sorted, too, good authority, that Johnson for a prominent place in Bryan's cabinet, in case the Nebraskan goes to the White House.

Johnson's speedy rise to fame is almost a record-breaker, even in America. When he celebrated his fortieth birthday seven years ago, Johnson was the editor of a little paper in the little town of St. Peter, Minn., and was hardly known outside of his home county. Today his influence extends over the nation and he is even better known in the East and South than in the North and West.

It was on July 28, 1861, that Johnson first saw the light in St. Peter the village which he still calls home. His father and mother were Swedish immigrants. The former was hopelessly addicted to drink and died in an almshouse, while the mother, durcould win—except Although Minnesota is overwhelmingly Republican, and in that year gave Roosevelt a majority of 161,000, Johnson carried the state by 7,000. In 1906 he was re-elected by 72,000.

Although it would be an exaggeration to call Governor Johnson handsome, he is yet attractive in appearance. He is over six feet in height, weighs about 175 pounds, and has a strong angular face, with blue eyes and brown hair.

Whether Johnson the erstwhile country editor, will some day become the greatest man of the nation, is a question for the future to decide. To his friends such a culmination of his career appears not only possible, but probable.

It was at this time that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was first brought into use. It proved more successful than any other remedy or treatment, and has for thirty-five years maintained that record. From a small beginning its sale and use has extended to every part of the United States and to many foreign countries. Nine druggists out of ten recommend it when their opinion is asked, although they have other medicines that pay them a greater profit. It can always be depended upon, even in the most severe and dangerous cases. For sale by Hays & Field and the Yellow Pine Pharmacy.

Chicago, July 28.—With nearly a dozen active candidates for the presidential nomination in the field, the Independence Party national convention will resume its session this afternoon and before midnight, according to plans, will have made a choice of its standard bearer, adopted a platform and concluded its business.

This morning the state delegations held meetings to elect new national committeemen and chairmen of delegations and to agree as to plans in platform to be supported and candidates for presidents and vice president. The program for this afternoon is as follows:

2:00 P. M.—Report of Committee on Permanent Organization.

2:05 P. M.—Election of permanent Chairman of convention.

2:10 P. M.—Speech of permanent Chairman.

3:00 P. M.—Election of other permanent officers.

3:05 P. M.—Report of Committee on Credentials.

3:10 P. M.—Report of Committee on Rules.

3:15 P. M.—Report of Committee on Resolutions and Platform.

3:30 P. M.—Discussion of platform to be adopted.

6:00 P. M.—Recess.

8:00 P. M.—Selection of new National Committee.

8:15 P. M.—Nomination of party's first candidate for President.

11:00 P. M.—Nomination of Vice-President.

11:30 P. M.—Appointment of Notification and other committees.

Although many delegates have joined in a demand that William Randolph Hearst accept the presidential nomination, he is apparently determined that the honor go elsewhere and his wishes will probably be respected. Among those mentioned for the first place on the ticket are Thomas L. Hisgen, of Massachusetts; John Temple Graves, of Georgia; Howard S. Taylor, of Illinois; the Hon. Charles A. Walsh, of Iowa, secretary of the National Committee of the new party; M. W. Howard, of Alabama; Reuben Noble Lyon, of New York; Charles F. S. Neal, of Indiana and Hugh McIsaacs, of California.

Mr. Hisgen is also averse to accepting the nomination, but his supporters are persistent and his name will probably go before the convention. Mr. Hisgen was the first nominee on the Independence Party ticket for governor of Massachusetts last year, and as a result of an active campaign polled 6,000 more votes for Governor than the regular Democratic nominee for the office. He is known throughout New England as "Honest Tom" Hisgen.

This title came to Mr. Hisgen as a result of a long and successful fight against the Standard Oil Trust. Mr. Hisgen, with his brothers, controlled an independent oil plant and was successful. The Oil Trust undertook to drive them out of business and Mr. Hisgen led the fight. "Sell out to us or get out of business," was the ultimatum of the trust. Hisgen refused to do either and, although forced into an expensive fight, his company is still in business.

Mr. Hisgen and three brothers composed the independent company. Their cars were sidetracked by the railroads of New England and delayed for weeks their plants burned under suspicious circumstances and prices were cut by the trust to a point where every gallon of oil sold meant a loss. The Hisgens originally were manufacturers of axle grease, but were forced into the oil business because the trust refused to allow dealers who handled their axle grease to sell petroleum, which the trust controlled.

John Temple Graves of Georgia, now employed as an editor on one of Mr. Hearst's New York papers, is also being pushed to the front by his admirers in both the South and the East. He is the principal orator of the new party, as well as being a brilliant writer. Mr. Graves has won the support of thousands of voters throughout the South, who desire to see him nominated as the first candidate of the new party. Since he became connected with the Independence Party his services as a speaker have been in constant demand at State and local conventions of the party.

Milford W. Howard, of Fort Payne, Ala., National Committeeman of the League from that State, is another active candidate. Mr. Howard has long been an active opponent of the old Democratic machine in Alabama, and was twice elected as a Representative to Congress from his district. In his first campaign he polled 3,400 more votes in the Seventh District than his Democratic opponent. He received 6,838 votes, to 3,452 for William H. Denson.

Charles A. Walsh, of Ottumwa, Ia., secretary of the Independence Party National Committee, is another aspirant. His friends have made an active canvass to bring about his nomination as the candidate for President. Mr. Walsh is one of the most widely known political leaders of the middle West, Northwest and Southwest.

Howard S. Taylor, of Chicago, has the support of the delegates from Illinois and may have the support of Michigan and Ohio on the first ballot. Mr. Taylor was one of the most successful prosecuting attorneys of Cook County, in which Chicago is located. In addition he is a poet and is the author of the famous poem, "What Would Lincoln Say?" He was born in Staunton, Virginia. While a child, his parents decided that the opportunities of the West contained greater promise of success and migrated to Chicago. Reuben Roble Lynn, of Steuben
