County Treasurer E. B. Quible has selected W. H. Kennedy of Kennedy as his deputy county treasurer. This is a good selection for many reasons. First, Mr. Kennedy has a splendid education. He is worthy, being an old resident who has never before been honored with a remunerative office in this county and is perhaps one of the most capable men in this county, educationally speaking. Mr. Kennedy is deserving of some recognition and his friends around Kennedy recommend him highly. Mr. Quible's desire to serve the people as their officer has prompted him to make this selection for his deputy which meets with general approval so far as we have heard.

Pardon the delay this week and scarcity of reading articles. Five big public sales are being advertised and you will be more interested in them than anything. Thomas J. Christopher comes first with a big pure bred stock sale on Tuesday, Sept. 21, ten miles southwest of Valentine. George J. and Anna M. Gaskill on Wednesday, Sept. 22, will sell all their stock and farming tools, five miles west of Valentine. Mrs. Elma C. Richards, administrator of the estate of Edward R. Richards will sell 600 head of cattle and all other property of the estate on Friday, Sept. 24, at the ranch near Kennedy. Yank O'Bryan will sell 91 head of horses, 86 head of cattle, some hogs and a lot of farm implements, machinery, wagons, harness and tools on Tuesday Sept. 28, at his ranch on the reservation, 15 miles northwest of Valentine. Webster Wertz of Crookston will sell 44 head of stock, implements, tools, buildings, household goods and furniture on Wednesday, Sept. 29, at his ranch, one-quarter mile west of Crookston. Read the big advertisements of sales in this and next week's DEMOCRAT and watch this paper for public sales.

Roy Kuskie killed a panther last Saturday at his place 15 miles east of Valentine on the Niobrara river. It came boldly into his yard about 1 o'clock p. m., and caught a chicken. Roy got his rifle and gave chase, shooting repeatedly and wounding it in two places, breaking a front leg of the panther which still defied the dogs and climbed a tree. Upon arriving under the tree where the dogs stood guard, Roy beheld the panther ready to spring upon him and shot it through the heart, and jumped back as the panther sprang upon him, sustaining a scratch on the hand in warding it off. With a swipe of its paw the panther sent a dog to the ground and then fell back dead. The panther or catamount or bob-cat as some people call them was larger than a coyote and Roy brought it to town to have it mounted.
