THE ST. JOSEPH OBSERVER

THE PRESIDENT IS NOW ON FOREIGN SOIL

And is the Guest of the People Whom America Has Delivered from Bondage.
They Receive Him with All the Joy That Comes to Those Who Are Saved.

For the first time in the history of the United States—and for that matter in the history of the world—President Wilson is now on foreign soil. He has arrived in France, the guest of the French government, and is to receive in Paris the same honors that are given to the heads of all of the other nations with which the United States has been allied in the war.

President Wilson, who has been in London for several weeks, will arrive in Paris tomorrow. He will be received by the French government at the railroad station, and will be given a banquet at the Hotel de Ville.
