NUMBER 10.

VICTORY!

FOR CITY EXTENSION BILL

UP AND DOWN

THE AVENUE WITH THE EDITOR

It was a great victory for a great cause, that election today, and we are proud to live in a city made up of such people.

Did they vote and how. All day long. Think of it—1,289 people voted at the polls in the North Ward.

They said we were hard on the opponents—not at all charitable. All right. Now we can be charitable. This is a fine thing. We are willing to call it quits and have no more critical things to say about the opposition. Finis.

But, Oh boy, what we would like to have to say about the proponents, but this is just a little extra effort on our part to show how good we feel.

The price of this issue is supposed to be one penny with the newsboys getting the penny.

WE THANK YOU. See you in the regular issue Thursday.

Marriage for Reform

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

There used to be a familiar saying years ago when a young woman entered into a marriage contract with a rather wild and unregenerate partner that she had married him to reform him. There was also among some of the feeling that such a reform was possible. I now recall that any specific illustrations were brought forward to prove the case.

I general, those who were led into matrimony with the purpose of bringing about their reformation kept on in the same crooked path that they had previously, been following.

There is an old Norse legend of a farmer named Gudbrand and his wife who lived very happily together, the wife never trying to reform her husband.

"Now you must know," the story goes, "that this man and his good wife lived so happily together and understood one another so well, that all the husband did the wife thought so well done, there was nothing like it in the world, and she was always glad whatever he turned his hand to." They owned their farm, they had one hundred dollars in the bank, and they had two cows, one of which they decided to sell. Gudbrand undertook to sell the cow, but no one in town would buy her.

On the way home he met a man with a horse for which he traded the cow. As he progressed he made a succession of trades and came one after the other into possession of a pig, a goat, a sheep, a goose, and a cock. This last he disposed of for a shilling and then spent the shilling for a bite to eat.

On the way home he met a man who, upon hearing the details of his bargaining, wagered him a hundred dollars that when the wife heard the story Gudbrand would be roundly scolded. However, she, like a sensible woman, approved everything he had done.

Father Sage Says:

The man who says his wife doesn't understand him probably doesn't talk in the same language as in the rest of his courtship.

OVERWHELMING SUCCESS FOR ORGANIZATION

"Egg" Mayor Ousted

This is Mat Wagner, whose recent election as mayor of Winona, Minn., was annulled when he was convicted of violating the state corrupt practice act by distributing eggs for one cent a dozen when the retail price was 18 cents.

An egg said to be twice the size of an ordinary egg and having a "natural map of the universe," on it was laid by a hen belonging to Mrs. W. C. Hermon, of Martin, Tenn.

With smooth working efficiency, the finest election day organization in the history of the community marched triumphant to victory and a unified citizenry expressed in no uncertain terms its desires as an electorate.

Scores voted who had never voted before and the finest spirit was evident around the polls.

Fifty workers in automobiles formed a machine like engine which worked tirelessly thruout the hot day, from sunrise to sunset, on the second longest day of the year.

They came from every walk of life — these city builders of ours — to cast their vote for a bigger and better city. They voted as a unit. Any opposition which might have been evident in days past was swept to oblivion before the greatest avalanche of votes ever cast in this community.

Two records were set today by Roanoke Rapids voters. They voted and they voted as a unit.

Following an unprecedented registration of 2,691 voters for the special election, a registration brought about by the effort of the same splendid organization used today, Roanoke Rapids and Rosemary voters set what is probably an all time record by voting practically 90 per cent of that registration.

Tonight, as Registrars Clark and Welch turned over the final vote to the special election board, which in turn certified the election by official action, the entire area from the canal to the creek became known officially and to the world as the CITY OF ROANOKE RAPIDS.

Thanks to a splendid people and a hard working organization, this community has taken the most forward step in its entire history.
