GRAND RAPIDS, SATURDAY APRIL 24.

The Detroit papers are still snarling at each other as they have been doing since 1840. SAM JONES better turn his footsteps there.

Major GIL CRAIGE has gone south, but as yet our dispatches have not announced the discovery of a hole in the earth reaching to China. Something must surely be wrong.

PASTEUR'S method of treatment will do well enough for Americans or Frenchmen, but when it comes to a mixture of Russian, wolf and mad-dog, something more drastic is required.

How very generous it was in his Lord High Mightiness, JAY GOULD, to condescend to "spend the time in talking to the committee" and telling them how the poor workingmen were suffering in consequence of the strike!

When CLEVELAND reviewed the noble Seventh regiment of New York, how he must have wished that he could throw them in line around the White House with fixed bayonets to keep back the hordes of office-seekers.

The opponents of Mrs. VIRGINIA THOMPSON having given vent to their indignation, and her friends having given voice to their vengeance toward those opponents, Kentucky seems to settle down to steady business again.

The Lansing Journal seems to have a double-headed editor. For a week past the Journal has alternately praised Congressman FISHER and urged his qualifications for Governor, and roundly abused him as a pig-headed nobody.

In spite of the general business depression everywhere, there is a marked increase in building. In Grand Rapids the bustle is especially noticeable. Many handsome residences are under construction, and when a man builds a home it is a pretty fair sign of prosperity.

The boodle aldermen do not seem to worry much about their arrest. The two men, MALONEY and KEENAN, who distributed the money are living in elegant retirement over in Canada, and until they cross to this side the chances for convicting the Aldermen of bribe taking is exceedingly slim.

FATHER RYAN, the "Southern Poet Priest," died at Louisville Thursday night. He was a born poet, and the beauty of a thoughtful brain dripped from his pen whenever it was laid upon paper. FATHER RYAN gave the South her best war lyrics, and his death will leave a tender spot in the hearts of many a veteran Confederate soldier.

The feeling in France against Germany is growing more pronounced and bitter weekly. There is little doubt but the old wound will soon be opened, and there may be a war the like of which has never been seen in the world's history, the great civil war notwithstanding. The engines of death of the present generation that will be employed in such a war are something terrible to contemplate.

The New York World cries aloud to Congress in general and to the Democratic party in particular for prudence and economy. It says that the Republican members, feeling that the responsibility is on a Democratic President and a Democratic House, are anxious to make the records of the session conspicuous for extravagance, and that a grave responsibility is thus placed upon the Democrats in Congress.

The appointment of HENRY WARD BEECHER'S son as collector of a port in Washington Territory is still hanging in the Senate, awaiting executive action, and it is suspected that the Democrats in that body are not sufficiently pleased with Mr. BEECHER'S recent compliments to the leaders of their party to urge his son's confirmation. The iniquity of the father is visited upon the child.

O'DYNAMITE ROSSA has the sulks, and has retired to his den to tallow his nose. We believe Rossa's complaint is a fear that GLADSTONE'S home-rule bill will become a law, and thus the great American beggar and blatherskite would be deprived of his occupation of collecting money from confiding servant girls and hod-carriers to pay his board with, under the disguise of a dynamite fund. If Mr. Rossa will only keep in retirement he will be doing the Irish a favor.

The editor of the World, having resigned and ceased to draw his salary without doing any other work, is in a better position to make an appeal for economy than he was two or three weeks ago. But suppose Congress shall make liberal appropriations, what of it? The more river and harbor improvements there are made the more men will be given employment and the more money put in circulation, while the facilities for commerce are also improved.

VICIOUS LEGISLATION.

The BLAIR education bill, now pending in the House of Representatives, is one of the most bare-faced attempts to loot the treasury of the United States that it has been our misfortune to notice. Two years ago this month a bill similar to the one we now refer to, was passed by the Senate, but, fortunately, it was defeated in the House. That bill was introduced by Senator BLAIR, of New Hampshire. Upon the convening of the present Congress, nothing daunted by his previous experience, the same Senator—who seems to have become infatuated with the idea—again introduced the measure, and a few weeks ago it passed the Senate.

The bill appropriates some seventy odd million dollars among all the States and Territories for the purposes of education, which is to be distributed during a period of eight years. The money is to be divided among the different States in proportion to the illiteracy existing in each; i. e., the State having the greatest proportion of illiterates will receive the largest share of the swag.

The object of the bill, as stated by its author, is to aid the old slave States in the education of their colored population; but, as an appropriation for that purpose would not have even the color of constitutionality, the act is made to extend the aid to all the States and Territories, no matter whether it is needed or not.

Thirty years ago no legislator would have dared to support such a measure in Congress; if he had, he would have been thought a fit subject for an asylum for the feeble-minded. That the federal government had the slightest warrant in the Constitution for aiding a State in educational matters, was not then dreamed of. It has remained for the honorable bedlamite from New Hampshire to enunciate the doctrine that the State of Michigan can be legally taxed by the general government for the education of the people of the Southern States. It does seem as if our dignified Senators were bereft of their reason. To the shame of some of them, be it said, that they acknowledged that it was bad legislation, but they voted for it because they did not wish to hurt their "record," and were sure the House would defeat it. Verily these are degenerate times! We do not read much about "records" in the political literature of the days of WEBSTER, CLAY, BENTON and RANDOLPH. When these men honored the Senate with their presence such a measure would have been characterized as piratical and revolutionary; today it is called statesmanship.

Unquestionably the bill is utterly contrary to the expressed letter of our organic law, and antagonistic to the perpetuity of our form of government. This policy once inaugurated, its end would never come. When the seventy million dollars were exhausted the cry would go up for more, and the present bill would be cited as a precedent. Beside all else, the measure is vicious in its tendency. It puts a premium on illiteracy; it offers the largest reward to the State exhibiting the largest proportion of ignorant inhabitants. Its passage would tax the people to an enormous extent; and, instead of being an aid, it would be a positive detriment and a curse to thorough education. We are amazed that it ever received serious consideration by the committee, and are astounded that the Senate of the United States should have sanctioned such a bilk upon the people of this republic. We earnestly trust the House will give it its death blow.

A JURY'S IMMACULATE STUPIDITY.

In the local columns of this issue is reported the trial of a man named JACKMAN for catching trout out of season. His acquittal is one of the most ridiculous travesties on law and justice which this city has seen since one of these self-same juries, some years ago, decided that a certain statute of the State of Michigan relating to the liquor law was unconstitutional. It was not denied, in fact JACKMAN admitted that on the 4th of April he caught with hook and line a dozen trout from a creek that runs through Farmer HOGADONE'S premises. It was shown that the State Fish Commission had "planted" the stream, and Mr. NORRIS for the prosecution read the law in the case which provides for a fine of $5 for each trout taken from the last day of August until the first day of May. The defence was that JACKMAN had Mr. HOGADONE'S permission to catch the trout, and that the defendant wanted them for propagation. Mr. Justice WESTFALL did not see fit to charge the jury that JACKMAN was guilty of violating the law, and with the immaculate stupidity that only a justice court jury can exhibit, he was acquitted. Speckled trout, as everybody knows, are in an excellent condition for "propagation" after they have been yanked out of the water with a hook and line held in the hands of a boorish clown, whose only idea of a delightful sport is to carry home a big string of fish; especially are the speckled beauties in fine condition for breeding after they have been carried in a tin pail exposed to the rays of the sun for some hours.

It is a difficult question whether to attribute the action of the jury yesterday to ignorance or something else. It is absolutely certain that the man complained of was guilty of the violation of a law under which it is very difficult to secure conviction, and the fact that the case was one in which the offender should have been heavily fined as a warning to others, makes the action of the jury all the more vexatious. If the much-talked of Law and Order League of this city was composed of men who were honestly endeavoring to enforce the law, instead of furthering the ends of petty spite and furnishing employment to a number of cranks, scamps and dead-beats, it might find an abundant field in bringing to justice the violators of our game laws. In the face of such disgraceful perversions of justice as that reported yesterday the Kent County Sportsman society, an organization of gentlemen, is powerless, and we respectfully call the attention of our State Fish Commission to the matter.

THE PRESIDENT'S PLAN.

President Cleveland, in his message, evinces an appreciation of the seriousness of the labor agitation now going on. His statements as to the dignity of labor cannot be questioned, and his arguments as to the necessity of some effort to provide for the settlement of disputes without a resort to violence needs no confirmation. But the President's plan for remedying the evil lacks the essential element of practicability. In the first place it lacks, as all such remedies must lack, sanctions to enforce it. If the decision of the proposed commission should not be satisfactory to both parties to a dispute the dissatisfied party cannot be compelled to abide by it. The offices of the commission must be simply voluntary and advisory. In the second place the plan must be too limited in its application to be of general practical value. It might take into consideration cases of wide extent and involving great public interests, but the hundreds of smaller disturbances which may be equally serious in the localities in which they occur, it could not reach. The President's attempt to prove the usefulness of his proposed commission by reference to railroad commissions in various States, which have proved serviceable in some cases, fails for the reason that the territory to be covered by the State commissioners is limited.

Mr. FRANK HURD, of Ohio, can now retire. The only thing FRANK can possibly do this year is to take to the lecture field and give NASBY fits.

PRESS PRATTLE.

What's in a Name.

Half the trouble in this country comes from calling crime by some other name.—Philadelphia Times.

A Rare Case.

Canada, by indorsing home rule, shows the rare case of a people who've had a good thing and are willing for others to enjoy it.—Memphis Avalanche.

Too Costly for the Golden State.

This is a fairly rich country, but it is not rich enough to afford the luxury of having such high priced fellows as Geronimo running around loose.—Memphis Avalanche.

The Truth About It.

If the political blatherskites, the professional agitators and cranks and the rowdy class would let the strikes alone, a reasonable adjustment of all difficulties would not be far off.—Chicago Journal.

Uncle Sam Pays the Band.

The military music at West Point costs Uncle Sam $10,000 per year. But there is no knowing what would happen at West Point to the young warriors if it were not for music.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

An Agile Gravestone.

The campaign in Pennsylvania is almost open, but 'twill be an early and agile lie that eclipses the story of the gravestone blown from St. Cloud three miles across the Mississippi.—Philadelphia News.

Not an Offensive Partisan.

The Louisville Courier-Journal thinks there is a chance that Postmistress Thompson, of that city, may not be confirmed. But her own correspondence shows her to have been too active a worker for the Republican party to be defeated in the Senate.—Chicago Times.

Every Man a Voter.

If anybody thinks John A. Logan doesn't know what he is about when he fights for his numerous army bills let that deluded person take note of the wonderful growth of the Grand Army, which, in the one State of New York, has increased in membership within the last year 9,000 men, and every man a voter.—Chicago News.

Senator Payne's Ill Health.

Senator Payne, of Ohio, has resigned from the Senate Committee on Pensions. The reason given is that his health is on the decline and he is unable to attend to the duties. His friends claim that he is far from well. Those who know, also, claim that his resignation is to be followed by others, and that, one by one, Senator Payne intends to withdraw from his senatorial duties. It is a well known fact that Senator Payne has not been well for some time, and the strain upon him just at this time is intense. Senator Wilson, of Maryland, has been appointed to his place on the Committee on Pensions.—Special to Baltimore American.

Dana Himself Hath Said It.

The right to work for whom, and at what wages, and how, when and where he pleases, must be enjoyed by every body in this country. Any effort to make that right to make that right dependent on membership in any society of whatever kind is a sort of Know Nothingism that will not do. Give to men outside of the unions the unmolested exercise of this inalienable right and then make your unions so just in action and so useful in result that the outsiders will be anxious to come in. Violence and ostracism are sure to plague their inventors.—New York Sun.

STATE PRESS CROSSFIRE.

Don's Sickness.

The daily papers state that Don M. Dickinson is sick at his home in Detroit. Whether the withdrawal of the name of O. W. Powers as United States Justice for Utah, has anything to do with it or not is not yet fully determined.—Harbor Springs Republican.

A Dreadful Warning.

The most terrible penalty a man can inflict on his friends is to loan a photograph to a newspaper friend to get up a cut from. These caricatures are being carried too far altogether. It requires a name and affidavit to establish identity.—Kalamazoo Telegraph.

Henry Ward Beecher, in a fit of disgust, designates the Democratic party as a "double-eared ass." If Mr. Beecher had called the Democratic party a single-eared ass he would have libeled it as a monster unknown in nature. But everything is double-eared. Mr. Beecher may be called a double-eared orator. An ass is rather conspicuously double-eared, to be sure; but it would have been quite as effective to have described the Democratic party as a single-tailed ass. Mr. Beecher is not always happy in inventing epithets, and especially in his political phrases or ideas.—Lansing Republican.

THE VOICE OF THE PRESS.

Louis Cooper contributed to our pocket change Friday.—Gibson County (Ind.) Leader.

A lot of dirt that didn't belong to us blew into our office on Tuesday.—Lincoln County (N. M.) Leader.

We have a lot of choice evergreen sweet corn that we will give in exchange for roasting-ears in their season.—Wright County (Iowa) Democrat.

We had the pleasure of a ride on the mighty Ohio yesterday, on one of the coal company's tugs, and visited Capt. W. P. Halliday's farm.—Ohio (Ill.) News.

We took dinner with Neighbor Vanover one day this week and filled ourselves with the good things piled before us by that good wife of his.—Greenleaf (Kas.) Golden Belt.

We are under obligations to Mrs. Judge Berrien for the first mess of spring greens, the juvenility of which was highly appreciated. By the way, she, counseled and assisted by the judge, has the finest garden in the city.—Waynesboro (Ga.) Citizen.
