Tea To Raise Fund To Equip Canteen Hospital Attended With Success; Other Social Happenings

THE Red Cross canteen tea at the canteen hospital last Friday evening was enjoyed by everyone present. Mrs. McLaughlin was in charge and the affair was well attended. The decorations were Japanese lanterns, sandwiches, coffee and tea were sold, the proceeds amounting to $15.00 which will be used to furnish equipping the canteen hospital.

A soldier and a sailor lowered the flag while those present sang the Star Spangled Banner. Ten invalid soldiers just returned from France, on their way to Fort Bayard, stood at attention as the colors floated down. Boxes were auctioned off and then given to these soldiers by the purchasers.

The ladies of the canteen committee wish to thank the people who lent their cars to take the crowd to the hospital. Max Nordhaus donated the coffee. The owners of the Matweys and Bezemeks carried donated the cream.

The affair was a success and perhaps the canteen committee will give another delightful tea in the near future.

LET THERE BE WASSAILING.

Beulah—Yes; but he's not your brother's Statesman.

HOOVER KITCHEN PROVES OF ADDED INTEREST.
The Hoover kitchen was a busy place last week. The women of Albuquerque are beginning to show a new interest in demonstrations as they find they can gather fresh ideas for serving the table while adhering to government regulations.

There will be two demonstrations only given this coming week, one on Wednesday and one Friday, as on Tuesday there will be a demonstration in Arizon at the home of Lera de Gabriel Sanchez, and on Thursday in Alameda, also for the special benefit of the Spanish speaking housekeepers, some of whom are beginning to know about substitutes for the first time. It is to be hoped that every woman will lend all her aid to war-cooking, not because it is the fashionable thing this year, and Mrs.

OKLAHOMA CITY VISITOR IS GUEST OF HONOR.
Mrs. A. D. Ogle was the charming hostess at a delightful bridge party given in honor of her guest, Mrs. Salmon of Oklahoma City. Reddy, Shorlie, Henning, Reid, Bush, Potter, Robertson, Stephens and Misses Molly Kelly and Sue Salmon. Mrs. A. D. Mr. Meekton—That's sporting of her, and I judge he'll need the previous experience.

SHRINERS BALL.
ATTRACTIVE EVENT.
All society attended the dance given after the ceremonial at the Masonic temple for the visiting shriners last Thursday evening. The visiting soldiers from Camp Cody in their khaki uniforms lent to the affair the military air. The soldiers had to leave at 10 o'clock but the dance continued until midnight.

Red, white and blue streamers were hung from the corners and palms, Navajo rugs, and cushions decorated the hall, where punch was served. The girls all enjoyed having the opportunity to dance with soldiers again and these soldier-shriners were exceptionally good dancers, and the time for their departure came all too soon. Many beautiful gowns were worn by the matrons and maids.

Twenty-six men were initiated into the Shriners in the afternoon, twenty-five of them being soldiers at Camp

Father—now-a-days it never gets back."

The Ladies' choir of the Lead Avenue M. E. church will sing at the Shortle sanitarium Sunday afternoon at 4:30 and later at the Methodist sanitarium. Miss Blanche Porterfield will be the accompanist.

FRENCH SOCIAL GIVEN BY EPWORTH LEAGUE.
The French social given by the members of the Epworth League of the Lead Avenue Methodist church Thursday night was carried out according to program, notwithstanding the fact that the affair was interrupted by rain. The young people met at the French park opposite the high school building as planned. In case of rain the members had previously planned to adjourn to the church. This is what they did when the rain started.

Games appropriately named "Over the Top" and "Up in the Clouds" were played. Examinations for a camouflage army was also one of the features of the entertainment. The successful way in which the entertainment was carried out was largely due to the efforts of Miss Edna Williams in charge.

Masons, Visitors in Santa Fe Are Feted By Society People; Many Entertainments Given Past Week

THURSDAY evening Miss Helen Lindsey entertained a party of young friends in honor of Miss Larkin, of East Las Vegas, at the executive mansion. It goes without saying that the entertainment proved a most enjoyable one. Dancing was the order of the evening.

Miss Anna Spencer of the Normal university who has been busy at the department of education all summer, returned to the Meadow City on Friday. She was one of the guests at the party given Thursday by Miss Lindsey.

Supreme representative Hugh H. Williams has returned from Detroit where he attended the Knights of Pythias annual convention and was instrumental in having the Supreme lodge appropriate $1000 and as much as is needed of a half million dollar war fund, to take care of Pythians who are afflicted with tuberculosis.

Miss Isabel Walker entertained the War Relief club at her home on Wednesday evening. Scrap books for the soldiers were made by those present.

Miss Jessie Carroll and Miss Dorothy Paul, who rode over the Winsor trail to the upper Pecos on horseback, have returned after a week's outing.

ROLLINS-COLLIN.
At Hamilton, Ontario, on next Wednesday, August 28, Miss Ruth Rollins of Santa Fe, daughter of Artist and Mrs. Warren E. Rollins, of the Santa Fe art colony, is to be married. The groom to be is Captain Francis Eric Collin, of the British royal air forces.

The honeymoon is to be spent on the St. Lawrence river and Georgian bay; Captain Collin was a recent visitor in Santa Fe. Miss Rollins is a prime social favorite and a talented dancer who is on the road to fame on the stage.

The Taos orchestra came down from that beautiful town on Friday evening and on Saturday evening played for the dance at the De Vargas. The proceeds of the dance will go toward outfitting a French cripple, who has been trained for resumption of life's activities but lacks the means to establish himself. Santa Fe is to provide for three such cases, a total of $750 being needed for that purpose. The Acacia class of Masons this week decided to provide the funds for one such case and a group of ladies, including the Fifteen club, are helping to provide for the second man, while it is hoped to interest some local philanthropist in providing the means for the third. The dance on Saturday evening was the best attended and perhaps the most enjoyable given for years.

MASONIC WEEK.
It was a busy week for the Masons and wives, mothers, sisters and daughters of Masons. More than a hundred out of town Masonic visitors, some of whom had brought their families were entertained. Of course, the conferring of the degrees took the greater part of three days, but there were also concerts, luncheons, dinners, receptions and a big dance on Tuesday evening, forming the social setting for the successful reunion. A number of Masons remained over to make trips to the cliff dwellings and pueblos of the vicinity.

A DELIGHTFUL LECTURE.
The Cosmography and Cosmology of the Pueblo Indians was the subject of the Museum night lecture by Dr. Edgar L. Hewett, before the largest class that has yet gathered for the study of Indian culture. The Pueblo's conception of the world, while naive, is also poetic. Upon the screens were thrown symbolic paintings from the walls of the kivas at Zuni and at Jemez as well as Navajo sandpaintings and symbols of the Pueblos as they carry them into their handicrafts so that the class members will be able in the future to read the symbolic meaning of pottery and blanket designs. Representations of the sun, moon and earth, of the morning and the evening star, of the clouds and the under world, of the plumed serpents, the red and blue avanyus, the sheet lightning and the forked lightning, the rain altar and manifestations of elements, the rainbow of the east and the rainbow of the west, were all analyzed and logically presented together with the Indian mythology of earth and sky. Intensely interesting was the explanation of the color symbolism of the Pueblos which is carried much farther than by any other people. After the lecture the new art exhibits were thrown open to the public and were greatly enjoyed by the throng. There were many out of town visitors in the audience. Curator Wesley Bradford was in charge of the lantern.

Ex-governor and Mrs. Miguel A. Otero, who returned this week from Ancon, Panama zone, the headquarters of governor Otero as United States marshal for the Zone, will remain until November before going back to their tropical abode. A number of social events are being planned for their entertainment.

PREMIERE WAS GREAT SUCCESS.
All reports from San Francisco agree that the premiere of "Up in the Air," by Captain Waldo Twichell, was a great success. It is not often that it is given to any young man to win within one year a captaincy in the aerial service and to have a musical play presented with success, a play that is headed for Broadway, New York, this winter, "The Court theater, in San Francisco, was well filled for the occasion, the box office receipts totaling around $1,200.
