GAMBLING WELL RAISED

Sheriff's Officers Swoop Down Upon the Players.

KING FARO MUST SUCCUMB

Three Operators of a Game Arrested. Faro Boxes, Chips, Money, Tables and Other Implements Seized. Well Planned Raid.

For some time past it has been rumored that gambling was being conducted in the basement of the Reception saloon, owned by Johnson & Griffin.

This news came to the knowledge of the county attorney and he placed the matter in the hands of Joe Daly, under sheriff of the county. Daly went quietly to work with the object of ascertaining exactly what was being done, and it was learned that at least two faro tables were often run as well as a poker game. The room where the games were being conducted was in the basement of the building, the entrance to it being by a stairway in the rear part of the saloon.

People in going to the gambling room would therefore have to enter the front door of the saloon and proceed to the rear. It is understood that there was an attachment of some kind connecting the gambling room with the saloon by means of an electric bell, so that those in the gambling room could be notified of danger.

The door of the entrance to the gambling room, at the foot of the stairway, was arranged so that it could be barred against entrance, and it also had a small window by which the approach of people being guarded at the door. All this was learned by Daly before his plans were finally arranged to make the raid, as he did last night.

About 11:30 o'clock last night Deputy Sheriff Daly, in company with Deputy Sheriffs J. J. McGuiness, Charles Gallagher, Mich. Pickel, C. K. Hardenbrook and a visitor to the city, Monte Gilbert, proceeded to make the raid.

They went to the rear of the building in order to avoid the long walk through the saloon and to be able to get down to the gambling room, if possible, before there was a chance to bar the door. At the rear of the saloon they left Hardenbrook and Gilbert for the purpose of arresting any person who might attempt to escape through the rear. Daly, McGuiness, Pickel and Gallagher then entered the back door quickly and hurried down the stairway. As they did so they heard the alarm given when they got to the door they made one push, but failed to open it. They then burst it open, while some one was attempting to place the bar against it. All the officers had their revolvers in their hands. It was apparent to the officers that the game had just been in full progress and desperate efforts were being made by all there to conceal everything that would be evidence against them.

Of course there was great excitement for a few minutes and the officers announced that all present were under arrest.

There were altogether about 15 persons in the room. There were two faro tables, but only one appeared to have been in operation. The other game, however was subsequently released except William Griffin, Jack Somerville and Newton Shannon, who, it is alleged, were conducting the game. They were taken to the jail.

The sheriff seized the faro layouts, consisting of the tables, faro checks, all the faro boxes, a large pile of chips and about $150 in money, which was found in a drawer of the faro table.

The sheriff took possession of all these implements and left them in the room overnight with a man in charge, as it was impracticable to remove them until daylight.

The preliminary examination of the defendants will probably take place this afternoon or Monday before Judge Fitzgerald.

The raid reflects great credit upon Sheriff Daly and the entire sheriff's office, as it is proof conclusive that there are officers in this county who can be relied upon to do their duty in suppressing this rampant evil and in contempt of the law. All the evidence in the case has not been disclosed, but it is understood that there is a strong case.

Efforts were being made to procure bonds for the arrested persons last night, but owing to the late hour it is extremely unlikely that they were successful. Judge Fitzgerald said he would accept bonds in the sum of $700 for each prisoner.

Mrs. Jean Morris Ellis, the lady who is to lecture in the Auditorium this evening, has a splendid reputation as lecturer and a character reader, and is highly recommended by both press and public.

UP IN A BALLOON.

An Afternoon of Splendid Sport Arranged for Sunday.

The attraction at the Athletic Field on Sunday afternoon next will undoubtedly draw an immense crowd, for it is widely known that Professor Leonard is one of the best acrobats, and most daring acrobats that the world has ever known. His balloon ascension and parachute jump is one of the most exciting and awe-inspiring spectacles that may be witnessed.

Professor Leonard last season made seven ascensions in Helena and there are many in this city who know the success which attended them. He has made ascensions in many parts of the country, and wherever he has gone the crowds who have seen him have been surprised at his courage and the daring of his act.

Preparations are being made this week for the ascent of next Sunday. A trench has been dug which is being lined with sheet iron, in which to generate hot air to inflate the balloon. Professor Leonard will ascend to a height of 2,500 or 3,000 feet. He will then drop head foremost a distance of 100 feet.

When his parachute will open, checking the rapidity of his descent and guiding him safely to terra firma. While in midair he will perform gymnastic exercises, hang by his toes and in other ways, exhibit his skill and daring. Thousands have congratulated him upon the success of his aerial excursion, and of its kind the balloon ascension next Sunday will doubtless be the event of the season.

A unique plan of advertising the great event has been evolved in the decoration of a street car with an illuminated announcement of the proceedings on Sunday.

There will also be a good programme of bicycle events, competition races and record tests. Full particulars of which will appear in to-morrow's paper.

THE "LAY OF THE LAST MINSTREL."

It Should Be the Last Lay of the Organ Grinder.

An unmusical but muscular organ grinder has struck town. The mechanical musician displays on his music-box this affecting and pathetic appeal: "My intention is not to follow you to life. Help me to get on my feet now and I will take care of myself for the future."

In the sake of suffering humanity, it is to be hoped that charitable people will put this wandering minstrel "on his feet," and cause him to bid farewell to the musical profession. Should he remain in the city and continue to grind out horrible noise with his music-box, some genuine lover of music will be strongly tempted to "put him on his feet" or to "put a head on him."

Yesterday Mrs. Hennessy was leading a horse by a rope halter when the animal endeavored to get away and became unmanageable. Her left hand became entangled in the rope, and was lacerated so badly that it became necessary to amputate the first and second fingers.

Charles Dine, a vagrant, was ordered out of town by Judge Fitzgerald yesterday. He was arrested by O'Brien and Stevens.

The 10th of this month is payday at the brickyard, upper works, converter, the substantial farmhouse of William McAdams, one of the oldest inhabitants of this part of the State. Mr. McAdams came to the county sixty-six years ago and settled in Howard on a farm adjacent to the one he now occupies, and moved in 1832 to his present home, where he has lived ever since. It is one of the most picturesque points in Steuben County, and commands a wide view both in the direction of Hornellsville and Bath.

When your correspondent presented himself at Mr. McAdams' house Mrs. McAdams said that her husband was out on an adjacent hill of the farm, leading back which he was preparing to draw to Canisteo. Anyone who knew Mr. McAdams two years ago would scarcely believe that such a thing were possible for a man in the condition in which he was at that time, for among his neighbors and even among his family, Mr. McAdams' case was set down as incurable, and it was only regarded as a question of time when the disease would prove fatal.

Mrs. McAdams then entered into a history of her husband's case, stating that about two years ago Mr. McAdams caught a slight cold while working on his farm, which at his advanced age (sixty-seven years at that time), rapidly developed into sciatic rheumatism, the disease settling in his left side, from his hip down to his foot, rendering the left leg almost useless and terribly painful. From a hale and hearty farmer, who was able to do any amount of work, he became invalid, and in the fall of 1894 his rheumatism became so bad that he could do absolutely nothing. On election day of that year he was so helpless that his neighbor, Mr. Willis, had to come and drive him over to the polls to vote. Mrs. McAdams said that when the spasms of rheumatism would come upon her husband, the only thing that gave him relief was to lie on his back, with double and clasp both arms about the limb where the pain was, and that she had seen him stop and bend over in that way three times in coming the distance from their farm to the bank being an assumed fact, and fifty feet, and sometimes he would have to call for help before he could get in. Eventually he was compelled to move about in a rocking chair, and after a time he became so weak that he could not get up, and at night, when his attacks came on, it was terrible to hear his groans and have no way of relieving him. He found it impossible to get a refreshing sleep, and had to lie on his back, and he grew pale and thin, and gave himself up to die. He had, of course, tried many remedies for his rheumatism, and had used all sorts of temporary relief, but none gave him any real or permanent benefit. At about this time, Mrs. McAdams saw an advertisement of Pink Pills for Pale People in one of the newspapers, and she persuaded her husband to try what they would do for him.

Mr. McAdams had no faith in the pills whatever, but to please his wife he began to take them, and to his great surprise, he experienced an agreeable relief, and he was greatly encouraged and wanted to give them up, but Mrs. McAdams thought they had hardly been given a fair trial and persuaded him to try them a little longer.

Dr. St. Jean is no longer one of the hospital physicians. It is understood that Dr. Spelman, Dr. McKenzie and Dr. Snyder will hereafter constitute the hospital staff. A petition was circulated at the works to this effect, and the change was made accordingly.

City Treasurer John R. Waikap has gone the county treasurer one better, for he is now the proud father of a girl named Mabel, a girl and a boy. He has sustained the reputation of the neighborhood, and covered himself with glory. Both mother and children are doing well.

Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Ayres of St. Paul, who have been guests at the home of William Lind of 417 East Sixth street for the past few days, left for their home last night. Mr. Ayres is a representative of the advertising department of the Great Northern railway and has been taking a vacation.

The employees of the Montana Union railway will hold their eighth annual picnic at Deer Lodge next Sunday, Sept. 12. They will furnish free refreshments and good music. The list of amusements is very complete. This picnic will be the greatest of the season. Good train service is assured.

IN BOZEMAN.

Large Number of Coal Prospects Being Taken Up.

Special Correspondence of the Standard.

Bozeman, Sept. 8.—Game Warden J. Keown returned Wednesday from a trip up through the West Gallatin basin to look for poachers. Mr. Keown went as far as the park line and to Taylor's Fork and found that everything was all right and plenty of game killed. While on his trip he saw a great number of elk, more than is usually seen in that part of the country at this time of the year. Owing to the West Gallatin road being in a very good state of repair, a large number of coal prospects are being taken up and opened. Mr. Keown saw one vein of coal which was 18 feet thick and of the best quality which had been reported in the region. While in that section of the country as well as of gold and silver and other minerals. Farming land in the basin, which heretofore has lain idle on account of the difficulty of getting farm products to any market, is being taken up rapidly, and the whole country, which until lately was practically deserted except by a few hunters during the summer cow camp, is now taking on an air of civilization.

Gold Coins Counterfeited.

Clarksville, Va., Sept. 10.—Sanford Collins and Andy Clover, alleged members of a gang of counterfeiters of the eastern part of the state, were brought here to-day by marshals. About a dozen belong to the gang. Their retreat was in a wild section of the mountains called Wild Cat Rocks, where a mold for twenty dollar gold pieces of 1890 and one for five dollar gold pieces were found. The coins produced from them could hardly be detected from the genuine article. Other arrests will follow.

The Anconda Slight Colds

From a Hale and Hearty Man the Patient Became a Confirmed Invalid—It Pays to Treat "Slight Colds" in Time—By so Doing Many Months of Suffering May be Averted.

From the Tribune, Hornellsville, N. Y.
Perehed on one of the highest hills of the town of Howard, midway between the villages of Howard and Tapscott, stands the substantial farmhouse of William McAdams, one of the oldest inhabitants of this part of the State.
