SCHOOL FOR FARMERS NOW

Hearst News Service.

Philadelphia, November 10.—A farmers' school on wheels left Philadelphia today for a tour of Eastern Pennsylvania under the joint auspices of the State government and the State College of Agriculture. Practical instruction will be given the farmers and the project promises to be a great success. Much interest has been manifested in all the towns where the special agricultural train will stop.

Twenty-two stops will be made, at each of which a forty-five minute talk by an expert from the State College will be given on the growing of alfalfa, soil fertility, corn culture and dairy products.

Under the direction of Prof. Alva Agee, of the Department of Agricultural Extension of the State College, pamphlets have been prepared for distribution containing practical suggestions to the farmers for improving both his products and the soil.

Prof. Agee believes that the adoption of improved methods will greatly increase the agricultural output of Pennsylvania, and the State College experts will urge their adoption in their lectures.

STOLEN GOODS WERE RECOVERED

Whoever made the first robbery of Rubenstein Bros. store about three weeks ago failed to profit thereby.

Yesterday most of the amount of goods taken in the first robbery of the store was returned, having been found by the section hands of the Gulf and Ship Island a short distance south of the city concealed under a house. The goods were packed in two valises and when found were brought by the section foreman to the Rubenstein store and were promptly identified by the firm. It was stated that as far as could be told, most of the goods were in the amount returned. Just why they were deserted and left at the place of concealment is not known. There is no clew to the parties who got the goods, but the Messrs Rubenstein were very glad to get them back.

The last goods taken from this firm a few days ago have not been recovered. The amount of the last steal was small.
