Miscellaneous.

A NEWSPAPER advertisement calls for a "plain cook, able to dress a little boy 5 years old."

TEARS are useless. They contain a little phosphate of lime, some chlorate of sodium, and water.

LYDIA THOMPSON expresses a desire to elevate dramatic art—especially the clothes part of it.

NEW reading of an old saw—Absinthe conquers love.

THE Boston Post is responsible for the following: "Stowe-len—Byron's character."

THERE are many pleasant railway routes to the watering places of the East, but the ladies always take the Grand Trunk.

WHAT is the difference between a hungry man and a glutton? One longs to eat, and the other eats too long.

"DO YOU call this a trunk?" growled a dejected porter. "It only needs a lightning rod to be mistaken for a boarding-house."

A FOND wife threw a bottle of hair renewer at her husband's head, at which he said, "We must part—the dye is cast."

WATSON wrote "Beautiful Snow," Mostett wrote "Beautiful Rain." Who will give us "Beautiful Hail" "Lovely Lightning" and "Gorgeous Thunder."

JOSH BILLINGS thinks concerning Long Branch, that "there is as little nonsense there generally as the same number of visitors are capable ov." Definite.

THERE'S THE RUB.—"Plain-faced girls should dress plainly," remarks a lady authority on fashion. Was there ever a young lady who was willing to admit that she had a plain face?

"WHEN men break their hearts," remarks a cynical female writer, "it is the same as when a lobster breaks one of its claws—another sprouting out immediately and growing in its place."

DO YOU ever take anything?" asked Sharp of Sozzles. "Never, sir, except I'm unwell, and then my weakness is cognac. Just now I'm troubled with hollowness, and I don't care if I do."

HERE is Senator Matt. Carpenter's last conundrum:

"Q. Why don't the devil learn to skate?"
"A. Where in hell is he to find the ice?"

ASLADY teacher was endeavoring to impress upon her pupils the terrible effect of the punishment of Nebuchadnezzar, saying: "Seven years he ate grass like a cow," when a boy asked, "Did he give milk?"

AN Irishman being about to join a company forming during our late war, was questioned by one of the officers. "Well, sir, when you get into battle, will you fight or run?" "An' faith," replied the Hibernian, "I'll be after doin' as a majority av yees does."

"MR. THACKERAY," said an American lady, "is it true, this dreadful story which we hear about you and Miss Bronte? "Madam," responded the burly novelist, "it is, I grieve to say, too true. Six children were the fruit of that unhallowed intimacy, and I killed them all with my own hand."

AN anecdote is told of Frederick the Great, that just before the battle of Hosbach he said to one of his Generals, who was on very intimate terms with him, "If I lose the battle, I shall retire to Venice and there practice physic." "Ah," replied the General, "always a murderer, always a murderer!"

A LITCHFIELD (Conn.) clock dealer lately sold a small clock to an Irishwoman, who walked off with it under her arm. On her way she turned it bottom upward, and a wire dropped from its position, causing the clock to strike without intermission. Thereupon, she returned in trouble, complaining to the merchant, "Sure, an it's cryin' after ye already."

DUTCHMAN—Good morrer, Pat; how you tus?" Irishman—"The top o' the morning till ye, Smitt; d'ye think we'll get rain the day?" Dutchman—"Kese no; ve never hash mooch rain in der dry dime." Irishman—"Faith, an'ye're right there, Smitt, an'thin whiniver it gets in the way o'rainin' the devil a bit o' dhry wither will we git as long as the wet spell howlds."

A GENTLEMAN who follows the profession of school teaching, on the Western Reserve, in Ohio, gave out one morning as a reading lesson to his first class, that portion of "The Merchant of Venice" in which the "pound of flesh" scene occurs. The reading finished, he asked the class what Shylock meant when he said. "My dest upon my head." "Well, said the tallest boy, "I don't know, unless it means he carried his papers in his hat!"

—CLARA, I love but thee alone,
(Thus sigh'd the tender youth;
Oh! hear me, thus, my passion own,
With trembling lips, in earnest tone;
Indeed I speak the truth.

He paused—the blush o'erspread her cheek,
She let him draw her near;
Scarce for emotion could she speak;
Yet still she asked in accents meek,
How much he had a year!

A PERIODICAL says that a tall Eastern girl named Short, long loved a big Mr. Little, while Mr. Little, thinking little of Short, loved a little lass named Long. To make a long story short, Little proposed to Long, and Short longed to be even with Little's shortcomings. So short, meeting Long, threatened to marry Little before Long, which caused Little in a very short time to marry Long. Query: Did tall Short love big Little less because Little loved Long?

A BOSS barber of our town returning home the other evening, found that his gay and festive wife had eloped with his "jour," and on the table of her boudoir discovered the following tender quotation from Byron:

"Fare thee well, and if forever,
Then forever fare thee well;
Since, alas, we're doomed to sever,
I go mid Joe—you to do h—l!"

A CORRESPONDENT traveling in the Indian country describes some of the notables of Bedwater, among them a famous medicine man who "was catawampously chawed up in some ancient encounter, and one Jack Hominy who has a lovely daughter:

'Wild roved an Indian girl,
Jane Matilda Hominy,
Where sweep the waters down
The thundering Menominee."
