Mr. B. P. Gooch and Mesdames O. T. Tarver, W. B. Page and Mary Stevenson attended the Oxford Association of the Baptist church held with Concord church Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of last week. They report the meeting one of the best ever held—from the fried chicken up.

The friends of Mr. J. W. Simons will be glad to learn that he is able to be up after an illness of 42 days with malarial fever.

The final primary between the contestants for Congress in the Second District held Saturday, resulted in the election of Hon. H. D. Stephens, of New Albany, over Hon. W. A. Roane, of Oxford.

Messrs. J. B. Rogers and J. Leland Trusty left Monday evening for a few days' visit to Dawson Springs, Ky.

Public School Opening.

Last Monday when the Water Valley Public School opened, although we had been used to the sight before, we couldn't help but be amazed. It was children and children, and children, it looked to us, for miles and miles. They just kept coming from east and west and north and south, and—and—up and down.

We've got a powerful big school building, but we couldn't decide where they are going to put them, but we are certain they got them housed, for they all disappeared somewhere, and the superintendent and teachers must have got hold of them.

The first day something like six hundred and fifty presented themselves as candidates at the educational altar, and they were met on the half-way ground by good teachers ready to welcome them into the fold of mind development.

Now, just think of the responsibility of the teacher! Something like seven hundred boys and girls to look after. Not only their minds are to be educated, but their hearts are to be cultivated and trained that they may make good men and good women for the responsibilities of the future.

It seems we never saw so many pretty children in all our life, and they looked like they ought to be the best children in the world.

The school starts off under the most encouraging auspices—a capable and hard-working superintendent, assisted by a splendid corps of teachers. With the proper support from the patrons we can have the best school in the State of Mississippi. Let's give our heart and hand in helping those who have this great work in hand. The patron can help as well as the teacher. Let's put our enthusiasm into the work and watch the boys and girls grow into strong men and women. We repeat, the patron can help as well as the teacher. This should be the school's most successful year.

You fathers and mothers want to see your sons and daughters grow up into strong manhood and womanhood. You can't see this if you cater to their whims.

May the work of the public school go on to perfection.

Mr. Will Landers, of Clarksdale, Mrs. Charles Carr, of Coahoma, Mrs. Lizzie Holt, of Grenada, Mr. A. H. Landers, of Memphis, and Mr. Lyle Stafford, of Winona, were in the city Tuesday to attend the funeral of their mother, Mrs. N. J. Landers.

EDITOR CITY ITEMIZER:

Please say to the public through the columns of your valuable paper, that next Sunday, September 18th, is "Rally Day", of the First Methodist church.

We expect to make that day a great praise and rally day, at which time we desire to have a reunion of all the pupils of the Sunday School.

We expect every member of the church in the city to come next Sunday morning at 9:45 o'clock. Expect all friends of the church to come; and all who desire to be in attendance upon a live Sunday School, which is actually doing the work of studying God's word, are cordially invited to come, either as visitors or to be enrolled as pupils.

You may say, also, that the Baraca class will take advantage of this occasion to initiate their great movement looking to the creation of a library for the young men of Water Valley, and for aught we know, it may mean the establishment of a Carnegie library and reading room in the city of Water Valley.

I ask all teachers to meet at the church promptly at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Remember Sunday, September 18th, Rally Day at the First Methodist church.

Yours truly,

JAS. G. MCGOWEN,

Superintendent.
