

The Alleged Coronado Murderers' Cases Called in the Garden City Court.

Garden City, Kan., Aug. 23.—The district court began its work here to-day with a full docket. Probably the most interesting case which will be tried is that of Charles Fleck, F. S. Lilley, John Knapp, Jack Leahy, W. A. Foush, C. H. Wheat, Clarence Hare, N. Malston, R. S. Howard, Wesley Moore, Milt Walton, Charley Secrest, Jim Secrest and Joe Ollinger of Coronado, Wichita county, charged with being the leading participants in the terrible tragedy in that county February 26. The cases were called to-day and the charges against Charles Randolph, James Kirk and James B. Rogers dismissed and the others continued until next week.

On the morning of February 26 a note was sent to Charles Coulter of Leoti, a little town which had been vying with Coronado in efforts to secure permanently the county seat of Wichita county, from a resident Coronado, inviting Coulter to visit that town that afternoon for a good time and bring a friend or two with him. Coulter accepted the invitation, and with him went Billy Raines, George Watkins, A. L. Boorey, Frank Jenness, A. R. Johnson and Emmett Deming. On arriving in Coronado they spent a few hours with friends and then started to their wagon, which was hitched in front of the post office, with the intention of returning home. In front of the post office stood one of the Coronado men who, so it is said, applied a foul phrase to Raines, at the same time making a motion as though to draw a revolver. Raines quickly drew his and struck his assailant upon the head. A volley was fired upon the little party by concealed men; bringing every one of the Leoti party to the ground. Coulter and Raines were killed, and the others badly wounded, and George Watkins died from the effects of his injuries a day or two later. March 9 the men whose names are given above were arrested by Adjutant General Campbell of Topeka, Col. J. H. Ricksecker of Sterling, Sheriff John H. Edwards and fourteen deputies and were brought to this city, charged with murder in the first degree. The arrests were made peaceably and the prisoners were, on March 10, taken to Dodge City for safe keeping.

There's a big difference in men, said a stranger as he sat in a hotel in a Western Dakota town. "Now, I saw two men in front of a saloon over here to-day. Pretty soon somebody began to shoot in the saloon, and one of the men started off mighty sudden and the other rushed right in. It shows—"

"I seen that, too, pardner," said a man who lived in the place. "an' it don't show nothing but a difference in their business."

"How's that?"

"Why, that man that started off so blame' fast was the city marshal. He knowed there was a row."

"But who was the man that rushed in?"

"Coroner."

Will Contest Talmage's Will.
St. Louis, Aug. 23.—It is stated that the three oldest children of the late Col. A. A. Talmage will contest their father's will. Col. Talmage left most of his property, said to be worth half a million, to his wife. He was married twice. To the three children by his first wife, and to the five children by the present Mrs. Talmage, he gave ten dollars each. The three children by the first wife are said to be greatly dissatisfied with the terms of the will.

DOCTORED DIAMONDS.

How a New York "Uncle" Was Victimized by a Clever Rogue.

Among those who have been making money on diamonds recently are the sharpers who, for some time past, have been victimizing some of our most expert pawnbrokers. It appears that not long since a French chemist invented a colorless liquid wash, which, smeared over the backs of diamonds set in rings or other jewelry, would give them for a short time that magnificent sparkle only seen in gems of the purest water. A low-grade diamond cut by this means temporarily he made to have all the appearance of the high-priced stone.

Some of the bright scoundrels in New York got hold of the secret, and buying up a quantity of poor quality diamonds used the wash upon them, and pawned them all over the city at a price far exceeding their value. The trick was discovered about two weeks ago, and in a very peculiar manner. One of the sharpers went into a Bowery pawnshop and offered for pledge a diamond ring, shirt studs and other gems of the same kind. He accepted $350 on the lot. The proprietor suspected that the articles had been stolen, and he saw, as he thought, that the gems were perfect ones; so he had one of his employes follow the man who had pawned the goods and purchase the ticket from him for $50.

Then the joyous pawnbroker knew the glittering gems were his own, and to prevent any future complications he took them from their settings and proceeded to wash them. When he dropped them into alcohol, his own chin dropped with them, for the blazing color was gone, there was only a sickly glitter to the stones, and the entire lot was found to be not worth more than one hundred dollars. And now the next time you go to pawn your diamonds in any shop in New York just notice how deftly your genial "Uncle" will drop your gems into a little well of alcohol before he gives you his estimate on the stones.—Jewelers' Weekly.

People who have been led to believe that Missourians go around the country in bare feet and with one suspender ought to walk around the Leland hotel and take a look at Governor Marmaduke of that much abused state. They would see a man with all of Roscoe Conkling's state-likeness. In fact, at one time in his life there was a striking facial appearance between Marmaduke and the Utica statesman. Marmaduke, like Conkling, has grown somewhat since those days. He is one of the urbane in the land. He grew up in school a knight, full-clad for a hero. He came up in a day when people believed they were castless, and when a tournament—fete champetre—was much better than a circus or any play that was ever put on the boards. Marmaduke was one of Joe Shelby's men in the first days of the war. He quarreled with General Walker, a brother Confederate, and a duel in Arkansas was the result. Walker fell mortally wounded. Marmaduke carried his ideas of chivalry around with him long after the last gun of the rebellion had been fired. After the last surrender he went to Mexico and offered his service to Maximilian. He was received at court and under the skies of Mexico he chatted with poor Carlotta before that beautiful woman became demented—he was master of the court language of Europe. But it is to Marmaduke's credit that he longed for other eyes under the skies of his own country and one day he came back here. His political disabilities were removed. He went into retreat at St. Louis. He became an editor of a commercial newspaper. Three times he aspired to the governorship, but Woodson, Harding and Crittenden were ahead of him. He declares now that his ambition is gratified, and when he throws off the mantle—they still call it a mantle in Missouri—he will be ready to seek the shades forever. If so he will be unlike the average Missourian.—Chicago Mail.

The Missinz Vote From Ohio

A remark made by Col. Ingersoll at that convention [Republican in 1880] if it has been published, will not suffer by republication. When Garfield's name became prominent, after the weary balloting, Ingersoll sat on the platform just behind two ladies who were strangers to him. The state of Ohio, with forty-four votes, was called, and the chairman got up and cast forty-three votes for Garfield. Garfield was a member of the delegation, and refused to vote for himself. The two ladies who occupied seats in front of Ingersoll did not understand or appreciate the situation.

"I wonder," said one of them, "what Ohio means by casting only forty-three votes?"

"I cannot imagine," replied her companion. "The secretary certainly said the state had forty-four votes."

"I do wonder what it can mean," repeated the first lady.

Ingersoll, who had been hearing the conversation and getting very nervous could stand it no longer. Leaning over, he addressed the ladies as follows:

"I beg your pardon, ladies, but I can tell you what it means. It means that James A. Garfield is a gentleman."—Cor. Louisville Courier-Journal.

Fleeing From an Imaginary Mob.

Independence, Mo., Aug. 21.—J. W. Flanagan, a witness for J. J. Henry, the late pastor of the Christian church at Odessa, who is charged with a grave offense, which is now being investigated by the Christian church people, appeared at the county jail here last night, wildly excited. He claimed that a mob had chased him away from Odessa last Tuesday and has followed him ever since, sometimes almost catching him. He carried two revolvers. While in jail here he was under the impression that a mob of 185 men was around it. He was released after a telegram was received from Odessa announcing that he was not wanted.

A Contemptible Trick.

"Never heard of any thing so contemptible mean in all my life—never!" he said, as he brought his right hand down upon his left.

"What was it?"

"Why, I bet twenty dollars with a man on one of the races, and we put the money in the hands of stakeholder. I won it."

"Well?"

"Well, a constable stood right there and attached the whole forty dollars for a debt of five years old!"

"No!"

"He positively did, and he offered to mop the ground with me to boot! It is just such work as this that has brought horse racing into disrepute, and which keeps honest people away from the tracks!"—Detroit Free Press.

How to Preserve Ivory.

Articles made of ivory should not be exposed to heat or dryness. They should never be exposed to the direct rays of a hot sun or placed in a closet near or under a fire, as they are very apt to split under such circumstances. When ivory becomes discolored it may be restored to its white color by being soaked in water and when wet exposed to the action of light while shut up in a well closed glass case. When ivory has been kept long it is apt to diminish in weight, owing to the loss of gelatine, of which it is partly composed. This may be remedied by soaking the article in a solution of that substance. It is in consequence of ivory being thus influenced that in making very minute measurements it is seldom employed.—Detroit Tribune.

—A Vermonter attending a prayer-meeting in Massachusetts heard an elderly gentleman express his feelings in the following manner: "And we should all, my dear friends, bless the Lord that we were not born in Africa, nor Vermont, nor any other dark corner of the earth!"—St. Albans (Vt.) Messenger.

A Sure Cure for Measles and Summer Dysentery.

Dr. Cheney, who furnishes the following splendid testimonial to the remarkable efficacy of Swift's Specific in measles, preventing the frequently fatal after consequences of this prevalent disease, and attesting the remarkable virtues of the medicine in the prevention of summer dysentery, is one of the most eminent and best known physicians in Georgia; he writes:

Ellaville, Ga., March 21, 1887

Gentlemen—I have used your S. S. S. medicine with exceptional benefit on patients convalescing from measles. A feature of that disease is that it leaves the mucous membrane chronically inflamed—that is the inflammation continues from four to six months. I have given it to several patients just getting out of bed from the measles, and always with the happiest result.

I also used S. S. S. in convalescent fever cases with the best result. It will, in my judgement prevent summer dysentery, if one will take a few bottles in the spring, thus preparing the bowels for the strains of the summer.

I am prompted to send you this letter, because just now I am aware that measles prevail in Southwest Georgia. While I hesitate to appear as a voucher for proprietary medicines, S. S. S. has become such a standard medicine with many regular physicians, that I am relieved of the embarrassment ordinarily attached to a regular physician's endorsement of proprietary medicines. Besides the claims of suffering humanity are greater than selfish professional ethics.

Yours Sincerely,

J. N. CHENEY, M.D.

It is generally allowed that Dan W. A Case of Deafness Entirely Cured.

Office of Shaw & Baldwin's Wholesale Notion House, Toledo, O., Dec. 11 '90.

F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.—Dear Sirs: About three months ago noticing a letter addressed to you in the Bee from Gen. Slevin, in reference to the cure of his son by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure, we were induced to commence the use of it for our daughter Nellie, now fourteen years old, who has been suffering from catarrh for about eight years, during which time she has been treated by one of the best physicians in the city. We have also tried the use of most all the known remedies for catarrh, with no more success than temporary relief. Many nights have we lain awake to hold her mouth open to keep her from strangling. Her hearing had also become affected. We were afraid that she would never recover. We have now used six bottles of Hall's Catarrh Cure, and we believe Nellie to be entirely cured. In a few days after commencing the use of it we noticed a decided change for the better, and from that right along she has improved, until now she breathes as easily as any one. She sleeps well and her hearing is perfectly good. We feel that the disease is entirely removed. We write this unsolicited letter, feeling that it is due you, and with the hope that others may be benefited in like manner. We can hardly realize that such a change could be effected in so short a time after battling with the disease so long. We are still using the remedy at intervals, as it seems to build up her system. You are at liberty to use this in any manner you see proper. We are yours truly, Drunkness or the Liquor Habit Positively Cured by administering Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it; is absolutely harmless, and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been made temperate men who have taken Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and to-day believe they quit drinking of their own free will. It never fails. The system once impregnated with the Specific it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. For full particulars, address GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race st. B. A. FARNESTOCK'S

ESTABLISHED 1862. It is now nearly fifty years since this medicine was offered as a remedy for Worms, and from that time its reputation has steadily increased until it is now almost universally acknowledged throughout nearly all parts of the world to be the best and most reliable remedy for the purpose of pleasing the palate than of overcoming the disease. Worms, made more so especially by the timely use of B. A. Farnestock's Vermifuge, are cordially invited to visit his establishment and examine his splendid display of beautiful goods and the low prices.

VERMIFUGE

Many a helpless child has been laid in the grave when the disease which caused its death has been entirely misunderstood, and when worms have really been the cause. It has been proved beyond doubt that worms exist in the human system from earliest infancy, therefore parents—especially mothers who are more constantly with their children—cannot be too observing of the first symptoms of worms, for so early as they exist, they can be safely and speedily removed from the most delicate system, by the timely use of B. A. Farnestock's Vermifuge. Physicians do not hesitate to recommend it and use it in their practice, and many of the most eminent of the profession, from all parts of the country, testify to its uniform success. In fact, it never fails. It has frequently been given to children as a safe purgative, and the result of its use is a healthy child, and a mother who is free from all the annoyances and discomforts which attend the use of other worm medicines. Great caution must be used by every parent, not to give his child any other medicine, until he has seen the initials B. A. FARNESTOCK, and has read the following directions:—

Parents, J. F. Schwartz & Co., Pittsburg, Pa.
Gentlemen—Have used some of that most excellent Vermifuge, B. A. Farnestock's Vermifuge, and found it to have the desired effect. I think your Vermifuge is the most reliable and efficient in all cases where a Vermifuge is needed.
