CITY HAS AUTO REPAIR SHOP

Municipal Chauffeurs Ordered to Have City Experts Make Repairs to Avoid Unnecessary Costs.

An ordinance providing for a system of ornamental electric lights on Farnam street has been submitted to the city council by the legal department, placed on its first and second readings and laid over until this morning.

This ordinance provides for the installation of not less than 130 flaming arc lamps, to cost the city not more than $88 per year. It funds permit as many more lights as the council deems necessary may be installed.

Police Commissioner Ryder introduced a resolution directing all commissioners to hereafter have their automobiles repaired at the city's repair shop adjoining the police station. The repairs, he said, have been costing the city too much. The resolution passed.

H. H. Bowes appeared to protest against the revocation of the saloon license of William Miller. The council heard his argument and upon the advice of Judge Ben Baker, corporation counsel, advised him to scrap it out in the courts as the council could do nothing under the law but revoke the license upon the conviction of the saloon keeper.

Councilman McGovern objected to the ordinance reappropriating city funds. Mr. McGovern's department was cut $3,300. He said he would need this money. Action was not taken to relieve the situation.

Act on Bee Editorial.

A communication was read from the insurance committee of the Commercial club calling the council's attention to an editorial in The Bee in which the danger of constructing flimsy buildings was pointed out and permanent buildings of high class construction urged. The communication was referred to the department of fire protection and water supply.

Report of appraisers fixed the value of the property condemned at Nineteenth and Twentieth and Ohio at $1,850.

Councilman A. C. Kugel did not attend the meeting, being confined to his home with an illness from which he has been suffering the last two days.

The expense account of W. D. Marks, appraiser in the employ of the city to fix the value of the gas company's property, was held over until Saturday for investigation.

Upon the recommendation of the city attorney it was decided to return to the owners all Auditorium stock donated.

A request from the Daughters of the American Revolution to have an ordinance passed making it a misdemeanor to deface Oregon trail markers, was referred to the legal department.

High School Teacher Gets Ph. D. Degree

The University of Nebraska has conferred the degree of doctor of philosophy upon three candidates: Former Chancellor E. B. Andrews, Prof. L. Pfeiffer of the department of history of Nebraska university and Mary Sullivan of Omaha. Miss Sullivan's work for this degree was done in Europe under the direction of Prof. C. W. Wallace, the world-famous Shakespearean scholar. The work was ready for presentation a year ago upon Miss Sullivan's return from Europe, but the examination was deferred because of the serious illness of Miss Sullivan's mother.

The thesis, which is the chief basis for the honor, is an original contribution to the knowledge of the Masques, presented at the court during Shakespeare's time. They involve Shakespeare and his fellows in the social and diplomatic maneuvers which characterized the struggles between Spain, France and England for continental supremacy and gave bitterness to the conflict between Catholicism and Protestantism.

Miss Sullivan will leave for New York City at the close of school. She will confer with other teachers of literature concerning high school courses in English and will read proof upon the manuscript which is ready for publication.

Objections Are Made Against Renewal of Rescue Home License

A petition, objecting to the re-establishment of the Tinley Rescue home at Fourth and Bancroft has been sent to the city council and is now in the hands of the legal department. Objections are made by Judge Howard Kennedy, Dr. E. Holovitchner, Dr. J. A. Williams, William H. Hatteroth and fifty others.

One of the reasons for objecting to the "home" advanced by the petitioners is that in the past it "received unfavorable comment and created notoriety." Also, the Douglas County Detention home is within one block of the site and too many institutions of such nature are being grouped near Fourth and Bancroft.

The petition sets forth that the value of property is decreased by having this home so near, improvements are retarded and the neighborhood is made undesirable.

Another reason for the objection is that there were disagreeable sights in connection with the operation of such an institution. It is not "conducive to good morals of those residing near or passing by the institution." For these reasons the petitioners request that the license be withheld. The council will consider the case when the city attorney brings in a report.

Seegerstrom Pianos to Be Sold Very Cheap

The Seegerstrom Manufacturing company, 185 Farnam street, stock of high-grade pianos will be closed out at a sale which will begin Monday morning. E. B. Seegerstrom, who is in charge of the local headquarters of the firm, has found it necessary to give up the business here in order to go to the Seegerstrom factory in Wisconsin and there help in conducting the piano-making business, which is one of the largest in this section of the country. The Seegerstrom company now has orders that will keep the factory busy until September 1, though no new business should be secured.

The Omaha stock of the Seegerstrom company includes more than twenty different makes and is one of the largest in the city. One of the lines carried is the famous Knabe piano.

All these pianos will be sold at great reduction in prices, beginning Monday morning. No piano will be held in reserve, for the Seegerstrom company has decided to sell every instrument within a certain time. The pianos have been priced so low that they are certain to go, declare the Seegerstrom company.

TENDS TO PRACTICE AS USUAL

Delivers Principal Address at the Meeting of the Omaha Bar Association—Helped Form State Government.

Despite the fact that he was up rather late Thursday night, Eleazer Wakeley, attorney, was at his office bright and early yesterday morning, ready to meet several clients who came in to consult him. He will be 90 years old today.

"Judge" Wakeley, as he is called because he served as a judge for sixteen years, in many ways is Omaha's most wonderful man. One of the most brilliant addresses made at the Omaha Bar association's annual dinner last night was made by him. His forehead is bald, his hair is white and his beard gives him a look of advanced age; but his face is the face of a man not beyond middle age. When he stands he is as straight as a young Sioux. Every faculty is retained in full strength, a remarkable vocabulary is at his command to express the profound thoughts of an active mind, the voice rings loud and clear.

Native of New York, Judge Wakeley was born June 15, 1822, in Homer N. Y. In 1844 he was admitted to the bar in Ohio. In 1847 he was a member of Wisconsin's last territorial legislature and drafted the constitutional convention act which preceded the admission of Wisconsin to statehood. In 1857 he came to Nebraska as associate justice of the territorial supreme court. After serving three years he went back to Wisconsin and resumed the practice of law, but he returned to Nebraska and located in Omaha in 1867. He was a member of the state constitutional convention in 1871 and helped Nebraska into statehood.

Last night Chief Justice Manah B. Reese of the Nebraska supreme court, wished that in ten years Judge Wakeley might let the bar association help him celebrate his hundredth anniversary and the association joined him in the wish.

BIG FINE FOR HITTING ELEVATOR CONDUCTOR

Ed McTigue was fined $15 and cost in police court for assaulting Leo Gannon, elevator conductor at the Union station, Thursday evening. He pleaded guilty to the charge.

McTigue was drunk and made some insulting remarks to Gannon which he resented. This precipitated a fight between the two in which Gannon was slightly disfigured. At the time the car was between two floors and filled with women passengers.
