

NEXT WEEK AT ROANOKE RAPIDS THEATRES

IMPERIAL OFFERS IRENE DUNNE AND CARY GRANT FILM

Anne Shirley In Thursday-Friday Picture Uptown

Irene Dunne and Cary Grant are the brilliant co-stars of the late release, "My Favorite Wife," which will be brought back to the Imperial Theatre for the Sunday only show on next week's program. "Lucky Partners" appearing at the uptown house on Monday and Tuesday, is reviewed on the opposite page.

A spine-tingling mystery thriller will be in store for "bargain day" audiences at the Imperial on Wednesday of next week when Jeffrey Lynn and Brenda Marshall are co-starred in the film, "Money And The Woman."

It is reported to be a novel tale of murder, robbery and blackmail. Action and excitement greet Jeffrey and Brenda when they attempt to thwart the looting of $90,000.

The supporting cast includes many screen favorites who lend plenty of action to the picture with their realistic portrayals. Film patrons who like their stories eerie shouldn't lose any time in seeing "Money And The Woman."

"Anne of Windy Poplars" will be shown at the Imperial on next Thursday-Friday, with Anne Shirley in the leading role. It is a sentimental story said to be ably portrayed on the screen and "good entertainment" for all of the family. The story provides tears, drama, love and intrigue, but it is above everything else, a story that is understandable for the millions of inhabitants of small communities who have a "ruling family."

Anne, newly appointed vice principal, arrives in Pringleton to take over a post in the school. The whole town is dominated by the Pringle family, headed by grim old Hester Pringle, Ethel Griffies. Anne has difficulty finding a room in a house where she can stay, her duties in the school are quadrupled from what she had expected them to be, and numerous other obstacles are placed in her path because the Pringle matriarch wanted the vice-principal's job for an adopted member of the family, Louise Campbell. Anne is taken in at Windy Poplars by a family who have little regard for the Pringles with Henry Travers the principal Pringle-hater. However, Anne makes friends with some members of the family, and finally an untimely end disposes of the chief cause of trouble and Pringleton becomes a pleasant place in which to live.

CAST: Anne Shirley, James Ellison, Henry Travers, Patric Knowles, Slim Summerville, Elizabeth Patterson, Louise Campbell, Joan Carroll, Katherine Alexander, Minnie Dupree, Alma Kruger, Marcia Mae Jones, Ethel Griffies, Clara Blandick, Gilbert Emery, Wright Kramer, Jackie Moran.

A mad mirthquake of humor is headed for the Imperial for showing next Saturday only when "Scatterbrain" will be the attraction there. In this picture Judy Canova emerges definitely as the comedienne of the hour. Her work in the starring role of this film, it is predicted, will rank her with the Marx Brothers, Martha Raye, the Ritz Brothers.

In "Scatterbrain" Judy is the hillbilly girl who is brought to Hollywood through error. But in her own, winsomely dumb way, she debunks the film colony and proves to her distraught employers that she is a gold mine in disguise.

Miss Shepherd Honored

Mrs. C. F. Gore of Weldon entertained Saturday afternoon for Miss Margaret Shepherd, bride-elect. Lovely arrangements of mixed flowers in pastel shades were used throughout the house.
