Council Pays Tribute to William LeBar

Pass Resolution Lauding Work of Industrialist

Paying tribute to one of Wyandotte's greatest industrialists, the city council Tuesday night drew up the following resolution, lauding the public services rendered by the late William D. LeBar, whose death occurred November 21.

"It is with a sense of profound sorrow that we record the death of William D. LeBar which occurred November 21, 1944. Former member of the Municipal Service Commission and an outstanding citizen in many ways, his loss to the community will be keenly felt.

"Mr. LeBar was a true native son, being born in Wyandotte and living here his entire life. Following his education in the local schools he took a humble position with the Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Company where he rose steadily from the ranks. His genius for organization and administration was recognized by that corporation by naming him General Superintendent of the Wyandotte plant, a post he capably filled until his untimely death. His untiring energy and absolute fidelity to duty were a byword among the host of friends who knew and admired him.

"Notwithstanding the heavy demands on his time, he accepted an appointment on the Municipal Service Commission in 1926 as a civic duty and devoted his considerable talents to that body with energy and distinction for more than six years. Embracing the period of the depression and of plant expansion, his public service covered a very difficult time, calling for more than ordinary ability, foresight and judgment, and these admirable qualities he possessed in a marked degree. Throughout his public and private life Mr. LeBar maintained an abiding interest in civic affairs of any nature tending to make the city of his birth—the city he loved, a better place to live and work and play.

"This Council believes the public service of Mr. LeBar should be permanently recorded in the annals of the city, and therefore, be it

RESOLVED by the City Council of the City of Wyandotte that the Citizens of the City, through its representatives, do hereby declare their sense of the great loss to the community in the passing of Mr. William D. LeBar, and do acknowledge his unselfish devotion and fidelity to the best interests of the city, and be it further

"RESOLVED that as an expression of sympathy, and to perpetuate the same on the records of the city, this Resolution be spread at length upon the journal of this day's proceedings, and that the Clerk be, and he hereby is directed to transmit a copy of this Resolution to the family of the deceased."

Detroit Symphony to Honor YMCA on Centennial

The symphony which Morton Gould, brilliant young American composer, has written as a tribute to the youth of the world for the 100th anniversary of the YMCA will be performed by the Detroit Symphony, the world's largest 110-piece symphonic orchestra, on their program Saturday, December 2.

On Sunday night, December 3, a portion of the Gould Centennial composition will be played on the "Symphony Hour" radio program over WWJ. Both programs are being dedicated by Director Karl Krueger of the Detroit Symphony, to the world-wide movement of the YMCA, now operating in 68 countries.

The Detroit YMCA is now 92 years old and has the distinction in this Centennial year of having as president of its board of directors, Howard A. Coffin, local business executive and civic worker who is also president of the national movement.

"Symphony of Marching Tunes" has four movements. The first, "Variations," presents in lusty fashion the development of rousing tunes and bugle calls. "Blvouac," the second movement, has a nostalgic feeling of men gathered around a campfire while yearning of home. The third movement, "Quickstep," corresponds to the scherzo of a regular symphony and gives the effect of a village brass band. "Memorial," characterized by Gould as the big movement of the symphony, closes the work with intense feeling. While it contains allusions to popular marching songs, the symphony is an original composition throughout and by no means is a medley of well known airs.
