

As a result of the cases of diphtheria and scarlet fever in the vicinity, the Fleming County Board of Health on Saturday ordered the schools at Sherburne, Concord and Pecks Ridge to close. The school at Pecks Ridge had already been closed, and will remain closed for a while longer. It is said some of the deaths that have occurred have been due to scarlet fever instead of diphtheria. There are one or two new cases, but it is now hoped the epidemic will be suppressed.

BURLEY POOL IS NEARING 75,000 GOAL SET OUT

Only About 2500 More Members Needed to Bring Co-operative Membership Up to Figures Long Ago Put Up as Goal.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 1.—With only about 2,500 contracts needed to reach the goal of 75,000 members set some time ago by officials of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, directors of the association held their regular monthly meeting in Lexington at 10 o'clock this morning.

Contracts to the number of 890 were received at the offices of the field service division the last two days. Assistant Chief William Collins said yesterday, and more are coming in by every mail.

It was said to be probable that the directors will consider at their meeting matters growing out of the organization of the American Tobacco Exchange at Louisville October 24 and preparations for the Burley Association's part in the big national conference of co-operative marketing associations to be held in Washington December 14 to 16.

Mr. Collins said that West Virginia growers had resumed their campaign with vigor, following the statement that the date for the closing of the books of the association, November 6, would not be extended and that growers must choose before that date which method of marketing they will use for the sale of their 1922 crops. J. Sherman Porter, editor of the Burley Tobacco Grower, the association publication, will speak at Hurricane, West Virginia, Saturday afternoon at a final meeting to be held in the West Virginia territory.

The executive committee was in session Tuesday in preparation for the meeting of the directors today.

NEW PLAY TO BE SEEN HERE SOON

"The Unloved Wife" With a First-Class Cast Coming to Washington November Sixth.

Those who still have faith in the theater as a place where real art may be made a successful enterprise, will welcome the forthcoming engagement of "The Unloved Wife," a new play in three acts at the Washington theater, afternoon and night, Monday, November 6th, with matinee for ladies only, and it seems entirely possible that the rising generation may yet have the opportunity of becoming acquainted with the better forms of semi-classic dramatic works. It is a field that has been altogether neglected in recent years.

"The Unloved Wife" is an impressive, forcible story that will tighten the heart strings and capture the imagination, yet built upon a happening in real life, a miraculous event that changed a woman's destiny. It is a play that bares a woman's soul, and is a fascinating story depicting the sterling virtues and weaknesses of mankind. It abounds in thrills; is daring in its revelations, startling in its intensity, and is presented by an excellent cast of players, who will give the fullest flavor to the lines and situations.

The evening performances are for everybody over sixteen years of age.

DRY AGENTS SCORE AGAIN IN HIGH COURT

Defendant Must Prove Methods Used in Obtaining Search Warrants are Faulty.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 31.—In cases involving violations of the prohibition laws the burden of proof is on the defendant to show that the methods by which search warrants were obtained were irregular, provided the warrant itself is properly made out, the court of appeals held today in affirming the finding of the Madison circuit court in the case of Curtis Terrell against the commonwealth. The opinion was written by Judge W. E. Settle.

Terrell was convicted on a charge of possessing liquor for sale and was fined $300 and sentenced to 60 days in jail. His wife was jointly indicted and tried, but was acquitted. Terrell contended that the commonwealth should have proved that the methods by which the search warrant was obtained were irregular. The court held that it was the place of the defendant to prove the warrants were issued on insufficient grounds.

In the case of Ellis Craft against the commonwealth, Judge Settle also held that the authority issuing a search warrant is the legal custodian of the warrant and in the event it is lost no one else is competent to testify as to its issuance. In handling down this opinion Judge Settle reversed the finding of the Floyd circuit court, which fined Craft $175 and sentenced him to 30 days in jail.

Particulars of the sudden death of Robert L. Fleming, at Detroit, are told as follows by the Fleming Gazette: Last Wednesday morning about 8 o'clock Robt. L. Fleming, ex-Fleming county boy, at a crossing 18 miles from Detroit while driving a motor car was struck by an interurban freight train and almost instantly killed.

His automobile was dashed to pieces and he died within a few minutes while being conveyed to a doctor's residence. Young Fleming was a salesman for an eyeglass firm and when killed was en route from Detroit to Ann Arbor. It is said the train did not give the proper alarm for crossings, which may have been the cause of the sad accident.
