Thib's Shoe & Hat Store,

Goods That Have a Reputation.

A GOOD EXAMPLE.
You may be sure the immortal Washington wore a becoming hat, the style in keeping with the times. You may emulate his example if you'll procure your head gear from our stock—always sure to be of the latest mode, becoming and fair-priced.

Our Hocker Bootee Shoes are long wearers. They wear almost twice as long as ordinary shoes. Because they are made by thoroughly reliable makers and only of the best material. Give them a trial and you will never regret having done so.

First in Profession, But no Where in Practice.

An address to the people of North Carolina, by the Conference of Educators held on February 13, 1903, opens with this declaration of principle:

"Profoundly convinced of the prophetic wisdom of the declaration of the Fathers, made at Halifax, in 1776, that 'religion, morality, and knowledge being necessary to government, schools and the means for education shall be forever encouraged.'"

So much for a profession of faith; religion is given the first place in this declaration of the Fathers, of 'the prophetic wisdom' of which the descendants of the present generation are 'profoundly convinced'; but when it comes to practical application in the common public school system of the country religion is eliminated altogether. The door of the school house is barred against it, and, in effect, against morality too, for morality is founded upon religion. But if religion and morality, as well as knowledge, are necessary to good government—and we have the declaration of the Fathers for it,—then it follows that a system of public education in which they are discarded is fatally defective. There is no escape from this conclusion. Things are out of joint under present conditions, and a revision is in order.

The declaration of the Fathers should be changed so as to conform to the practices of their descendants, or the practice of the latter must be altered so as to accord with that declaration of principle of 'the prophetic wisdom' of which they are so 'profoundly convinced.' Which shall it be?

A Sure Thing

It is said that nothing is sure except death and taxes, but that is not altogether true. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is a sure cure for all lung and throat troubles. Thousands can testify to that. Mrs. C. B. VanMetre of Shepherdstown, W. Va., says: 'I had a severe case of Bronchitis and for a year tried everything I heard of, but got no relief. One bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery then cured me absolutely.' It's infallible for Croup, Whooping Cough, Grip, Pneumonia and Consumption. Try it. It's guaranteed by All Druggists. Trial bottles free. Reg. sizes 50c, $1.00.

Mrs. W. H. Kagan had the misfortune of losing her father Mr. Joseph Crabb who died in Memphis, Tenn., on the 18th, inst.

We reproduce the following short biography from a Memphis paper: 'He had been among the real workers from whose efforts progress and prosperity of this city had come for a period of fifty years or more, and yet his life was so unpretentious and his disposition so devoid of self-seeking that he was really known only by those with whom he came in contact in a business way. Coming to this country from Scotland in early life, a well-trained and intelligent printer, he shortly thereafter located in Memphis and at once gained a solid place in the confidence and esteem of the fraternity. Scrupulously faithful to every duty, the general public had little opportunity to learn his sterling worth as a citizen, for the reason that business and home received his undivided attention. Among the printers of Memphis, employing and employed, no member of the craft held higher rank for efficiency, loyalty and integrity.'

Bradstreet shows a small diminution in the cost of articles ranged under the heading of living expenses. Breadstuffs and meats are now slightly cheaper than they have been for the past two years, but the decrease is decidedly too small to cut a figure of any material benefit. It may be, however, that this is the beginning of a reduction that will continue until the man of limited means will appreciate its benefits. Living expenses are now exceedingly high and the poor man feels the situation most keenly.

Dissolution Notice.

The One Crop Idea.

The following interview copied from the Crowley Signal should be a lesson that a great many of our farmers could heed with profit, as it applies as well to this section as it does to Crowley:

'You rice people are afflicted with the same disease that affects our cotton planters. You are one crop planters, and when you experience even a partial failure it hurts you.

'In spite of many short crops and even total failures, we are this year again putting every acre of our land to cotton, and I suppose you farmers are doing the same thing here—planting only rice.

'One reason why we plant only cotton is that we have to depend on black labor, entirely, and cotton is the only crop a negro is fit to raise. It requires not nearly so much hoeing as corn and the land does not have to be prepared as carefully. We might raise corn and vegetables if we only had the white labor.

'But this objection does not affect you, since your labor is largely white. There seems to be no good reason why you should not raise other grain besides rice, as well as live stock, poultry and vegetables. Your rice is a very profitable crop, but a one crop country is always in a bad way when that crop is short.'

Justice in Louisiana.

In the acquittal of the negro, Albert Williams charged with the murder of Gus. N. Grant, a white man prominently known in this part of the State, the fact is clearly exemplified that there is no such thing as a law for the white men and a separate law for the negro in this State. Albert Williams was tried by a Jury of twelve white men, who acted according to the law and evidence to the best of their ability, regardless of the color of the man's skin.

The evidence seems to have been very much in the negro's favor, and this, coupled with the charge of Judge Hall, that the negro had as much right in the swamp as Grant and as much right to protect himself, served to make the jury bring in the verdict of acquittal.

Such examples of even handed justice will show the Northern people that there is as much justice in Louisiana for the negro as anywhere in the North, and a great deal more than has been displayed in Illinois and Indiana, where the blacks are driven out because they ask for work.

I have had occasion to use your Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and am pleased to say that I never used anything for stock that gave half as good satisfaction. I heartily recommend it to all owners of stock.

J. B. BLSHER, St. Louis, Mo.
Sick stock or poultry should not eat cheap stock food any more than sick persons should expect to be cared by food. When your stock and poultry are sick give them medicine. Don't stuff them with worthless stock foods. Unload the bowels and stir up the torpid liver and the animal will be cured, if it be possible to cure it. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine unloads the bowels and stirs up the torpid liver. It cures every malady of stock if taken in time. Secure a 25-cent can of Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and it will pay for itself ten times over. Horses work better. Cows give more milk. Hogs gain flesh. And hens lay more eggs. It solves the problem of making as much blood, flesh and energy as possible out of the smallest amount of food consumed. Buy a can from your dealer.

'To be sold.—For five shillings, my wife, Jane Heeband, she is stoutly built, stands firm, and is sound, wind and limb. She can sow and reap, hold a plough and drive a team; and would answer any stout, able man that can hold a tight rein, for she is hardmouthed and head strong; but if properly managed would either lead or drive as tame as a rabbit. Her husband parts with her because she is too much for him. Inquire of the printer, N. B.—All her clothes will be given with her.' The foregoing is an advertisement of over a century ago, and was first published in Virginia.

The Pasteur Treatment.

A dispatch from Baltimore, of date May 26th, carries the gratifying news that the fourteen patients bitten by a mad dog in St. Mary Parish, recently, and sent up there for treatment, are all doing nicely. The dispatch proceeds to say:

The wounds on all the patients have already healed nicely. Prof. Kerle, Director of the Pasteur Institute, said tonight:

'The Pasteur treatment is not a cure, but a prevention, and should be used immediately after the exposure to insure safety. It consists of injections of virus fixed three-eighths, that is, a virus which will invariably kill an animal in ten days. The spinal cords are attenuated by desiccation in dry air at a temperature of 23 degrees centigrade in a dark room. The treatment is begun with a cord having been submitted to desiccation for twelve days. Then come the cords of 11, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, and 1 day's contact with dry air. The principle is the same as in diphtheria.

A child that has had diphtheria is immune to it for some time. Similarly a person with injections in their system of a rabbit that has had rabies, as it were, gets in the state of the child that has had diphtheria. To put it in language that is more popular than scientific, they have had rabies by proxy. The dead-rabbit has had it for the living man. The rabbit system, now proof against a second attack of rabies, is injected into the man's system, so when the poison of the bite begins, there is no food for the disease to work on. The rabbit system has been worked already, and the rabbit's now immune spinal marrow injected into the human body renders the man proof against the disease. Everything depends on taking the treatment before the poison begins to work.

'The very foundation of Pasteur's treatment is prevention, not cure. Once the disease has begun to work in the human system, no power on earth can avert the most terrible pain and death known to science. The Pasteur treatment is to prevent the disease beginning to work.

'Cauterizing is useless unless done a few seconds after the bite with fuming nitric acid.'

It is now clear that the Louisiana oil field is exceedingly extensive. At several points in the State oil wells have been, and at more points may be, sunk with profit. Jennings continues to 'bring in' paying wells. At Welsh the situation is highly satisfactory, the discoveries there being considerable in quantity and in quality, unexcelled by any oil produced in this country. In this field great developments are assured for the near future. The Mamou field has produced some wells, while Anse la Butte and other points promise gratifying results. The 'bringing in' of four new wells in Louisiana in the last week proves that the work of developing the oil industry of the State is continuing as actively and as vigorously as ever, even though there be less enthusiasm regarding it.—Ex.

The universe pays every man in his own coin; if you smite it will smite upon you in return; if you frown you will be frowned at; if you sing you will be invited into gay company; if you think you will be entertained by thinkers, and if you love the world and earnestly seek for good there is there, you will be surrounded by loving friends, and nature will pour into your lap the treasures of the earth. Censure, criticism and hate and you will be censured, criticized and hated by your fellow men. Every seed brings forth after its own kind. Mistrust begets mistrust; jealousy begets jealousy, hatred begets hatred, confidence begets confidence; kindness begets kindness and love begets love. Resist and you will be resisted. To meet the aggressive as suits every entity is a up tip, it is impervious while your's moun tain granite melts and floats away on the bosom of the river of love.
