IT AFFORDS the NEWS no pleasure to mention the fact, but we believe it is high time that the officials were familiarizing themselves with the way a certain saloon in town is being conducted. It was only last evening when a lad of about sixteen years entered this place, which is undoubtedly one of the most degraded of its kind in Forsyth, and seeing his father in a very inebriated condition, endeavored to induce him to go home whereupon the pusillanimous proprietor of the "joint" made a vicious and cowardly assault upon the young man without any provocation whatever. This place has been the scene of many disturbances of late that may have been avoided had the proprietor been possessed of the sufficient amount of self-esteem and respect for the community. This stand taken by the NEWS may not meet with the approval of some of our residents, but this paper is an exponent of the law and insists that such atrocities should not exist. We believe we will be sanctioned in this matter by those who have the welfare of the community at heart.

It will be good news to the people of eastern Montana, and especially Rosebud county, to learn that Senator Clark has fulfilled his promise by introducing a bill looking to the segregation of a portion of the Crow reservation adjoining this county. The enactment of the Senator's bill looks more favorable than previous ones, for he has added a new feature to it providing for the irrigation of the ceded land from a river in the unceded portion.

TWO SCHOOLS.

I put my heart to school,
In the world where men grow wise.
"Go out," I said, "and learn the rule,
Come back when you win the prize."
My heart came back again,
"And where is the prize?" I cried.
"The rule was false, and the prize was pain,
And the teacher's name was Pride."
I put my heart to school,
In the woods where wild birds sing,
In the fields where flowers spring,
Where brooks run cool and clear,
And the blue of heaven bends near.
"Go out," I said; "you are only a fool,
But perhaps they can teach you here."
"And why do you stay so long,
My heart, and where do you roam?"
The answer came with a laugh and a song,
"I find this school is home."
—Henry Van Dyke in Atlantic Monthly.

They Weren't Fed.

"Some years ago," said a San Francisco man, "a globe trotting Englishman came into the city by the Golden Gate, and it fell to my lot to entertain him. So one night I took him to dine at the far famed Cliff House. It was a beautiful moonlight night, and from where we sat upon the porch we looked out upon the broad bosom of the Pacific ocean. The moon's light made a path across the waters, and in its center the Seal rocks lay like a black patch. The Englishman inquired what they were and upon my informing him said: 'Bah Jove, are those the Seal rocks of which I have heard? I'd very much like to see the seals. I say, my man, turning to the waiter, 'can't I see the seals? Don't you feed them at night?'"

"Oh, yessir," replied the waiter, who was of Hibernian descent, without blinking an eye. 'At 9 o'clock we always gives them their ham and eggs, sir.'

"The Englishman accepted this surprising piece of information without turning a hair and announced that he would surely be on hand at the time mentioned. He was; but, needless to say, the waiter was not."

Case of a Long Breath.

When chilled by exposure to cold, take a long breath, with the mouth firmly shut. Repeat this several times until you begin to feel the heat returning. It requires only a very short time to do this. The long breath quickens the pulse, and this causes the blood to circulate faster. The blood flows into all parts of the veins and arteries and gives out a great deal of heat. It is stated that a long, deep breath, held as long as possible, will close the pores of a heated skin, and the danger of taking cold, on stepping outdoors, may be thus guarded against.

Knocked Her Out With a Look.

While talking of the many notable people he met during his pugilistic career John L. Sullivan said one day in New York: "Once when I was in Sydney I had a suit of rooms directly over Sarah Bernhardt. I never met the lady, and I didn't much care. She was jabbering French all the time and was rehearsing constantly in her room. I heard so much of it that I pretty near had the willies. One night I happened to follow Sarah into her majesty's theater in Sydney, and I had a good chance to size her up. She was a feather-weight all right, and there was so much powder on her face that I thought she'd made a mistake. She got a look at me, and because I had been so much annoyed with her jabbering I scowled at her—gave her the look that used to scare the dubs who tried to stay four rounds with me. Well, sir, Sarah gave one long, mournful howl and fainted away. After that she didn't jabber any more, for she'd found out who was living up stairs."

As Bright as He Was Bad.

He was a charming little fellow of 4, pretty in his ways, good to look at, but as naughty as could be. He sat on the bottom step kicking his fat little legs and refusing utterly to obey his father, who had told him to go up stairs several times in increasing degrees of severity. After a few minutes of this clashing of wills his exasperated parent picked him up somewhat suddenly, carried him and sat him down very firmly on a chair in his room and then went out and shut the door. Silence reigned; not a sound from him for at least half an hour. Then the door opened, and a sweet little voice called out, "Father, have you got over your tantrum yet, for I should like to come down?"—London Tit-Bits.

Australian Nicknames.

The inhabitants of New South Wales have long been known as "cornstalks," an allusion to the length and slimmness of the average young New South Wales native. Victorians are known as "gum suckers," with reference to the gum that is found on many native trees, some of which is relished by juveniles. "Crow eaters," as applied to the South Australians, owes its origin to a statement that in times of drought the wheat farmers of South Australia are driven to the source suggested for food. "Wheatfielders" is a more euphonious name sometimes used for the same province.

The Queenslanders are known as "banana landers," that tropical fruit growing there abundantly. Western Australians—or, as they are now generally called, Westralians—are known in the east as "sand gropers" or "gropers." The Westralians themselves group all the other states into "t'other side" and call the residents "t'other siders."

THE wrong way to buy printing is the cheap way. If printing is to build business, it must be good printing. Good enough or pretty fair won't do. The best only is good enough. (We do the best work.)

If you strain at a dollar and swallow an inferior job—some do—your advertising cannot be bringing the best results, nor will you be satisfied with your stationery.

Good money pays for good work—we do the best work. We know how. We mix brains with the ink—the printer's ink.

Booklets are trade-fetchers. Leaflets, folders, or circulars, are money-makers. We estimate if you ask us—and you might better ask us.
