IT WILL BE FAIR WEEK AT HERZSTEINS

FOR THE LADIES

We have a treat in store for the ladies of this community during the coming week. We have for your inspection and approval a full line of silk sweaters, beautiful in design, artistic in color effect, perfect in fit and very reasonable in price. This is a line you find in cities much larger than Clayton and are sold there for nearly twice what we are asking for them.

LADIES SILK SWEATERS

Our buyer has been very fortunate in securing, during his business trip to the Eastern market centers, this splendid selection. They come in all the most desirable colors in vogue this season and in all the approved styles. They are practical, as well as a modish garment for this season of the year.

Odd Bits of News

Hillsborough, Cal.—A horse here dropped dead with its forefeet in San Mateo and its hindlegs in Hillsborough. Both municipalities refused to move the carcass, because neither could decide in which town the horse lay. Finally some outraged citizens removed the carcass at their own expense.

Phoenix, Ariz.—The special session of the legislature, called to consider a prohibition bill and other "dry" legislation, adjourned without passing the proposed "dry" bill. Churches find themselves without legal means to obtain wines for sacramental purposes, although the legislature considered the matter for six months. The railroads refuse to accept for shipment any alcoholic beverages no matter for what purpose.

Natchez, Miss.—Charley Bight, a negro boy, has been cross-eyed since birth, so badly that he looked as if he was looking down his own back. The other day in a wrangle, Charley was hit in the forehead with a brick. The surgeon operated and not only was Charley's life saved but his eyes assumed a normal position.

Liverpool, Eng.—When the American line steamship St. Louis reaches dock, Howard E. Hinsley, the purser will have completed his 1000th trip to America. He has crossed the ocean 2,000 times. He has traveled 6,500,000 miles on the ocean, or around the globe 260 times. He is

R. P. Schwerin On the Seamen's Bill

The American plowmen are interested in sea commerce. It is expensive and likewise humiliating to have to salute a foreign flag every time a farmer wants to ship a bushel of wheat, a bale of cotton or a pound of farm products across the ocean. The American farmer is entitled to the protection of his flag in sending his products across the sea, and Congress should give such encouragement to shipping interests as is necessary to meet foreign competition in ocean commerce. A recent bill known as the Seaman's Bill became a law under the President's signature and Mr. R. P. Schwerin, vice-president of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, when asked to define this law and outline its effect upon American steamship lines, said in part:

"The bill provides that no ship of any nationality shall be permitted to depart from any port of the United States unless she has on board a crew not less than seventy-five per centum of which, in each department thereof, is able to understand any order given by the officers of such vessel, nor unless forty per centum in the first year, forty-five per centum in the second year, fifty per centum in the third year, fifty-five per centum in the fourth year after the passage of this Act, and, thereafter sixty-five per centum of her deck crew, exclusive of licensed officers and apprentices, are of a rating not less than able seamen."

"The oversea trade of the world is competitive, therefore the original cost of the ship and the operation of the ship have to be reckoned with in the keen competition of these rival nations with one another. The Oriental sailor is obedient and competent and is the cheapest sailor in the world. It is therefore manifestly clear that if this law applied to all nationalities in the transpacific traffic, all would be on the same economic basis, but it works a single hardship to all the ships of the world, except the Japanese and American ships, and with the latter it works two hardships. With the European, the cost of constructing a ship is no higher than the cost of constructing a Japanese ship, but if they had to provide European crews, while the Japanese operated with Japanese crews, the condition of competition would be such that they could not overcome the handicap and they would be driven off. But the American ship would have to contend not only with the tremendous increase of cost of wage in the substitution of the European crew for the Chinese crew, but also the greater initial cost of the ship. As the Japanese have now done away with their European officers and Japanese crews, all of whom speak a common language, there is no difficulty for them to comply with all the conditions of the bill and continue their Japanese crews, with Oriental wages."

"The law, therefore, instead of assisting the American ship, adds another heavy burden, while it places none whatever upon the Japanese ship, but, on the contrary, turns over to the Japanese the traffic of the Pacific Ocean, which the American ship is forced to forego by act of Congress of the United States."
