Farm Motor Trucks "Go Through"

On paved highways, no truck gives more satisfactory and economical service than the Patriot.

But if you want to see this unusual truck really perform—get right down and pull—send it chugging through hub-deep mud, up slippery hills, through clogging sand, over newly plowed ground.

You will be astonished at the willing ease with which the Patriot answers unreasonable demands.

Built for the Farmer

Patriot Trucks were designed to stand up and deliver under the unusually difficult conditions that prevail on the farm. We expect the owner to use his Patriot every working day of the year, fine weather or foul, good roads or bad.

Patriots are easy to run and keep running. Few adjustments are necessary, little attention required.

Ask us to send you the new Patriot Catalog.

Cut and Dried

The good old dictionary is sometimes just as useful as "Who's Who." Here are the results of two of our investigations:

Palmer—A religious faker; a wood louse.

Langur—A dark-haired monkey, especially noted for its ability to leap from place to place and for its noisiness.

The whisky war up in northern Michigan seems to argue a "pow'-ful kick."

The Sims-Daniels debate seems to have churned up about as much mud as a Mississippi sidewheeler on a sandbar.

THEY MAY DEPORT THE "REDS" BUT RED TAPE WILL STAY WITH US.

It costs the government $50,000,000 to keep dry. But the price of rubbers still goes up.

MOTOR GOOSE

There was a crooked man and he drove a crooked mile, And he ran into a fencepost and they scraped him off the pile.

Senator Penrose says only a "good Republican" can be nominated for the presidency at Chicago. But who knows one?

When women get to throwing their hats in the ring, they'll make sure it isn't a last year's model.

Looks like they ought to give distinguished service medals to men who can hold down cabinet jobs for a specified length of time.

NATURALLY, IN THESE TIMES, A STILL HAS TO BE ON THE QUIET.

It will be time pretty soon to move the cellar stock into the coal bin so you can reach the lawn mower.

There are a lot of receptive candidates and about as many deceptive platforms.

In the interests of economy, congress has passed back the railroads, which will mean a half billion dollars boost in freight rates.

A tippler who lived in New York, While attempting to pull out a cork, Said, "My wife, this just pays her For nicking my razor, Now I've busted her best pickle fork."

An organization has been formed to distribute copies of the Constitution of the United States. We are anxiously awaiting our copy to see if the free speech clause is still in it.

President Wilson wanted to keep the world safe for democracy. And now comes Governor Edwards of New Jersey who wants to keep the Democracy safe for the distilleries.

YES, YES; GO ON

"Ouija" is composed of the French "oui" and the German "ja," both meaning "yes." Who says the war isn't over?

Doctors may disagree, but there seems to be a surprising uniformity in the lay belief that whisky will cure influenza.

There's one thing that can be said in favor of running for president. It certainly keeps one out in the open air.

"What did the candidate speak about?" "Oh, about two hours and a half."

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"

"I'm going to vote, kind sir," she said. "And will you, perhaps, give a vote to me?"

"Well, that's for you to find out," said she.

THE CROWN PRINCE HAS OFFERED TO GIVE HIMSELF UP. FIGURING, PERHAPS, THAT HE'S BEEN IN DUTCH LONG ENOUGH.

Now that the first Jewish ship has been launched, there may yet be hope for the Swiss navy.

Germans are turning machine guns into movie machines. The modern version of beating swords into plowshares.

Governor Edwards of New Jersey and William Jennings Bryan seem to disagree about whether Democrats deserve the nickname of "Bourbons."

Young Teddy doesn't seem as successful in keeping his name in the papers constantly as his illustrious father.

One of the bad things about prohibition is that now we will never be able to write the joke we had planned if ever ex-Congressman Dill of Washington got pickled.

NEWS

THE Evening Blade's a Democrat, the Scrap is G. O. P., and speaking upon politics they never do agree. A Democratic meeting in the Blade is "flowing o'er," the Scrap will count a dozen or perhaps a couple more. And on the other hand the Scrap, for a Grand Old Party fest, will spread itself across the page, 'twill do its very best. The Blade will look with mighty scorn, as if it made it sick, and will give the rival's meeting not more than half a stick.

But both will jump on labor when it gets in politics and will label all the workers just a bunch of Bolsheviks. And talking of the farmers, each will fill a half a page with half-baked lies against the League, with malice, hate and rage. The Blade and Scrap will both agree upon these points, forsooth, but I've never seen it happen that either tells the truth.
