

EVE in THE ARENA

When your club does constructive work, report it to this department. Your success may be the stimulus a younger group needs for increased civic progress. This section is devoted to the recording of practical achievement. Women, struggling with ideals through the ages, has known a sphere of contest to which the Modern Eve now approaches largely by organization.

ETHEL RATTAY.

The Atlantic City Woman's Club, organized by representative local club executives for the purchase and maintenance of a club house, has at present the active cooperation of over two hundred and fifty women.

Through the courtesy of the management of the St. Charles hotel a sun parlor will be at the disposal of the members for the meeting on October 14.

The Colony Club, Ventnor City's foremost independent general welfare organization announces the inauguration of a series of matinee card parties to be held in the Colony club rooms in the Professional building, Atlantic and Montpelier Aves., every Thursday at 2.30 P. M. The entertainment committee is headed by Mrs. Percival Kriebel.

The Ventnor League of Women Voters at a special meeting held last night in Community Church planned for another candidate's meeting in the near future and completed arrangements for the information booths to be maintained by the league on Election Day and the day before in the vicinity of the polls.

The members of the Children's Seashore Home Fund Club are requested to contribute articles for the rummage sale listed for the near future.

With an eye to fast sales and many of them the Fund club members are acting upon the suggestion of the president, Mrs. Gillium Clamer, and planning to hold this profitable event in an Arctic Ave. store while the average housewife is in the throes of fall housecleaning.

The Lady Elks met Friday afternoon, October 3, and launched a Thanksgiving week bazaar of seven days and nights duration which will tax the industry and ingenuity of each one of the two hundred and sixteen active members. It is the plan to have everyone represented on one of the various committees.

The cafeteria under the personal operation of Mrs. Millard Allman of 104 St. Charles Place expects to do a rushing business the entire week. Mrs. Allman, who is general chairman of the bazaar, will have the assistance of Mrs. Alfred Lichtenstein and Mrs. John Peterson. The fancy goods booths will be in charge of Mrs. Virginia Johnson, and Mrs. Anna Braunstein and Mrs. Olga Nebeling will display with the assistance of her many aids a rare collection of dolls. Mrs. Nebeling will contribute an original feature.

The Foundation Club began its Autumn activities Friday, October 3, when the first of the social affairs of the club was held at the Ambassador. It was a matinee card party under the management of Mrs. H. J. Hedlund. No cards were issued, but the fame of the club has increased each season and a goodly crowd waxed merry with congenial friends in the beautiful Venetian Room environment. Refreshments were served while general visiting from table to table was at its height at the close of the games. The highest scores were awarded with beautiful turquoise brooches.

Miss Maud Michael, Ambassador Hotel hostess, assisted the following members in receiving the guests. Mrs. William Jefferys, Mrs. William Moise, Mrs. Charles Elsele, Mrs. John Fortman, Mrs. William Risley, Mrs. Frederick C. Beck, Mrs. W. J. Satterthwaite and Mrs. Edward Beach.

Luncheon entertainment for one of the resort's foremost women's clubs is being planned for the formal opening of the Foundation Club's winter functions. Special music and a more elaborate program than has ever before been attempted is being arranged by the entertainment committee.

Mrs. O. J. Hammell, president of the Ventnor League of Women Voters will address the Glassboro unit of this influential organization this evening. "The Object of the League" will be her subject. She will also attend the meeting of the Camden League October 9th in that city.

Little guests of the Children's Seashore and the Betty Bacharach Home were entertained last Wednesday on the stage of the Apollo Theatre following the performance of Channing Pollock's "The Fool," which they viewed with their nurses from lower boxes. The ladies who have just served them with refreshments and distributed the candy, books and toys presented by the theatre management and the company, are, beginning at the left—Miss Elizabeth Shirley, Miss Helen Hendler, Miss Marjorie Dalton and Miss Charlotte Manning. The little girl standing over her admirers in the white apron is Miss Rae Seabrook, who won the city with her excellent character acting as "Mary Margaret," the crippled child of the play.

Absecon Notes

Mrs. Edward Nicholds entertained the members of the Missionary society at her home recently. Among the topics discussed were India and Alaska. Starting with next month the study lesson will be on China. A luncheon was enjoyed by the following: Mrs. M. M. Townsend, Mrs. Robert Elwood, Miss Hannah Madden, Mrs. Edward McCarthy, Mrs. Charles Ireland, Mrs. J. A. Mitchell and Mrs. Nicholds.

The Absecon school board is very anxious that the civic bodies should consider the plans for a new eight room school building. This matter was brought before city council at the last meeting. The present building is crowded, the overflow having to hold sessions in the school auditorium in order to receive a full day's instruction. Both city council and board of education are anxious for the public to express opinions before the next council meeting to be held the last Wednesday night in October.

Miss Hannah Madden acted as hostess to the members of the Presbyterian Senior C. E. Society. The affair was very unique in a way of a poverty social. The guests came dressed in old clothes and games and refreshments suitable for the occasion were enjoyed.

The guests were Mrs. Maude McCarthy, Mrs. Alton Frease, Mrs. Wm. Attale, Mrs. M. M. Townsend, Mrs. R. A. Elwood, Miss Emily Reep, Miss Marion Carter, Miss Anna McCarthy, Miss Catherine Miller, Miss Edith Frease, Miss Catherine McCarthy, Miss Clara Miller, Miss Catherine Smith, Miss Edna Fairbrothers, Charles Holcomb, Russell Elwood, John Beckley, James Ballentine, Samuel Smith and Miss Madden.

Mrs. Clara Smith acted as hostess to the Widow's club at her home on New Jersey Ave. Mrs. Smith's guests included: Mrs. Mae Stringer, Mrs. Alice Herbert, Mrs. Arlinda Cramer, Mrs. Eva Reed, Mrs. Hillgert, Mrs. Cora Martin. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Reed, Collins Ave.

A new organization was formed at the home of Walter J. Roberts, Shore Road, at a dinner meeting, the name Absecon Civilian club, was selected. This will be the third of its kind in the state. The purpose of this club is for better citizenship in the community. The methods of the club are similar to those of the Kiwanis, Lions, and Rotary. Its membership is composed of young business men, it is non-political.

The temporary officers are: President, Herman Madden; vice-president, J. W. Cordery; secretary, Walter Roberts; treasurer, William Hurd. The club will meet Tuesday afternoons and have speakers at each meeting.
