THE KNOWING ONES

Are Many in St. Louis.

Hundreds of our readers know all about Doan's Kidney Pills. They have heard their neighbors discuss their merits and they have indorsed them publicly themselves. Read what this citizen says. Can you ask for better proof?

J. D. Pettell, carpenter, of No. 2861 Garfield ave., says: "I injured my back while lifting and afterwards was subject to attacks of dull aching across the loins for two years. I knew from the backache and from the excessive action of the kidney secretions that my kidneys were at fault, but I was at a loss to know what course to pursue to get relief. An advertisement about Doan's Kidney Pills led me to go to the Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. for Doan's Kidney Pills. The use of one box stopped the dull aching and corrected the action of the kidney secretions. Since then I have on more than one occasion emphatically recommended the use of the preparation. I would be only too pleased to continue my indorsation."

That piece of Katoll twist which Big John Anderson hit off in the tenth at Sportsman's Park yesterday proved too big a chew for Shortstop Gilbert of Baltimore, and after being held safe for nine innings the Browns sunk the gaff in the Oriole survivors, Charlie Hemphill registering the solitary run of the game after Anderson's drive had forced Gilbert's hands apart and rolled out to the suburbs.

Up to the time that "Handy Andy" scuttled the Oysterville craft, runs had been as scarce as Panamas in January and hits about as far apart as owl cars on Vandeventer avenue on a Sunday night. The presence of Jack Katoll on the firing line for the Birds threatened to make the home coming of the Browns anything but a pleasant affair. It was the first time the "Village Blacksmith" has appeared here and he felt so good over his St. Louis debut that he strung the Browns on a necklace of beads for nine innings, but in the tenth Gilbert's failure put the game into the hands of a receiver—and the Browns did the receiving. The score was 1 to 0.

Donahue Pitches Four-Hit Game.

Mr. F. Lajoie Donahue was on the firing line for McAleer's band and by misplacing his customary hit, the auburn-haired twirler almost caused a tragedy. Donahue failed to take his cue in the second inning and instead of leading with his hit he discarded a bobtailed fly and the full house drawn by the Browns was of no more use than a hand of Jokers. Any kind of a tap then would have curtailed the horse-collar supply, but with three pilgrims on the bases Donahue climbed the stairs to Selbach and it was back to the grassy sward with the locals. The next time he came to bat, "Red" lugged up his hit, but it was lost in the pile of burial certificates which the Birds were handing around.

However, Donahue's twirling more than canceled his failure to hit in the pinch, and, anyway, Lajoie, Delehanty and the best of them sometimes fail to disguise themselves as Colonel Pinch. The Birds fattened no batting averages off Donahue. Four widely scattered hits was the extent of their binging and only once did they act real naughty. Then they were soundly spanked and retired and the scoreboy again juggled the ciphers. The visitors tried hard, but they couldn't get more than one hit to an inning, and in five rounds they failed to land even a glancing blow.

The Browns didn't take very many liberties with the blacksmith's slants, but they outhit the Orioles two to one. Still they failed to average a hit an inning and in the one round when they gathered three there was nothing doing.

Many Fast Plays.

The game sparkled with fast plays. The Orioles displayed greatly improved form and are fully 50 per cent faster than when they visited here early in the month. They gave Katoll excellent support, none of the errors, except the last one, resulting seriously. McCormick and Williams pulled off spectacular plays in the infield, while Arndt and Friel divided honors in the suburbs.

Jimmy Williams put a one-hand stop to the good start of the Browns in the opening essay. Burkett pinched off a single, but was forced by Hemphill. Friel's drive to center wore a high collar and carried a cane, but Williams slapped it in the face with his gloved hand and used it for ammunition in a double killing.

The Browns looked as good in the second as a bake-shop window to Weary Willie. Anderson popped to Howell, who also took Wallace's cushion-carrom shot off Katoll and nailed "Rhody" at first. McCormick larruped the ball to left for a base. Padden bagged a hit that looked as scratchy as a hen and Jones, looking for a barnyard breakfast. He tapped to Jones, who fielded the ball cleanly, but Katoll was dreaming of the old days in Chicago, and failed to sprint over to the bag. When Jones turned for the throw the base was uncovered. Kahoe singled to left, filling the bases. Donahue rapped the ball hard, but Selbach easily captured his effort, and the chance was gone.

Gus Friel's Double Play.

In the early part of the game the Birds made two good bids, but couldn't go high enough. Gus Friel discounted Herman McFarland's effort to advance in the third by a good throw from deep center, which completed a double play. With one down, McFarland gave Wallace an opportunity to do a Chinese juggling trick. He stole second on Kahoe's poor throw. Selbach lifted the ball out to center, and McFarland backed up to second for a sprint to third. Friel camped under the fly, and in the dash for third McFarland lost his meal ticket, Wallace taking Friel's good hoist and smearing the runner with it.

Colonel "Rayden" put a crimp in the Oriole aspirations in the fourth after Donahue, by his own error, had put himself in a bad pocket. Williams opened the round by landing in the middle field for one base. When Jones bunted plans and specifications were handed around for a force play at second, but Donahue lost his part of the play by allowing the ball to crawl between his legs. Howell sacrificed, advancing Williams to third. The Brown infield drew the lines tight and "Brainy Dick" ate Arndt's bounder on the grassy border. He passed the leather in to Kahoe, who ran down and plinned Williams between third and home. Gilbert expired on an easy tap to Donahue.

Arndt Makes Sensational Catch.

In the sixth the Browns were active, but Harry Howell twice smothered hits and turned them into force-outs at third. In the seventh Kahoe got to base when Jones and Williams made a double muff of his pop fly in an attempt to emulate that immortal duo—Alphonse and Gaston. Donahue forced his battery partner. Burkett then pasted the ball with what appeared to be a four-base label for his rap seemed ticketed for a berth in the weeds on the south side of the right field fence. Arndt attempted to leave the park to negotiate the catch, but was suddenly stopped by collision with the railroad sign. He made a sensational catch, colliding violently with the fence in the act, pulled down the ball.

The Orioles lost their steam in the closing innings, and, after the sixth, failed to get a hit. McCormick took a bingle away from Howell by knocking down a fierce rap to left, in the ninth. The ball bounded over toward the base and it seemed that Howell was safe, but McCormick, by a quick recovery, and one of his famous lobs, got it over to first in time. Anderson letting out a few extra links to negotiate the catch.

How the Browns Won.

The tenth opened for St. Louis with Burkett's skyscraper to right, which was stowed away in Arndt's game bag. Hemphill drove a screaming liner to right, and moved up on Friel's out. Howell to Jones. Then Anderson shoved his hit through Gilbert. The latter got his hands to the ball and tamed its speed, but Hemphill took advantage of the bobble. When Gilbert ran back to get the ball, which rolled dead a few feet behind him, Hemphill was just rounding third, and, after a burst of speed on the last lap, he dove head foremost into the plate just as Gilbert's throw came in to "Broadway Alec." Smith. The throw was a trifle wide and when Smith failed to capture it the game was over.

Both Teams Nervous and Errors Come on Easy Chances.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—Philadelphia and Chicago each won and lost to-day. Both teams appeared nervous and seemed to play under a high tension, as nearly all the errors made were on apparently easy chances. Patterson held the visitors down to four singles in the first game, and but for error would have blanked them. The leaders hit Piatt hard in the second game and won in the eighth on four singles, a balk and Daly's muff. Attendance, 7,200. Score:

JOHN ANDERSON HAS SIGNED.

Big First Baseman Will Stick to McAleer—Double-Header To-Day.

Secretary Hedges returned with the Browns yesterday, and he was all smiles when asked about the future of John Anderson, the big first baseman of the Browns, whom the Boston National League Club tried so hard to land. When the Browns were in Boston last week, the story concerning his dealings with Director Billings of the Boston club was revived, but nothing happened that the reason that Secretary Hedges had Anderson's signed contract stowed away in his grip before the Browns hit Boston.

The Boston rumor became so persistent that Mr. Hedges went to Anderson while the team was in the East and asked the big fellow what he intended to do. Anderson made no secret of the fact that he had been offered liberal terms by Boston and pulled out a contract that was filled out for a good sum, but which still lacked a signature. Secretary Hedges then laid a contract before Anderson that had the Boston document beaten by enough to keep Andy in cigars all winter and then some. When he departed the contract was heavier, for it had Big John's autograph traced across the bottom.

The game with Baltimore, postponed from the first trip, will be played to-day as the first part of a double bill at the Grand avenue park. Jack Harper is not in shape and Jack Powell and Sudhoff will do the pitching for the Browns. No reason exists why Sudhoff should not be able to take his turn on the firing line. If he doesn't work, Southpaw Harry Kane will be substituted. Butler and Wiltse are announced as the Oriole pitchers. The first game will begin at 2.

Secretary Hedges met Pat Donovan downtown yesterday morning and invited the Cardinals to be his guests at the game. Donovan chatted with the Brown's secretary before the game and watched the contest from a seat in the last row. Most of the Cardinals occupied boxes. They were all there except Eddie Murphy, Jack Ryan and Hartman. Jack O'Neill greeted Gus Friel warmly, for in the old days of the New York State League, Friel was a pitcher and Brother Jack was his receiver. Stanley Yerkes and others of the Cardinals who played league ball in the East, exchanged greetings with Friel and some of the others. The Cardinals enjoyed the game, as it was the first and only opportunity to witness McAleer's men in action.

Donovan and his men got away last night for Cincinnati, where they play to-day and to-morrow. Clarence Currie has asked to pitch one of the games against his old teammates, and he may take the first crack at the Reds in opposition to Bill Phillips. The O'Neill battery is slated to work against Frank Hahn to-morrow. To-day will be Children's Day at Cincinnati and Cincinnati youngsters under the age of 12 will be admitted to the park free. The Cardinals are beginning to shine as entertainers of the future greats. All the pitchers are making the trip. Wiley Dunham thinks he will be able to get into the fray soon. Jack O'Neill said yesterday that his finger was still paining him, but thinks he will be in shape to go behind the bat in one of the Labor Day games in New York.

The youngster, Tom Jones, who is one of the most recent of Baltimore recruits, fields his position nicely and can hit a good clip, though he didn't tear off any yesterday. For that matter, there weren't enough made off Donahue to pass around, and the head end of the batting list gobbled them all. Crese Heisman, the young twirler who was with Cincinnati for a short time this year, reported to Manager Robinson yesterday. He has offered his services free of charge until he can prove to Robbie that he can deliver the goods.

"Selbach, Williams and Gilbert say that they did not sign to play in New York next year, but I am positive that they were given to understand that they would play there," yesterday declared Joe Cummings of the Baltimore News, who is accompanying the Birds on their rounds. "Clark Griffith signed them to something which may have been a contract to play anywhere but in the American League, but the New York deal is surely on. From what I have learned, I guess Baltimore will be dropped for New York. Detroit is certain to stay in, as Angus is spending a big sum to get a winning team there. It is not impossible that a twelve-club league will be formed in which case Baltimore will be retained, but in order to expand to twelve clubs the American will have to absorb New York and Pittsburg. The New York deal will go through, and it looks very much as if a hen was on in Pittsburg. If Baltimore is dropped it is not unlikely that the National League will enter there, as there have been much talk of expansion in the parent body of late."

The first day's work of the Western clubs on the home grounds gave the Browns a good break and brought them several points nearer the Boston. The Athletics seem to have struck their losing streak already, while, as "The Republic" predicted, the Bostonians struck a snag at Detroit. By Sunday the Browns may be up in second place.

The Baltimore team makes its farewell appearance to-morrow. Sunday the Philadelphia Athletics, who are now in the lead, will open at the Grand avenue park, in order to get rid of the postponed game, the Browns and Athletics will play a double-header Sunday, and the games should bring out one of the best crowds of the year. Monday a morning and afternoon game will be played in observance of Labor Day.

Heidrick reported to Manager McAleer yesterday and went through practice, but did not get in the game. He stated that he felt able to play, but McAleer didn't want to take chances. Bill Reidy was also in uniform. Heidrick may play to-day, and Reidy is nearly ready to go into action.

"Heidrick's absence made a big gap in the team," said McAleer yesterday. "Heidrick is a much better man in right than he is in center, and then, too, J. Emmett was clouting the ball at the time he was forced to quit. We had some tough luck in the East, but for the most part played very poor ball. There is no getting around that. We didn't hit, every error counted against us, and our pitchers were not effective. From now on we are going to make up the lost ground."
