His Coughing Less Arduous and the Expectoration Less Purgent.
A Feeling of Relief Generally Prevalent at Long Branch.
The Favorable Symptoms, However, are not Deemed Permanent and may Disappear.

National Associated Press.
LONG BRANCH, September 17.—The earliest report this morning shows that the patient had apparently passed a comfortable night. None of the attending surgeons were required at the patient's bedside after 10 o'clock and none were of course called. The surgeons left Franklin Cottage about 10:30 o'clock, when the cottage was closed, and remained so until 8 o'clock this morning. It was only opened to allow those who were on duty during the night to leave. Nurses brought out the information that the night was a quiet and comfortable one and there had been in all the unfavorable symptoms. This, to some extent, allayed an increasing feeling of anxiety over the long delay in issuing the morning bulletin. The appearances were given personally to the agent of the National Associated Press by two of the president's immediate attendants, who had been on duty throughout the night.

DRS. AGNEW AND BLISS visited the president together at 8 o'clock this morning. After they had been in consultation it was informally announced that the bulletin would be delayed, but would probably be a favorable one. It was stated that the delay was for the purpose of enabling them to make a very complete examination in order that the bulletin might convey the exact condition of the president. The delay occasioned anxiety, nevertheless. Some of the president's attendants state that he has held his own during the night, but

HAS MADE NO GAIN.
Dr. Boynton's exact language being: "The president had an unexpectedly favorable night, but has gained nothing."
 The weather is much better to-day—clear and warm—but high winds still prevail.

9:30 A. M. BULLETIN—OFFICIAL.
ELBERON, Sept. 17.—At the morning examination and dressing of the president the temperature was 99.8, pulse 108 and respiration 21. The fluctuations of the pulse during the night varied from 116 to 130, the temperature during this time not deviating much from normal. He slept well, taking nourishment as the benefit intervals. His cough was not troublesome, and the expectoration was moderate. The discharge from the wound is more healthy, and the color of the granulations has slightly improved. (Signed) D. W. BLISS, W. J. HAMILTON.

The original drafts of the official bulletin was given to the press by Dr. Agnew and was in his hand-writing for the first time since the removal to Long Branch. Dr. Bliss said subsequently: "Well, I do not feel so blue as last night. I think the president is better than during the evening and there are good grounds for

EXPECTING SOMETHING BETTER.
Attorney-General MacVaugh said the conditions were more favorable. The discharge from the lungs is better in quality and less unhealthy. While he could not say that he was greatly encouraged he thought there was less ground for anxiety than last night. Dr. Agnew was asked, if in his opinion, there was danger of

THE PRESIDENT'S DEATH.
 He refused to express an opinion upon the subject, but said there can be no doubt that the president is a very sick man; neither can there be doubt that he is better to-day than yesterday or last night, but it can't be said how long this will last. Dr. Boynton, who has not usually been hopeful, says this morning that there has been not only a subsidence of unfavorable symptoms, but also

AN ACTUAL IMPROVEMENT;
 that there is no immediate danger, and that the next twenty-four hours will be better than the last. He says yesterday's fluctuations were the greatest since he was sick. The latest rumor is that the trouble is complicated with continued malarial symptoms, but this is denied by the doctors. If malaria is present, it is claimed there will be another relapse Sunday. The president's mind to-day is again clear. He has taken as much nourishment as usual.

NOON BULLETIN—UNOFFICIAL.
 The president's condition, as summed up, is as follows: He slept better than at the same time yesterday, when he was in the midst of a febrile rise. There has thus far been no marked change during the day; no perceptible gain or loss. Pulse 102.

COL ROCKWELL,
 who sat up with the president all night, said: "He is better and will have a good day. He is not dead yet by great odds. If he is going to die from this trouble it is going to take a good deal yet to kill him, and it is going to take a long time to do it, too. The president is tough and he can stand a great deal yet."

Instantly Killed.
Special Dispatch to The Bee.
LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 18.—Alvin A. McGuire shot and instantly killed Elijah Vanariken. They quarreled about the woman who afterwards became McGuire's wife. Vanariken called to see her, was refused admission, and he kicked the door down. McGuire then shot him.

ELECTRIC BRIEFS.
National Associated Press.
Postmaster-General James, Secretary Hunt and Secretary Windom arrived in New York from Boston on Saturday evening.
 Peter Higgins was assassinated at Meridian, Miss., by one Theo. Sullivan.
 A rascal named John Monroe, of Wayne county, Ill., wedded a Miss McCarthy, of respectable parentage. After he had spent what money he possessed, he packed his family and effects in a wagon and started for Missouri. On the way he villainously demanded that his wife, who, to her additional misery, was in child-birth, get out of the wagon to get dinner. Complying, though reluctantly, to his brutal demand, he drove off and left the poor wife to die from exposure. Monroe was subsequently arrested and jailed.

The convention in Dublin of land leaguers Saturday adopted resolutions setting forth that it was the duty of tenant farmers in Ireland to give each laborer employed on their farms one-half acre of tilled land for each twenty-five acres of his holding.

Andrew Kountzeman, of Pittsburg, Pa., upon being discharged from jail this morning went to the residence of his wife, assaulted a man with a brick, knocking him senseless, found his wife in the yard and attacked her with a bar of iron, fracturing her skull and causing wounds from which she cannot recover. He then cut his throat and died a few moments later.

Contributions are being liberally forwarded from all parts of the country for the relief of the Michigan sufferers. There is such widespread distress, however, that it is thought $10,000 for six consecutive days will be necessary to keep people from perishing.

English mills continue to close. Over 5,000,000 spinners are reported to be idle at Oldham alone.

London dispatches from Candahar indicate that the ameer has gained much of his lost ground and has quite an advantage over Ayoub Kahn.

At a meeting of the Trades Union Congress, of London, Saturday, a letter over the signature of Minister Lowell was read, which thanked the delegates in behalf of the American people for their resolutions of friendship and sympathy for President Garfield.

VEST VERSUS GRANT.
Senator Vest Strikes a Foreboding Blow at the Ex-President.

National Associated Press.
ST. LOUIS, September 17.—Senator Vest, of Missouri, responding to an invitation to-day to attend the confederate reunion at Moberly, has excited much comment by an attack upon the late President Grant. He says: "I had foolishly hoped that the tears and prayers of the south over the dying president would at least have moderated this unworthy man to a second hate and passion, but General Grant has declared in an address that pensions must be given only to Union soldiers. The insinuation is disgraceful to him only who makes it. No confederate has ever asked a pension and Gen. Grant well knew it. What drug has worked so poisonous a change in this man since his testimony at Cairo a year ago, that those who wore the gray were as true to the Union as those who wore the blue?"

National Associated Press.

HER JUST DESERTS.
LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 17.—Information is received here this morning that Jane Campbell, a colored woman living near Dyke Mills, La., killed two children, aged 10 and 12. The woman beat out their brains with a pine knot for some trivial act of disobedience. After the inquest, and when the cause of death became known, a mob of whites and blacks dragged Mrs. Campbell from her cabin, tied her to a stake, and, despite her screams, literally roasted her alive. The crime and punishment is without parallel in the criminal annals.

Railroad Fatality.
National Associated Press.

ELMIRA, N. Y., September 17.—A collision occurred between the two eastward bound freight trains on the New York Lake Erie & Western railway this morning, eight miles east of this city. Five persons were killed—two instantly—and a sixth is fatally wounded.

THREE CHILDREN BURNED.
MARSHALL, Texas, Sept. 17.—A colored man and wife, named Johnson, residing ten miles southwest of Carthage, Panola county, left their three small children at home alone. The father dropped a coal of fire from his pipe as they went out, from which fire originated. The children were all burned to death.

CRAFTON.
A Town that is Springing into New Life.
Great Need of Proper Irrigation in Nebraska.

Some of the Most Prominent Business Features of the Place.

Correspondence of The Bee.

CRAFTON, Neb., September 18.—Crafton is the Wymore with which the B. & M. fought Sutton which was then without a depot at Blue Springs to-day. After Sutton got her depot Grafton dropped, in fact before the Graftonites weakened and many of them went, house and all, across the prairie to Sutton, but later years have proved that there is plenty of room for both towns and to-day Grafton claims a heavier grain trade than either of the more populous rival towns are east and west of her.

SHIPPING WHEAT.
 Three large elevators are busy all the time handling the wheat now coming in.

G. H. Warren's elevator has been enlarged and rebuilt to accommodate the pressure. Steam has recently been introduced in this elevator and now it will clean and transfer grain with rapidity.

LIVE STOCK.

A large amount of horned cattle and hogs are fattened for market in this vicinity, and the shipments are on the increase with great rapidity. In the course of time all the surplus grain of this country will go to market either by rail or by wagon, and the farmers wake up to the fact that Nebraska is not designed to compete with Minnesota for raising wheat, but that she can beat the world for producing cheaply the best steaks and hams that are so much prized as to always be in demand at high figures.

CORN IS KING,
 and it is corn that Nebraska farms produce in the greatest perfection. It is corn that makes the richest and best beef and the most deliciously flavored mutton and pork.

OUR GRASSES.
 The buffalo and the bunch, where can their equals be found? Rich and juicy from top to the roots, winter and summer they are eagerly eaten and supplemented by hay which makes a wonderful crop. This land is bound to be the paradise of stock farm owners.

BROUGHT.
 The lack of rain has not been so severely felt in this locality as in the southern central counties, but as Pennsylvania is moving for irrigation, would it not be well to recognize the undoubted fact that Nebraska does need irrigation at least as much as Pennsylvania? At Grafton I noticed one of the Hazen wind mills keeping up a little creek that would irrigate a twenty acre field if the stream were properly led out over the cultivated surface. In all my travels I never saw but one spot of Nebraska land that was irrigated, and that garden patch was a wilderness of vegetation that furnished the city of North Platte, Neb., with all the "garden truck" that was wanted.

The alkaline soil without irrigation would grow nothing but grass wood. It was too alkaline to produce grass enough to cover the ground, but, with irrigation, eastern products were dwarfed into insignificance. Why not experiment a little? Won't somebody irrigate ten acres somewhere by turning ditches from a wind-mill and digging the water through first one ditch and then another? I venture to assert that an experienced irrigationist will produce on ten acres of irrigated and carefully prepared South Platte land five hundred bushels of wheat. It is worth trying.

Some one put up a wind-mill or two and give the country the benefit of a practical test of the capabilities of our soil when enriched by a regular and copious flow of water? Why can't one of our railroads hire a Utah farmer to come here and try it on?

IMPROVEMENTS.
 The Grafton steam flouring mills have now the patent process, and, in fact, they have been thoroughly overhauled and refitted. They have four run of burrs, and Mr. J. A. Ellis, the proprietor, tells me that they have all the work they can do.

Mr. R. C. Price has built him a new building for his bank of Grafton, and it is a daisy and as neat as any country bank in Nebraska.

I am willing to venture a nickel that Dr. Ballard's new drug store and office are also models for a town like Grafton, and judging from the numerous calls the doctor receives, it is altogether probable that he is as busy as he cares to be. Dr. Ballard nevertheless accompanied my correspondent, and by his influence I got a wonderful subscription list in Grafton. It is not often that I meet with a better specimen of the educated public spirited gentleman.

QUARTERS FOR THE CROWD.
 Mr. A. C. Richards has recently taken charge of the only hotel in town and is trying to do the best he can with a miserable old rickety contracted building. It is a pity that some one won't erect a hotel here that will fill the demand of a town that has the importance as a shipping point that is accorded to Grafton.

Two restaurants started on the day I visited Grafton. J. G. McFadden and another man, whose name I did not learn, are the investors. They ought to succeed, and yet, unless they can find some place to give sleeping quarters to their patrons the demand of the town will not be anywhere near filled.

THE LAND
 in this vicinity, so the people boast, is just a trifle ahead of any other spot in Nebraska. When all the land is so rich and productive it is not uncommon to see one claiming that the exact spot they call home is just a little better than any other. Here the gentle roll of the surface and the blackness of the soil indicate that the agricultural possibilities are wonderful, and, without doubt, with a good year Grafton could make an astonishing exhibit.

This year of grace has, however, been a graceless year, and the crops are far below the average.

The belt covered by the hail storm extends to within two miles of the town of Grafton.

High prices equalize matters, however, and perhaps give a margin on the good side so that in dollars and cents the farmer of Central Nebraska will show good crop returns, probably above the average.

A weekly paper has been started by a handsome young editor who has made it a very handsome sheet, and he ought to be handsomely supported for he stands by the people's interests in a handsome manner. However, some handsome young girl should take him in her handsome arms and cook handsome dinners for him and rear his handsome family, and that would be doing the handsome thing by Grafton's handsome editor.

In the list of public improvements I missed the school house that Grafton is building. It is a fine structure and will cost $4,000. It will be ready for the winter term of school.

Capt Real, the owner of 1,400 acres, is making his property into a stock farm. He has an elegant residence and is surrounding himself with all that makes life desirable.

Grafton needs and should have a new depot. If the B. & M. wants to retain the friends she has in this town and get more of them she can't do better than to see that her Grafton depot keeps pace with the progress being made in all directions.

For business review of Grafton see advertising columns.
