Mrs. Fannie E. Chenoweth, county superintendent, visited the schools at Birch creek and Fish Lake this week and thus completed her tour of the county for the first half of the year. The Birch creek school will complete a three months' term in two weeks, and the Fish Lake school will continue for six weeks. Mrs. Chenoweth was accompanied by Miss Franklin, of Burton.
Gracie, the 7 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kyle Price had the misfortune to lose an eye recently, in California. The little girl had by some accident, been severely cut on the temple, and was riding with her father playing with an open pocket knife. Probably the bandage on her head caused some inconvenience, as she raised the hand which was holding the knife and a sudden jolt of the carriage caused the blade to enter the eye, destroying the sight. There is danger that the other eye may also be rendered sightless, through sympathy.
Aguinaldo is reported as killed again, and as he has now suffered the extreme penalty nearly as many times as the Great Falls ball team has accepted it in the neck from Helena, to say nothing of the segregation of his helpmate from her lingerie, and the presumable embarrassment and mental suffering of that esteemed lady in consequence, let us hope that his earthly tortures have ceased.
The state board of land commissioners Friday afternoon decided to relinquish school sections 16 and 35 in the Blackfoot reservation, for which lieu lands will be selected. There are about 90,000 acres of school lands on that reservation.
The board yesterday authorized State Land Agent Neill to make selections of unsurveyed timber lands in Flathead county and to eliminate from applications already made certain lands found not to be desirable. The state land agent will go next week to Kalispell, from where he will begin a "cruise" for timber lands for the state.
A. Mr. Colwell, representing a Minneapolis firm, was here last week, and took an order for school supplies for Dupuyer district. Mr. Colwell intended to go to Blackfoot Monday morning, and under the skillful guidance of mine host Steele loaded his bike and other effects on Mike Gahagan's yellow legged wagon, reverently kicking the accumulation of Dupuyer real estate off his shoes as he mounted the oughter-mobile. When about three miles out, it occurred to the passenger that he was traveling toward the Crow reservation instead of that of the Blackfeet, and in reply to his anxious inquiry, Mike,—"honest Mike!"—confessed that the suspicion was founded on absolute fact. Right there the Dupuyer-Choteau stage line lost a passenger, and Colwell also made a losing, but his loss will not be permanent if Joe Hein will only wrap up in fire proof material and ship to the Minneapolis firm, any stray bits of temper he may find grazing around his ranch. At last accounts, a bicycle was madly penetrating the atmosphere in the direction of that Mecca of irrigation enthusiasts, where the waters of Birch creek fondly blend with Peoria's product, when coaxed by an infusion of natural leaf, that spot so dearly beloved by the candidate during the even numbered years, and which appears on the election returns under the delirious name of Robare. Vale, Colwell, but return when your sense of locality has hurled defiance at the anti-expansionists, and get even with Bob, by blowing yourself with the opposition.
