Several of our people are sick, and the disease is said to be contagious by the doctors, and red flags have been ordered put up at places where there is contagious disease. The name of this disease has been passed upon by the doctors, but as they denied that it was smallpox in the first place, we would have to have the disease to convince us that it is smallpox now. However, it is similar to smallpox, chicken pox or measles, and it makes one sick for a few days, and as we have no grudge against anyone we don't want to catch the disease. Everybody is hereby warned to keep away from the red flags and use due precaution to keep others from rushing into danger.

There was a good crowd in attendance at the Crookston meeting Wednesday night. Prof. McCall, a farmer of Valley county, Nebr., spoke in an instructive manner for over two hours on the political issues, and being a man of mature years, having heard the cries of "Tippecanoe and Tyler, too," in 1840, was listened to with great interest by his audience. The Valentine glee club sang campaign songs and Prof. McCall gave two selections of poetry of his own composition which were highly appreciated.

Joseph Langer, candidate for representative of the 52d district, came in Monday morning from his home near Norden, to visit a few of our Cherry county people and get acquainted. Mr. Langer is a man who has always lived on a farm, and enjoys farm life, being a man of considerable talent, and is a self educated man who has the good will and respect of his neighbors and acquaintances. Mr. Langer was born in Austria-Hungary in 1863, coming to this country when about nineteen years of age, and though never schooled in the U. S. he is thoroughly familiar with the English language, having always been a student, a careful observer, a logical reasoner, a good scribe. A good-hearted, conscientious, thinking man is honest Joe Langer.
