ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER.

We are authorized to announce

A. E. RANDOL

As a candidate for the office of County School Commissioner.

We are authorized to announce

B. F. LUSK,

As a candidate for re-election to the office of County School Commissioner.

The Alabama Legislature has a law prohibiting the use or sale of cigarettes. There were too many votes behind the old corncob to attempt to abolish that.

There are four States in the Union that represent the life experience of a good many people. Virginia, first families; Florida, orange blossoms; Montana, storms; Illinois, divorces.

It is said that Mr Bayard and several other Cabinet eligibles have refused to accept portfolios from Mr. Cleveland because the salary is too small. Tammany can supply all the men that Mr. Cleveland wants—salary no object, "pickings" sufficient remuneration.

The Boston Herald declares that half of the present pension payments are "iniquitous" and "quite a part" of the rest are unnecessary. The Boston Herald proposes to have "free trade reform" if every old veteran has to go to the poor house. One thing is certain—the old veterans would have plenty of company in such an event.

At a meeting of the Fair Trade Club in London last week Howard Vincent declared that the McKinley tariff had, in 1892, increased the exports of United States by £34,000,000 and the imports by £40,000,000. In the same time England's exports had fallen off £36,000,000. This is a magnificent presentation of the effects of the McKinley law.

It is estimated that 400,000,000 feet of sawlogs will be exported during the coming season from Canada to be worked into lumber by American labor in American sawmills. When the Democrats repeal the McKinley law Canada will reimpose the export duty on logs, and this timber will be manufactured into lumber by Canadian mills.

Not very long ago Judge Gresham was a candidate for the Republican nomination for President. Last summer his views were such that the Populist wanted him for their national standard bearer. Now the Boston Herald declares that "he is fully in sympathy President Cleveland." Judge Gresham is a gentleman of versatile accomplishments.

Although Lincoln was universally regarded as one of the most amiable of men and was scarcely ever known to show anger, those acquainted with him in his youthful and obscure years have declared that he had naturally a fiery temper, which he struggled against until he mastered it completely. After having become a prominent figure in the councils of nation, he was a pattern of self control. One of his favorite sayings, which would give color to this belief, was, "The most important victory a man can gain is the victory over himself."

The selection of Judge Gresham as a member of Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet would not strengthen the incoming Administration. Gresham is a renegade Republican, who left the Republican party because of personal disappointments, and who only decided to refuse the Presidential nomination of the Populists last fall after a prolonged period of indecision and vacillation. He is the representative of no political party, and stands for no fixed principles of politics or statesmanship. Gresham in the Cabinet would be a wretched substitute for a statesman or the patriotism and mental caliber of James G. Blaine.

The Berculosis victims in the United States number 168,500 annually. Of these 141,000 are charged to consumption, 12,000 to tubercular meningitis and 10,500 to scrotula. Each death is asserted to represent two years of sickness. That means that there are now 327,000 persons in the United States dying of tuberculosis. The money cost of this enemy of life is estimated to be greatly in excess of $100,000,000. Statistics show that the ravages of tubercular diseases are being slowly reduced, and scientists are not altogether without hope of discovering a preventive or a remedy for a class of diseases whose victims are more numerous than those of war.

The bill before the Senate providing that locomotives and cars on railways engaged in interstate commerce shall be equipped with automatic couplers and continuous brakes is a humane measure for the better protection of railway employees. The number of shocking accidents and fatilities which, owing to the absence of the precautions demanded by this bill, occur every year, is appalling. It is estimated that in eight years as many men employed on the railroads of the country have been injured and killed as were in service in any one year. This is a startling statement. The proposed law is in line with the recommendations made by President Harrison in regard to the subject. It has been prepared with great care and is well calculated to reduce to the lowest practicable minimum the evil against which it is aimed.

The possibility of John Quincy Adams in the Cleveland Cabinet is an indication that the Democratic party has changed front on the grandfather in politics.

The Pension Appropriation bill now before Congress appropriates $166,000,000, the largest sum ever carried in an appropriation measure. This enormous total is due to Democratic efforts to destroy the Union, and the Democratic party is responsible for every dollar of it.

The Missouri legislature is hat because Cleveland has appointed Gresham secretary of State. That shows that the legislature did not know what it was talking about before the election.

A colored man introduced a resolution in the Oklahoma Legislature the other day condemning lynching, but it was overwhelmingly defeated. How a colored man happened to be in such a body is not stated.

A bill now before the Kansas Senate provides that offices be put up at auction and sold to the lowest bidder. Nothing new about that. The system has been in operation in New York city for years.

The appropriations of the present Congress will probably reach $1,038,000,000. Those of the famous "billion dollar" Congress footed up only $988,000,000. The present Congress is entitled to the soubriquet.

The Texas Legislature has killed a bill making an appropriation for an exhibit at the World's Fair. The recent roasting of a Negro at Paris, Tex., was sufficient exhibition of that State's peculiarities to satisfy the rest of the word.

The Atlanta Constitution grows uneasy over the prospects for "tariff reform," and declares: "We contess that we do not understand the meaning of the symptoms of dodging and delay that have been manifested." That's because you don't understand the character of the Democratic party.

The Boston Post says that "Mr. Cleveland handed over to the Harrison administration a surplus of $100,000,000, all available. Mr. Harrison back nothing." But the Post forgets that over $200,000,000 of the national debt has been paid under President Harrison.

If the Brooklyn Eagle is right in its statement that "Judge Gresham made his support of Cleveland last fall conditional of the proof that Cleveland defied and rejected the Tammany men." This seems to establish the fact that opposition to Tammany is the price of a Cleveland portfolio.

Economy is wealth, especially in Pennsylvania, where a quarrel between the surviving members of the rich and peculiar Economite society, based on the allegation that one faction has squandered $4,000,000, has been followed by a proposal that the State step in and take the remainder of the property of the society.

It is understood that when the Hon. Isaac Pusey Gray of Indiana heard of the selection of the Hon. Walter Q. Gresham, also of Indiana, as a member of Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet, the Hon. Isaac Pusey Gray uttered once more, and with even more feeling than on any previous occasion, the memoriable and profoundly philosophical apophthegm: "It is better to be sure than be sorry.

Why this Democratic outcry against the duty on metallic tin about to take effect July 1? Democrats maintain that American tin mines are purely mythical, and that we can never produce it in appreciable quantities. If this is true, then tin is specially fitted to bear a tariff for revenue which would be strictly in line with the Chicago platform. A more powerful argument is the need of revenue created by Democratic extravgance in making appropriations. Democrats should stand foremost in the defense of the tin tariff if they believe their own argument.

A valuable contribution to the evidences of Christianity is the volume on Primary Convictions, by the Bishop of Derry and Raphoe, which Harper & Brothers have just published. It comprises a series of discussions on the true characteristics of the Christian Creed—on the belief in the Father Almighty, in the incarnation of the Son, in the Holy Ghost as speaking by the prophets, in the resurrection of the body, etc.—each of which is stated in its divine simplicity apart from all particular theories on the subject. This volume will be appropriate for Lentin reading.

A Kentucky Solon, envious of the newspaper notoriety achieved by the Minnesotian who introduced in the legislature of that state a bill against hoopskirts, has followed his example, and introduced in the House at Frankfort a bill "to prevent the sale, loan or wearing of hoopskirts in this commonwealth." It was referred by the Speaker to the committee on Religion and Morals. And now the people of Kentucky are asking for a diagram of that reference!

The age of the earth is estimated from the increment in the temperature as we penetrate its crust. The rate at which it cools, however, can only be approximately determined, owing to the confessedly imperfect data which must be used, there being nothing on which to base calculations. From a careful analysis of the data at hand Sir William Thompson has found that between 100,000,000 and 200,000,000 years ago the earth first began to be crusted over by solid film of rocks; that 10,000,000 years later it was still so hot that the temperature would have increased 2 degress Fahrenheit for every foot vertically descended below the zone of constant temperature. The present rate of increase averages about 1.51 of a degree for every foot.

There is touch of pathos in the remark of Mme. De Lesseps: "I do not need consolation, for I have reached the end of my Calvary. Nevertheless there is one thing above all I cannot forgive, and that is that before striking at such a man they waited until physical infirmity had rendered it impossible for him to defend himself." However opinions may differ respecting the culpability of Ferdinand De Lesseps, there will be naught but unstinted praise for the bravery and devotion his wife has shown and the liveliest sympathy for her in her sore distress.

It is rare that the tidings of the death of any person is received with joy by any large class of people; but certainly those Americans who cherish a warm regard for General Grant, and his pretty daughter Nellie, rejoice in the news of the death of Algernon Charles Sartoris, the worthless and brutal Englishman who married her. The whole nation remembers the brilliant wedding at the White House. Nellie Grant married a coarse, stupid alien, expatriated herself, and received nothing in return. Her life has been a very sad one. Sartoris abandoned her several years ago, and died at Capri on February 3. She has three beautiful little girls, who are the only brightness in her wrecked and ruined life, and devotes herself entirely to them and their education. Poor Nellie Grant!

Lincoln as a Versifier.

T. J. McMunn, of San Antonio, Tex., says: "An old friend of mine named Cabaniss recently told me that Abraham Lincoln worked for his father in 1832. At that time a great rise occured in the Sangamon River, and a steamboat, taking advantage of the high water, came up the stream. My friend was then a child and the whistling of the boat frightened him. Lincoln, then a tall, angular young man, took him in his arms and carried him aboard the boat. After the departure of the boat Lincoln wrote rhymes about the incident, one verse of which the Cabaniss family preserved. It runs thus:

"The Illinois suckers, green as of raw,
Collected on the Sangamon
To see a boat come up the stream;
They surely thought it was a dream.

"For this doggerel he invented a melody, and he and others sang it. The song never found its way into print. The elder Cabaniss always told his children that the amiable Lincoln would develop into a great man."

Sartor, Sartoris.

Algernon Sartoris seems to have been in morals what his name signifies in Latin—a botcher, a mender of old garments.

His desertion of his own wife (nee Nellie Grant) and children, and his self-abandonment to adultery, gambling and drinking, have finally culminated in an early death, which, even in this world, is a judicial retribution for misdeeds.

He had loving and wealthy parents, who were willing and able to give him every blessing which this world affords; and his career illustrates how utterly futile is every earthly good, in forming the individual character.

America, on account of her love of the Grant family, would be delighted to chronicle the history of Mr. Sartoris as that of a splendid fellow who made the best use of all his gifts and privileges, who was an affectionate husband, a model parent, a useful citizen and an honor to two countries—to England by birth, and to America by marriage.

America will be glad now to have Mrs. Sartoris return to her native land; for here she will be received with the same respectful affection which has always been accorded to her, and she and her children can enjoy the blessings of the government preserved by the sword of her father, the great Ulysses.

Meaning of the Word "Either."

The legal meaning of the word "either" has been gravely argued in an English court of record. A certain testator had left property, the disposition of which was effected by the "death of either" or two persons.

One lawyer insisted that "either" meant both, and in support of his views he quoted Richardson, Webster, Chaucer, Cryden, Southey, the story of the crucifixion, and a passage from Revelations. The Judge suggested that there was a song in "The Beggar's Opera" which took another view: "How happy I could be with either, were t'other dear charmer away."

In pronouncing judgement the Court ruled that "either" meant one of two, and did not mean both; he said that it might have that meaning occasionally in poetry, but never in an English court of record.

The Schoolhouse Versus the Stake.

The dominant whites of the South cannot evade the responsibility for much of that ignorance and brutality which they claim to be inherent in the colored population. As a matter of fact, the assertion that the colored people of the South are as a rule either ignorant or brutal is not true. They are a patient, industrious, law abiding race, developing in intellect and ability in full proportion to the opportunities afforded them for mental improvement. If they not developed more rapidly the responsibility belongs to those who sought to reduce the colored race, generation after generation, to the level of an animal, who passed laws forbidding them to learn to read and write, and making it a crime for any one to teach those acquirements, and who sought in every way to dim human intelligence and stunt the growth of the mind in those whom they regarded and treated as chattels.

Looking back in the past, it is useless, therefore, for the white Democracy of the South to attempt to throw upon the colored man all the blame for the results of an unnatural course which the whites themselves deliberately adopted and pursued. Crime and ignorance go hand in hand, and when the dense ignorance in which the colored race was kept, and from which it has only begun to emerge, is considered it is not strange that in occasional instances men who have been slaves or of slave decent should prove to be the brutes their former owners spared no efforts to make them.

Happily in a large portion of the South really earnest attempts are being made to educate the colored race, and in this respect to rectify the wrongs of the past. In Georgia, for instance, the school systems have brought to a fair standard of efficiency and receive a reasonable share of the public funds and of the public care. It is worth nothing that in Georgia and other States where the colored people are receiving, in an educational if not in a political way, fair opportunities for enlightenment and advancement, horrors such as those which have recently shocked the civilized world are unheard of. After a while other Southern communities may be inclined to consider whether the schoolhouse is not more Christian-like and humanlike than the stake and the branding iron, and whether the community which finds it necessary to torture and burn its criminals is not paying too high a price for rare retired and perpetuated ignorance.—New York Press.

We Should Not Delay Too Long.

The present week should see some definite action by Congress in regard to Hawaii. The Hawaiian Commissioners have been formally received by the President in their official capacity. Their right to speak with authority for the Provisional Government and the people of Hawaii has been conclusively demonstrated. The facts with respect to the present situation are in the possession of the State Department. Public opinion throughout the country has declared in terms that cannot be mistaken for the annexation of the key of the Pacific to the United States. Finally, the American Minister at Hawaii, in response to the request of the Provisional Government, has hoisted the flag of this country at Honolulu, and placed the island under American protection.

The flag that floats over Honolulu cannot be lowered with honor. The President's forthcoming message to Congress should be followed by the prompt acceptance of the offer made in good faith by the intelligent citizens and tax payers of Hawaii. A measure providing for the annexation of this Pacific stronghold should be carried without any unnecessary delay. The sooner Hawaii is permanently and completely united to this country the better it will be for the interests of both parties.

Estates Abroad.

Inquirer, Bloomfield, Mo., asks us a question which often comes up. Here it is:

"How can any one find out whether there is property coming to them in the old country? I believe there is such, yet do not know the name of any one to write to about it. Is there any place to write to where one can find out if any estates are left to their names? Persons have made inquiry for my parents' names but we have never known why, though they were dead many years ago."

There is no place to write to ascertain. Property does not lie idle, awaiting owners, in Europe any more than it does here. If you have any good reasons to think that you have property rights in some foreign country, either go yourself, or hire some lawyer in whom you have full faith, and investigate the matter. Don't write to any American minister or consul. Their official duties do not require them to act as attorneys to hunt up such things for private citizens.

His Credentials.

A certain Congressman, famous principally for his untidiness, was in one of the small towns of his district making a speech. During the day a couple from up the creek saw him on the street corner.

"Who's that, Hiram?" inquired the wife, who was interested in all the sights.

"Why, Marthy," was the reply, "don't you know him? He's our Congressman."

"Uh!" she exclaimed uppishly, "he wears a powerful dirty shirt."

"Is course, in course," said her husband; "but, Marthy, he's got to do somethin' to show he's a Congressman."
