'Possibly,' said I, with no disposition to combat views based on I knew not what painful experience. 'But I don't care for that sort of liking—from a woman, or from a dog.'

'Then I'll do without,' said I. 'Give her an income, and she'll go. I see it all. You've flattered her vanity by showing your love for her—that's the way with women. They go crazy about themselves, and forget all about the man. Give her an income and she'll go.'

'I doubt it,' said I. 'And you would, if you knew her. But, even so, I shall lose her in any event. For, unless she is made independent, she'll certainly go with the last of the little money she has, the remnant of a small legacy.'

'The old man argued with me, the more vigorously, I suspect, because he found me resolute. When he could think of no new way of stating his case—his case against Anita—he said: 'You are a fool, young man—that's clear. I wonder such a fool was ever able to get together as much property as report credits you with. But you're the kind of fool I like.'

'Or far above it,' I suggested. 'I suppose I'll have to ask her over to visit me,' he went on. 'A fine hypocrite I'll feel.'

'An excellent idea!' he exclaimed. Then, as he shook hands with me in farewell: 'You will win her yet—if you care to.'

BLACKLOCK SEES A LIGHT

I was next day, I think, that I met Mowbray Langdon and his brother Tom in the entrance of the Textile Building. Mowbray was back only a week from his summer abroad; but Tom I had seen and nodded to every day, often several times in the day, as he went to and fro about his 'respectable' dirty work for the Roebuck-Langdon clique.

since. 'A sore subject with all the Langdons,' thought I. 'It must be very sore, indeed, to make a man who is all manners, neglect them.'

But I believe evil of no man. Even when he has been convicted, I see the mitigating circumstances. How Thornley did stand by me! And for no reason except that it was as necessary for him to be fair and just as to breathe. I shall not say he resisted the attempts to compel him to desert me—they simply made no impression on him.

I shall not relate in detail that campaign against me. It failed not so much because I was strong as because I was weak. Perhaps, if Roebuck and Langdon could have directed it in person, or had had the time to advise with their agents before and after each move, it might have succeeded.

When Galloway died, they learned that the Coal stocks with which they thought I was loaded down were part of his estate. They satisfied themselves that I was in fact as impregnable as I had warned Langdon. They reversed tactics; Roebuck tried to make it up with me.

'He is a big man—a dangerous big man,' cautioned Joe. 'Big—yes. But strong only against his own kind,' replied I. 'One mouse can make a whole herd of elephants squeal for mercy.'

'It is not,' replied I. 'Thank God, I'm at last in the position I've been toiling to achieve. I don't have to be prudent. I can say and do what I please, without fear of the consequences. I can freely indulge in the luxury of being a man. That's costly, Joe, but it's worth all it could cost.'

CHAPTER XXVIII. A HOUSEWARMING.

Joe's daughter, staying on and on at Dawn Hill, was chief lieutenant, if not principal, in my conspiracy to drift Anita day by day further and further into the routine of the new life.

I was getting ready a new house in town as a surprise to Anita, and I took Alva into my plot. 'I wish Anita's part of the house to be exactly to her liking,' said I. 'Can't you set her to dreaming about what kind of place she would like to live in, what she would like to open her eyes on in the morning, what surroundings she'd like to dress in and read in, and all that?'

Alva had no difficulty in carrying out the suggestion. And by harassing Westlake incessantly, I succeeded in realizing her report of Anita's dream to the exact shade of the wall. By pushing the work, I got the house done just as Alva was warning me that she could not remain longer at Dawn Hill, but must go home and get ready for her wedding.

A MID-WINTER VERDICT. 'Bright Sunshine All Winter,' says a Western Canada Lady Says. Maidstone, Sask., Canada. Feb. 4, 1907. C. J. Broughton, Esq., Canadian Government Agent, Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir: Being so well pleased with Canada we wish my father and brother to come here. Will you please send them reading matter on Canada.

We have been here nearly a year and are delighted with this country. We have lived in Illinois, Iowa, and Michigan and we find Canada away ahead of any of them. We have had bright sunshine all winter so far, only two nice, easy snow storms. If it was not all right you know I would not want my father and brother to come here, but we think it is grand.

MADE HIS MEANING PLAIN. Indian's Answer a Real Triumph of Quiet Sarcasm.

George Vaux, Jr., of Philadelphia, has been appointed a member of the board of Indian commissioners. Mr. Vaux told a reporter the other day an Indian story.

'There was a certain commissioner,' he said, 'who treated the Indians with rude scorn. One day a chief entertained this man in his tepee, telling him over the tobacco many quaint legends.

'One legend concerned a plague of grasshoppers. The chief told eloquently how grasshoppers overran the land, eating the grain, and how the medicine men averted a famine by offering a silver grasshopper to the Great Spirit, whereupon all that deluge of grasshoppers disappeared.

'But the commissioner scoffed at the tale. 'Are you Indians such fools,' he said, 'as to believe such rubbish?'

'O, no,' said the chief, gravely, 'or we'd long ago have offered the Great Spirit a silver pale face.'—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Quick Cure Effected. Saturday afternoon an Atchison young lady complained of sore and tired feet. She was so crippled that her father carried her upstairs.

'Such a food is Grape-Nuts. It not only agrees with and builds up children, but older persons who, from bad habits of eating, have become dyspeptic.

A Phila. lady, after being benefited herself persuaded her husband to try Grape-Nuts for stomach trouble. She writes: 'About eight years ago I had a severe attack of congestion of stomach and bowels. From that time on, I had to be careful about eating, as nearly every kind of food then known to me, seemed to cause pain.'

'My husband was also in a bad condition—his stomach became so weak that he could eat hardly anything with comfort. I got him to try Grape-Nuts, and he soon found his stomach trouble had disappeared. 'My girl and boy, 3 and 9 years old, do not want anything else for breakfast but Grape-Nuts, and more healthy children cannot be found.' Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Catarrh Cannot Be Cured with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces.

Matrimonial Infelicity. Divorces are, happily, rare in society circles. Separation by mutual consent, however, grows more frequent every year.

GENERAL BREAKDOWN. A Condition Which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the Great Blood Tonic, Have Been Curing for Years.

There is no more perplexing trouble for a physician to treat than debility cases, especially in women, in which there is no acute disease but in which the patient every day sinks lower and lower despite changes of medicine and similar experiments.

'For a number of years I was under a doctor's care but seemed to get no better. I had heard about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I began to take them. I soon felt better and gained in weight and strength. My nerves are strong now and I am a well woman in every way.'
