VOL. V. BUTLER, MISSOURI, WEDNESDAY JUNE 6, 1883. NO 27

A Pleasant Affair.

The party at the residence of Mr. S. W. Peach, on last Thursday evening, in honor of his son Robert W. Peach, who left the following morning for West Point, was perhaps the most pleasant and largest social gathering of the season.

There were present about seventy-five or eighty persons, and many turned away because there appeared to be no more room. The Butler Band was present and discoursed some of its excellent music. In addition to this the evening was interspersed with vocal and instrumental music from a number of the city's celebrities. At a late hour the company retired after expressing themselves to the host and hostess for the becoming manner in which they were entertained, and bidding our young friend Robert, a hearty good-bye.

Commencement Exercises of the Butler Academy.

NEIGHBORHOOD NOTES.

It is reported that Maj. John N. Edwards, Missouri's most gifted journalists, has taken editorial charge of the St. Joseph Gazette.

Boliver Herald: Monday last a drove of 1,250 sheep passed through Boliver on the way to Northwestern Texas. They had been driven from Illinois.

Lexington Intelligencer: Mr. John Pool showed us, last Saturday morning, a white owl which he had killed a few days before. The bird is rare, and rather prettier than the common owl. He will have it stuffed.

Lamar Democrat: The Barton County Fair Association will have the finest exhibition this fall ever held in South West Missouri. Our fairs are noted and strangers from a distance have signified their intention to be present.

Lamar Democrat: From the Combs farm south of Lamar, a bunch of red clover was taken up and brought to this office. It is 18 inches high and stands thick on the ground, and this was just an average bunch not picked for the occasion.

Holden Enterprise: "When the cruel war is over" between Rich Hill and Butler concerning the route of the proposed C. & A. road from the last name place to Ft. Scott, something will be done on this end of the line.

Lamar Democrat: J. P. Bates from his farm brought us a sample of timothy now growing in a 12 acre pasture. It is 15 inches high and Mr. Bates says he has a splendid stand. We hear occasionally some old croaker say that tame grasses don't do well here.

The Dent county Democrat says the announcement that H. Martin Williams would locate at West Plains caused the railroad company to tear up its turn table and remove it to Augusta, Oregon county, and that several business firms left Howell county and have gone to Oregon.

Lamar Missourian: From interviews with many farmers throughout the county, we learn that corn is looking extremely well the recent rains having given the crop a splendid start. Mr. Matlock, living south of town informs us that his corn is ankle high, and growing rapidly.

Nevada Mail: A new bank, to be called the "Citizens Bank," cash capital $50,000, was organized in this city Wednesday, and purchased for $7,500, the lot on southeast corner of the square, on which a splendid building will be erected. By request, we defer particulars until next week.

Joplin Herald: T. A. Shaw, proprietor of the Gulf house at Fort Scott, and A. R. Webb, manager of the Cora Van Tassel Dramatic company, are indulging in a tilt through the newspapers that already shadows some unsavory carryings on in that hostility. The disclosures are not likely to help the fair fame of either the hotel management or of the Cora Van Tassel company.

Springfield Express: The county of Shannon needs another representative. The present one, J. D. Storts, at West Plains one day last week tried to shoot Prosecuting Attorney Winningham of that place, but missed his mark and seriously wounded Steve Hurd, the ball entering below the eye and lodging somewhere in the head.

Carthage Patriot: Another "Lost" sensation is now challenging public attention. Miss Mary Jones, a niece of Judge Sherwood, and a very accomplished young lady, living at Poplar Bluff, disappeared some three weeks ago, from home, and has not been heard from. The whole country has been flooded with descriptive circulars, and her friends are in great distress of mind for her safety.

Appleton Journal: We are reliably informed that the people of Hudson have adopted a new plan for raising money for their Sunday school. We are told that last Sunday evening a traveling showman was allowed to give an entertainment in their house, and an admission was charged with the understanding that the Sunday school was to be enriched with half the proceeds. We are surprised that the good people in that vicinity should countenance such things.

Appleton Journal: We understand that some fellow who claims to be a minister of the gospel is going through the country preaching that Appleton City will be destroyed by a cyclone this summer, because the people here are so wicked that Providence will frown upon them. Of course we are not very well posted as to what kind of a record Appleton City has above, but it is our opinion that the reverend gentleman spoken of is just about as likely to be struck by a cyclone as Appleton city is.

Neosho Miner: A little five-year old son of Alred Peel, was on the track near the center of the railroad bridge, near Avoca on the Ft. Smith track, when the train came thundering around the curve on Tuesday last. He threw himself flat on his face, between the guard and T. rails, across the heavy timbers that project outside of the rails. The engine, tender and two cars passed over him. The train stopped, and the men rushed up expecting all the horrors of a crushed and bleeding little form, staring and sightless eyes; but the little fellow jumped up, clinging to his school books and shapeless dinner bucket. His injuries consisted of a bruised arm, and a slight cut on the cheek. When the train stopped the boy's coat sleeve was under the driving wheel and held him fast. His escape was a miracle, and was made possible only by his wonderful presence of mind and determined pluck.

Springfield Herald: Charles Anderson, a Scotchman who lives on a farm adjoining Brookline, and his daughter, were bitten by a dog believed to be mad on Tuesday. The animal had been away from home two or three days, and is supposed to have been bitten while absent. Some one remarked that the dog was mad, whereupon Anderson insisted that this was not so, and went up to the animal intending to tie him, when the dog jumped up and bit him in the forehead. The dog then bit a daughter of Anderson's, when it was killed. The daughter is not considered to be in any danger, as the skin was not broken.

Carthage Patriot: From the Springfield papers we learn that the loyal people of that city kindly received Dr. Prosser, with the floral dove prepared and forwarded by the ex-Confederates of Carthage, as a floral offering to decorate the graves of the brave Union soldiers who repose at Springfield. That was a noble act of our once Confederates, and it shows that brave and honorable hearts, after a lapse of long years, are incapable of harboring resentment, much less being begetters of strife. Napoleon was wont to say: "When my enemy is killed or wounded he is no longer my enemy," and all history applauds it, except minds too thin to take up space in the eye of a cambric needle.
