

When your club does constructive work, report it to this department. Your success may be the stimulus a younger group needs for increased civic progress. This section is devoted to the recording of practical achievement. Woman, struggling with ideals through the ages, has known a sphere of contest to which the Modern Eve now approaches largely by organization.

ETHEL RATTAY.

"How blind is pride! What eagles we are still
In matters that belong to other men!
What beetles in our own."

Many times this old English quotation comes to Eve when she reviews the attitude of a great number of women voters toward jury service! Great numbers of women, proud of the right to vote and the weapon it gives them to warn off discord and aid progress, are either null and void on the question of this civic duty, or openly resentful that the privilege of the ballot entails this service. This is one of the conditions that greater political experience will of course eliminate, the commendable activity at the polls of some of the formerly most rabid anti-suffragists is assurance of that, but the recent expressions of distaste for feminine representation on the jury list brings to mind the thought that it has often in the past been women's false pride and false sense of values that has hindered her progress as well as the fetters imposed by oftentimes well meaning males in this matter of just what is, and what is not becoming to do. The other day Eve expressed her regret to an editor at not having attended a recent political meeting which he was recording for her enlightenment. He has a suspicion that she had been reared on the Borderland of Refinement, and he replied, "Oh it would never do for you to attend one of these meetings, there is smoking there, and coatless men—and no one could guarantee you would not hear obscene talk." Right then she decided to go, as for the discarded coats—she believes in comfort when one works and she has escaped alive from so many volcanic eruptions of verbal origin and never lost a breath, that a little or a lot of smoke will not bother her for she will be so busy learning the political ropes she will see only a condition that can be changed; besides she has survived many such in other cities and the only way to be in touch with things is to be on the inside looking out, as the popular side puts it! That brings us to the Court House again and the appointment of two of Ventnor's leading women to the jury with eight other women, will give us an opportunity soon to learn the impressions of Mrs. Ada S. Schimpf, wife of the well-known lawyer and former City Solicitor Theodore Schimpf and Mrs. Florence Riddle, wife of former Mayor Riddle.

This of course to some is not the phase of municipal housekeeping that arranges the orchids in the drawing room, or turns on the Ampico and announces dinner, but it is one which all of us should welcome as a great opportunity for first hand knowledge and experience. Away with the Spirit of '76 that only finds time to fight for the pleasant duties! As President Coolidge says, "Government does not rest upon the opinion of men. Its results rest on their actions. This enables every man a politician whether he will or no."

The Women's Guild of the Church of the Ascension is being congratulated on the acquisition of a model kitchen which has recently been completed through their efforts and the hearty co-operation of the pastor, Rev. H. E. Durell. Miss Alice Gorin arranged a kitchen shower valued at $150, the larger pieces having been supplied by the Girls' Friendly Society, the Chancel Guild and the children of the Candidate's Class. Mrs. Charles Fenton and Mrs. George Sykes donated the electric lighting fixtures. Great progress will be made by the members in the social undertakings necessitating the kitchen and every woman who has given volunteer service in the culinary departments of the average churches and halls knows what a boon convenient work-shops of this kind are when the charitably inclined multitudes are to be fed.

The Delphian Society will meet tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Edward Sharpe, 3 South Montpelier Avenue, when another branch of this literary organization will be formed to study "Contemporary Artists." Mrs. A. Conrad Ekholm, of Wyoming and Winchester Avenues, will be hostess at the next regular meeting, October 8. The second session, held this fall by these energetic women who have done so much for the culture of the city in their study classes, was held at Mrs. Blair Stewart's home, North Carolina and Pacific Avenues, last week, and many interesting discussions inspired those present to great activity. "European Nations of the Roman Empire" was the subject under discussion in general and Mrs. Florence Knight Senseman discussed the "Roman Empire and Conditions Which Brought About the Dark Ages"; Mrs. D. F. Search, "The Fall of Rome," and "France Under Roman Rule," was the subject of Mrs. Edgar Trout. Among the other members present were Mrs. G. H. Steelman, Mrs. William Cuthbert, Mrs. H. D. Smith, Mrs. Edward L. Bader, Mrs. B. Leonard Scott, Mrs. William Kline, Mrs. Alfred Gale, Mrs. Edward Sharpe, Mrs. A. Conrad Ekholm and Mrs. A. B. Wong.

The Council of Women's Organizations commenced activities this week at a meeting at Fireside Hall of the Young Women's Christian Association, which gives promise of a more constructive and extensive program than has ever been outlined. Particular stress was given the importance of every club affiliated with the organization in listing correct address of same also that each unit should designate the quality of the co-operation wanted. Mrs. Ernest Seaman, was appointed publicity chairman, and other assignments corresponding with the departments of the State Federation were made. The clubs, grouped according to the kind of work they do, will appoint a chairman to correspond with each other. Instead of several clubs doing practically the same work or trying to, haphazardly, the State Secretary of Women's Clubs will keep in touch with the work and see that instead of a little here and a little there, the proper division of effort and territory is made for greater progress.

One of the projects before the council is the foundation of a clubhouse, and since this ambition is foremost in many minds, great strides will be made in this direction this winter. The following Women's Clubs composed entirely of women members, belong to the Council: 1—Art Department, Delphian Society. 2, Civic—Hammononton Civic Club, Ventnor League of Women Voters. 3, Entertainment—Entre Nous Club, American Association of University Women, and Ancient

Quite a number of High School students take their daily dip in the thoro-fare, regardless of the weather conditions. Many canoes are in evidence, also. Needless to say, "a good time was had by all." The gang usually consists of Alfred Westney, Gordon Yates, Emmett Robertson, Erwood Otway, Raymond Baker, Clarence Witherof, Edward Seeley, Peggy Robertson, Virginia Bossert, Marie Leeds and Robert L. Oakenlander.

Mrs. Clarence Lipper has returned to her home in Philadelphia after summering here. Mrs. Lipper's mother, Mrs. Max Bacharach, was her guest until her departure. Mrs. Bacharach and her daughter, Elizabeth, will take up their residence at the Hotel Shelburne.

Emanuel Myerhoff is leaving to spend some time in Pottstown.

It seemed good to see "Billy" Kratzer again. She was here for the summer and was a familiar figure on the beach as well as the Boardwalk. However "Winter will come" so "Billy" returned to her home in Philadelphia. This week she decided to pay us a call.

Simon Schweizer is expected home soon after spending two weeks touring through Pennsylvania and Ohio.
