Vice President Fairbanks, who is president of the General Harrison Memorial association, in a few remarks, presented the monument to the people.

BEVERIDGE

Favors Publication of Campaign Funds and Money Only Spent for Literature

Richmond, Indiana, Oct. 27.—"I would not have a single man hauled to the polls. A man who does not think enough of himself and his country to go to the polls and vote, is not worthy to be called an American citizen." These were the words used by Senator Beveridge at Frankfort in a declaration in favor of a law providing not only for the publication of campaign contributions but providing also that campaign funds shall be expended for no other purpose than for the distribution of campaign literature.

The senator wound up his second day's tour of Indiana on a special train with a speech at this place to-night. Tomorrow he will visit the southern part of the state, stopping for the night's meeting at Evansville.

The affair is a most unfortunate one for all parties concerned.

NEW ROW BREAKS OUT IN WISCONSIN

LA FOLLETTE'S DEFEATED CANDIDATE WILL RUN AS AN INDEPENDENT AND SENATOR WILL STUMP FOR HIM.

La Crosse, Wis., Oct. 27.—The breach in the ranks of the Republican party in Wisconsin, believed closed, has been cut wide open again, involving Governor Davidson and Senator LaFollette in a hot fight for supremacy.

Herman L. Ekern, who was defeated for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor by T. A. Twesme, is the cause. Akern, LaFollette's candidate for the place, alleges his downfall in the primaries was encompassed by fraud. He has come out as an independent candidate.

QUESTIONS FOR BANK DIRECTORS

Washington, Oct. 27.—Controller of the Currency Murray today issued a list of twenty-nine questions to be put by examiners to each individual director of national banks.

The questions are designed to bring out the relations of the directors to the executive conduct of the banks to the extent of their knowledge of paper held by the banks, in the degree of latitude conceded by them to bank officers in overstepping the provisions of the national banking law and the nature of their oversight of accounts and assets, and of the composition of the reserves, and of the correctness of reports.

GOVERNOR ALLEN TO SPEAK

Ex-Governor Roger Allen, who resides at Grafton, has volunteered to make some campaign speeches before election in the interests of the Republican ticket. While Governor Allen is an aged man, he feels that he should get into the harness, and help elect his friends in the race.

Six Reasons Why You Should Vote Against W. J. Bryan

THINK THEM OVER.

Because, if Mr. Bryan can accept money from a man whom he called a "train robber" and allow that man to run his campaign in Illinois, what moral scruples would prevent him from keeping faith with the discredited Haskell by appointing him secretary of the treasury?

Because the orator of the Platte and author of the "Cross of Gold" is now the machine fed Bryan of Sullivan and Hopkins of Illinois, Taggart of Indiana, Fingy Conners of Buffalo and Charley Murphy of Tammany Hall.

Because these principal backers of Mr. Bryan in the more important states are almost without exception men whom he has denounced, who are utterly at variance with his main political and social theories, and who would not turn a hand to aid him in placing them in execution.

Because it is the opinion of the business men whom Mr. Mack attempted to blacklist, and others, that Mr. Bryan's election will indefinitely delay the restoration of good times, and will cause a falling off of the earnings of salaried men and wage earners.

Because the man who is out of a job now will find it impossible to get a job under Mr. Bryan, and that the man who is getting half time now will not get full time under Mr. Bryan.

Because Mr. Bryan, with his kaleidoscopic views, will not be able to procure legislation from a hostile congress and will therefore have recourse to renewed vituperation and condemnation to the additional detriment of all business.

TAFT DOES THE HUDSON RIVER TOWNS IN RAIN

Troy, N. Y., Oct. 27.—The industries of the cities and towns which line the banks of the picturesque Hudson, from Greater New York to Troy, were made the text of the speeches of Taft today to the people of these cities and towns.

Yonkers smiled on the Ohioan through a heavy shower. Mr. Bryan spoke to Yonkers yesterday, and Taft said he understood his opponent had charged that the Republican party had done nothing for labor. Mr. Taft first asserted that the policies of the Republican party had been chiefly devoted to the interests of labor and then pointed out that the protective policy made possible the sugar refining industry, the chief enterprise of the city.

Tarrytown, Peekskill and Fishkill Landing listened in the rain to short speeches delivered by the candidate from the rear of his car.

A group of girls from Vassar college tried to "get" Judge Taft's speech in shorthand, and an enthusiast in the gallery attracted brief attention by shouting:

"He surely wears the smile that won't come off."

"It will still be there next Tuesday," rejoined Judge Taft, and in the hope the audience seemed to concur.

Here the Republican candidate reverted to Mr. Bryan's issue, "Shall the people rule," as stranded, he declared. "The truth is that the proposition that the people had not ruled up to this date met with so much ridicule that it has faded out as an issue."

MRS. HAINS WAS QUITE GAY GIRL

Letters to Her Husband Tell of Drinking Bouts in Ninkapoos

New York, Oct. 27.—Revels of army officers and their wives, and the manner in which callers were received by the latter, clad only in a nightgown, are revealed in letters from Mrs. Claudia Hains to her husband, which have been found in an old trunk at Fort Hamilton.

Writing to Captain Hains, who subsequently killed William E. Annis, through jealousy, the army man's wife says:

"My Dearest Husband—It is terribly late and I can hardly see, but I have had the queerest experience that I have ever had in my life. I paid all my calls this afternoon and went to Mrs. H—'s about 4:30.

"I was asked up to her bedroom. She was clad only in her nightgown. I drank two glasses of whiskey and threw dice and came out ahead.

"Captain P— came in later and we sat on the floor and drank.

"Mrs. H— is right ill tonight. I don't know what is the matter with her.

the commercial hall was filled with people who were anxious to hear and listened attentively to the addresses by the speakers.

Captain Charles E. Stowers was the principal speaker. Mr. Stowers was on his way to Adams and Bowman counties to deliver a series of speeches under the direction of the state Republican central committee, and through the efforts of the local committee was induced to give a lecture here before starting for the south. The speaker proved himself to be well informed on the issues of the hour and his appeal to the voters to rally to the support of C. A. Johnson for governor, was roundly applauded, and his convincing words will be remembered in November.

Hon. H. P. Jacobson, chairman of the Hettinger county Republican committee, followed Mr. Stowers, and his flow of oratory captivated his hearers, who responded frequently with hearty applause. The Republican ticket will win in a walk in Hettinger county.

TEDDY PASSES 50TH MILESTONE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—President Roosevelt observed his fiftieth anniversary today very simply. He attended to his executive duties as usual and, except for the receiving of a delegation from the Hungarian Republican club of New York in the east room of the White House and the receipt of a large number of congratulatory messages, some floral tributes, and gifts from members of his family, the day was the same to him as any other day.

Late in the afternoon the president donned his khaki riding uniform and rough rider hat and went for a horseback ride, remaining out until 6 p. m. There was a jolly family dinner at the White House this afternoon in honor of the president's anniversary. No guests were present.

Those who sent congratulatory messages were King Edward, Governor Hughes, Archbishop Ireland, Whitelaw Reid, Karl Bueuzand and others.

FIGHTING OVER BLEACHED FLOUR

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 27.—The principal witness on the stand in the bleached flour case today was Harry S. Helm, manager of the Russel-Miller Milling Co., who now has his headquarters in Minneapolis.

Mr. Helm made some demonstrations for the court this morning with the two principal brands of flour, the Occident and the Powerful, made by his company. He showed the flours in the comparison, placing bleached flour and unbleached flour together on a glass and showing the difference in color between the bleached and unbleached flour.

JOHN WYMAN HELD TO DISTRICT COURT

AT THE SIXTH ADJOURNMENT OF THE CASE HE WAIVED EXAMINATION AND IS HELD UNDER $1,000 TO APPEAR BEFORE JUDGE POLLOCK.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 27.—After six adjournments the case of the state against John Wyman came to a conclusion as far as the preliminary hearing is concerned when Attorney V. R. Lovell, appearing for Mr. Wyman, waived further examination at 9 o'clock this morning, and on motion of Assistant States Attorney Seth W. Richardson, Wyman was held to the district court by Judge Martin Ryan.

William Dinehart, the victim of the shooting affair with which Wyman is charged and for which he must now answer to the district court, will be the principal witness against him and Hannah Pladsen, the young woman who standing talking to Dinehart at the time of the shooting, will also be an important witness for the state.

A county ditch near Rose Lake in Hay township, which is calculated to reclaim hundreds of acres of land in that section, will be constructed in the near future. The cost of the drain is estimated at $4,763.26, which will be assessed against property benefitted thereby.

Ole Wagner, a well-to-do farmer of Petersburg, N. D., dropped dead in an East Grand Forks saloon. Heart failure and heavy drinking are attributed as the cause of his death.

GOV. MILLER HAS PASSED BEYOND

First Governor of North Dakota Dies After Short Illness

Was One of Most Popular Executives State Has Ever Known

Duluth, Minn., Oct. 27.—Former Governor John Miller of North Dakota, died shortly after 8 o'clock Monday morning at his home, 429 East Second street, of heart failure. He has been confined to his home for about three weeks and his death was not unexpected, although it came quite suddenly.

Mr. Miller was one of Duluth's foremost citizens. He was a member of the board of trade and always took a public interest and was active in many charitable philanthropic activities.

Mr. Miller was born on Dryden, N. Y., Oct. 29, 1843, and was educated in the country schools and at the Dryden academy. He passed his boyhood on the farm of his parents near Dryden and then entered the merchandise business, remaining there until 1880. He then moved to Dakota, which was a territory at that time, and became interested in wheat growing on a large scale. He was also engaged in quite an extensive real estate business. He was elected to the Dakota territorial council in 1888 and in 1889 was elected the first governor of the state of North Dakota. He refused a re-election.

While Mr. Miller was governor the Louisiana lottery tried to gain a foothold in Dakota, but he opposed it successfully. In 1896 Mr. Miller moved to Duluth and has lived there since that time, being engaged in the grain commission business.

He was president of the John Miller Grain company at the time of his death. Mr. Miller leaves a wife and one daughter, 16 years of age. His niece, Mrs. R. N. Chaffee, also lives in this city.

During the time he had lived in Duluth Mr. Miller has earned the admiration and respect of all with whom he came in contact. He was looked upon both by his business associates and Duluth citizens in general as one of the city's most public-spirited, philanthropic men.

He was chairman of the board of directors of the Young Men's Christian association and was largely responsible for the movement to erect the magnificent new building in Duluth.

BIOGRAPHICAL.

A telegram was received at the governor's office Tuesday morning announcing the death of John Miller, the first governor of the state of North Dakota. It is likely that a proclamation will be issued, that the flag be displayed at half mast on all public buildings on the day of his funeral.

The nomination and election of John Miller in 1890, changed the entire political history of the state. At the first state convention of Republicans in North Dakota at Fargo, the Miller men nominated M. N. Johnson for chairman against E. A. Williams, the candidate of the Harrison Allen men. Johnson won by one vote. On the Cass county delegation which Allen had named, one E. H. Holte, still a prominent Johnson supporter, voted for Hon. M. N. Johnson, now candidate for United States senator, and this settled the governorship, defeating Gen. Allen, and changed the political trend of state politics. Miller was elected and gave the state an excellent administration. He had the respect and good will of all who had relations with him as governor. His death will be regretted by many of the old timers who knew him.

Miller is the second state governor to pass the great divide, Frank Briggs being the other, who did not complete his official term.

Fargo college has started with what will probably be the most prosperous year in the history of that institution. The enrollment of students in the literary and scientific departments show a gain of 12 per cent over the same date last year. 1 Temple in a drunken tawr b

The Fargo Forum kicks because it gets letters from people down in the valley who want more prohibition matter in the paper—and letters from people in the western part of the state thinking there is too much temperance dope espoused.
