ENIGMA.

I wanted the sweep of the wild, wet weather. The wind's long lash and the rain's free fall. The loss of the trees as they swayed together. The measureless gray that was over them all; Whose roar speaks more than a language spoken. Wordless and wonderful, cry on cry. The sob of an earth that is vexed and broken. The answering sob of a broken sky.

What should they tell us? We see them ever. The trees, and the sky, and the stretch of the land; But they give us a word of their secret never. They tell no story we understand. Yet hushly the ghostlike birch out yonder Knows much in a silent and placid way; The rain might tell what the gray clouds ponder.

The winds repeat what the violets say. Why weeps the rain? Do you know its sorrow? Do you know why the wind is so sad, so sad? Have you stood in a rift 'twixt a day and a morrow. Seen their hands meet and their eyes grow glad? Is the tree's pride strong at its top's blaze ment? Is the white rose none of a saint than the red? What thinks the star as it sees through the casement. A young girl lying, beautiful, dead? —Harry Poe—

A Pedestrian Feat.

If you desire to travel on foot through two kingdoms, two duchies and three principalities in the short space of five hours and ten minutes you have no need to transplant yourself to fairyland or put on a pair of seven league boots. The feat can be accomplished in the Fatherland without any great exertion. You select as your starting point the village of Steinbach, in the Bavarian district of Oberfranken, a station on the Gera-Saalfeld-Lichtenfels railway; from here you proceed in half an hour to Lichtenau (Saxe-Meiningen), and an hour and a half later you arrive at Reuschengess (Reuss o. L.).

The next halting place, Gleima (Schwarzburg-Rudolstadt) can be reached in ten minutes, and half an hour's walk takes you to Altenegess (Reuss y. L.). From here you march on to Drognitz (Prussia) in an hour and a half, and in an equal space of time you reach the final stage of your journey, Saultthal (Saxe-Altenbourg.)—Deutsche Verkehrszeitung.

Owls Kill Many Mice.

Mr. Nicholson has issued an appeal to landowners and country folk generally not to kill off every bird of prey, but, instead of nailing the skin of an owl or a hawk on a barn door because it bears an evil name in the poultry yard, and is in the black books of the gamekeeper, to preserve it, within limits, at least as sedulously as the partridges and pheasants in whose interests it is destroyed. The barn owl (Aluco flammeus) is undeniably the farmer's friend and by no means the sportsman's enemy. From observations made during the nesting time it has been calculated that it will bring to its callow young a mouse about once every twelve or fifteen minutes, and as many as twenty good sized rats, perfectly fresh, have been counted in a single nest. A nest containing five or six rats was placed under a hencoop, and no less than twenty-four rats, large and small, brought there by the parent birds, were found lying outside the coop the following morning.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED. As a general family remedy for dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.
