COLUMBIAN COURIER DOING FINE

It seems strange that a small business makes a net income of $729 per month, and yet he has been of being a half interest in anyone that would take over a business like mine from a new business. It is an hour these days to spend five or ten minutes that he would like to share his lot.

WHY A WOMAN SAYS ABOUT MAXIM BLAIN

Electon they will soon be here and it is our duty as citizens of Columbus to cast our vote for Mayor Blain, for much is at stake. We have had two years of prosperity, also two years of economy in our city administration. Our present Mayor has ever been on the lookout for Columbus' best interests and by his tact and friendship among the officers and men that have been stationed here at various times, he secured many advantages for our town. I know from reliable sources that it was he that brought the aviation corps back here about a year ago. I think they could not get proper location after they got here was not his fault. Mayor Blain owns considerable property here and while he naturally wants to get as many "good things" for Columbus as possible that will enhance the value of his property, in doing so he also increases the value of your and my property. There is no getting away from that fact, as it is a matter of dollars and cents to us. Mayor Blain owns considerable real estate that he does not have to operate to build "castles in the air" in bid for our votes. But that he has had and used it is his greatest asset, for that fact goes a long way to a town that is primarily depending for its prosperity on our soldier friends. We have had behind us since we are in Columbus and we are on the best of terms with all those who are stationed here.

AS TO THE CONTROVERSY ABOUT OUR WATERWORKS SYSTEM, I quote the remarks made by an expert civil engineer who was here a few weeks ago.

"Your water supply shows the loss of management of your city administration, but to have a larger town, to induce people to come here and build and improve this place, a larger up-to-date water system is absolutely necessary." He states that newcomers always inquire first into the water supply question before coming in another place to settle, because it is the most important factor. Next to that is the sewage question, from a sanitary standpoint. We hope to have our town be able to boast of an up-to-date sewerage system also some of these days.

ABOVE ALL, DON'T CHANGE SIDES WHILE CROSSING A STREAM.

Business Men in Politics. It is a mighty good sign of the times when a man like James L. Greenwood, president of the State Bank of Columbus, will allow his name to be put on the ballot as a candidate for the legislature.

CANDY AND SUGAR

The sugar shortage has placed candy on trial before the bar of public opinion. Candy is accused of being the thief that has robbed the national sugar barrel. Candy is charged with having been responsible for the sugar shortage. Businessmen say that the reason they cannot buy all the sugar they need is because the candy manufacturers use such a large quantity that none is left for household usage. (What are the facts? What does the evidence disclose? The public is prone to arrive at quick conclusions without first carefully considering the facts. The public assumes that the candy manufacturers use an enormous amount of sugar and that most candy is made entirely from sugar. Nothing could be further from the truth. The facts are that while sugar is the chief basic raw material used by candy manufacturers, there are many other kinds of raw materials used in large quantities, such as chocolate, molasses, fruits, nuts, corn syrup, starch and various other food products. Candy being composed of these various kinds of raw materials, is very high in food value. The craving for "something sweet" is nature's call for carbohydrates, which supply fuel for the human engine and which is most acceptably supplied in the form of candy. The sugar shortage is, no doubt, due primarily to increased household usage and not to increased usage by candy manufacturers. The candy industry occupies an important place in industrial affairs and employs 300,000 people. Since prohibition went into effect it has become an essential food commodity, but it is still classed as a luxury and charged with special excise tax which consumers must pay.

THE COLUMBIAN COURIER

This week the Columbus Courier moved into and now occupies one of the largest buildings in Columbus. It was known as the National Store property, but is owned by Mrs. Susan Moore of the 1st North, W. Place, and was leased to Frank Sordhouse of Denning. The Courier has assumed Mr. Sordhouse's lease, which will expire in 1937. The building contains 3,300 square feet of floor space. Additional improvements and new type are being installed and it is the intention of the management to step up with and anticipate the growth of Columbus.

LETTERS NOT READING OFFER

"If there is any discord on account of the present incumbent of the executive chair, put him aside, and the governor in his address, 'I have never asked for office in my life and am not doing so now. If I am in the way, for God's sake get together and name a man who can be elected. I am willing to step down and out if it will promote party harmony and success.'"

—Sam Harris, delegate to the Republican state convention at Santa Fe, has returned to Columbus. Mr. Harris reports the delegates to the national convention were instructed to vote for Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood for president.

SMALL TALK

—Mrs. Floyd White will participate at bridge Saturday afternoon. —F. W. Dickman, U. S. customs inspector, will resign April 1. —Opal Krieger and Charles L. Smith, both of Columbus, were married last week in Denning. Judge H. C. Rodgers performed the ceremony. —The Ladies' Aid will hold an all-day meeting at the residence of Mrs. A. L. Taylor next Wednesday, April 2. —Ervin L. Wagon, postal clerk in the Chicago postoffice, is in Columbus with his wife and they will remain for some time. —This is the last chance the Courier has to emphasize the fact that it is not only your vote, but your neighbor's vote, which is needed to put the bond issue over. —T. Yeager, machinist on the El Paso Road, spent Sunday in Columbus and incidentally here drove and operated the Courier's typewriting machine. —Mrs. P. F. Johnson of El Paso, who has been visiting her children, Mrs. Fred Weisenbeck and W. W. Hutchinson, for several weeks, has returned to her home. —Lieutenant James L. A. A., accompanied by numerous soldiers, witnesses and prisoners, will go to Santa Fe to attend the session of the federal court early in the week. —You cannot vote on the waterworks bond issue unless you paid taxes during the year 1935. It makes no difference WHAT year you paid for, but your receipt must read 1935. —Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Robinson of Chicago, Ill., are visiting Mrs. Kate O. Payne. Mr. Robinson will return to Chicago this week, but Mrs. Robinson will remain a few weeks longer. —Mrs. W. J. Walker, who has been visiting in Columbus for the past year, left Wednesday for Texas on an indefinite visit. How much she will depend upon the temperature of the oil fever. —C. C. Fisher, a brother of James S. Fisher, Denning attorney, and years ago a resident of Silver City, died the past week at Venice, Cal. The deceased was probate judge of Grant county several years. —Jack Brown, probably the best known officer in Luna county, will resign his county and city position April 1 and will be immediately appointed in the employ of the U. S. government and stationed in Columbus.

—Lee Higgs, Jack Brown and P. W. Haisman will leave early in the week for Santa Fe on government business pertaining mostly to violations of federal laws regarding hoarding. They will be away during election and candidates will lose votes thereby. —The junior member of the Denning Graphic, his wife and three children, returned to Columbus Sunday to their new self-starting Ford. Mr. Haisman is one of the best drivers in this section of New Mexico, and the Graphic reflects his ability. Mrs. Haisman was delighted with the trip and they enjoyed home much improved with Columbus and this side of the mountains. —One of the prettiest arranged entertainments of the Easteride was given as a compliment to Mrs. W. C. Franklin, bride of W. C. Franklin, cashier of the First National Bank, by Mrs. Wilson Kilgore at her home on Tolt street Wednesday afternoon from 3 to 6. The guests after several hours spent showing their craft at needlework and discussing topics of the day, were served with an elegant four-course luncheon. The plate cards and favors were all suggestive of Easter. Covers were laid for six. Those invited to meet Mrs. Franklin were Mesdames Kimball-Stewart, J. J. Clark, J. H. Cox, Lee Higgs, William King and A. Guest. —Miss Ruby Webb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hoppe and wife, was married at the Methodist parsonage in Denning Monday evening to Mr. Nolan of Columbus. The happy couple departed Wednesday evening on their honeymoon to points in Indiana. Last Friday afternoon they were given a "shower" at the Hoppe residence by Mrs. N. Yearbough, Mrs. George Peters, Mrs. W. L. Moody and Mrs. R. E. Sisco. As guests there were Mesdames A. J. Evans, Lee Higgs, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. W. C. Franklin, A. Fredehien, Mrs. Floyd White, Edwin Dean, J. A. Moore, Rogers, Stacey, Will King, Miss Irene and Ruth Vaso and Mrs. Stevenson and Mrs. Wald. Of course silver and linen predominate in the gifts. —Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Wald had the surprise of their lives Tuesday night when they returned home after an automobile trip. On entering the house they found the Columbus State Bank employes and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Newwood, Mrs. Dent, Ruth Pog and J. Barth in full possession of the parlor, but the kitchen as well, and everyone sat down to well-laden tables. This successful surprise party was in honor of Mrs. Wald's birthday. The respective bride received considerable gifts to find out how many candies there were, or how many cards she received, presented the birthday cake, and acted as to how many eggs on the back, but it was impossible to find out Mrs. Wald's law for prohibition.

Columbus Theater

Gloria Hope, one of the most appealingly beautiful actresses of the screen, has a prominent part in "The Third Woman," the Robert-Edwards superior picture which will be shown at the Columbus Theater Saturday, April 3. She has the part of the daughter of a plain man who later discovers that he is partly an Indian. The pair become lovers in the east before the man makes his startling discovery. He then goes to a Pueblo village where he finds the Indians in whom he feels that he belongs more than to those of the whites. The girl and her father come seeking him. He will not allow himself to be found at first. Later, however, he goes back to the girl, realizing that love may in some cases completely overcome racial barriers.

"Hunting Shadows"

H. H. Warner, in "Hunting Shadows," the Robert-Edwards picture, which will be shown at the Columbus Theater on Sunday, April 5, has the part of a young man who forfeits (as he thinks) his whole inheritance to follow the girl he loves. Shut up for a year in an American castle, modeled after a picturesque British building, he leaves it to go to the home of a girl he loves, thereby violating the terms of the will of his grandfather. This is but one of the many dramatic situations which arise in this picture, which was made at the James L. Houston studios in New York city, and in the supporting cast are Eugene Strong, William Walton, Cecil Gloucester, Earl Barlow, Chas. Stevenson, Julia Swanson, Gordon and Anna Ayres. Another big Broadway stage success brought to the screen by Vitaphone in "A Sitch in Time," the Gladys Leslie picture, which will be shown in the Columbus Theater on Wednesday, April 7. From Foxwick made a hit in the role of Phoozie Ann and the Little Vito, graph star with "the million dollar smile" is in less appealing. Ralph Lane directed this picture, the center of which are led to historic Washington scenes in New York city, and in the supporting cast are Eugene Strong, William Walton, Cecil Gloucester, Earl Barlow, Chas. Stevenson, Julia Swanson, Gordon and Anna Ayres.

Ford THE UNIVERSAL CAR There are more than 3,000,000 Ford cars in daily service throughout the world, and fully eighty percent of these are Ford Touring Cars. There are many reasons for this, not the least of which is the simplicity in the design of the car, so easy to understand; likewise it is easy to operate; and mighty inexpensive compared to other motor cars. On the farm, in the city, for business and for family pleasure, it is the car of the people, and the demand is increasing every day. Let us have your order promptly if you want one.
