PEERLESS NEW MEXICANS FORCED TO APOLOGIZE AND EXPLAIN TO HOUSE COMMITTEE ON TERRITORIES

Copy of Telegram They Sent to Burkhart Declaring That Only Way to Get Statehood Is by Amending Constitution Brings Down Wrath of Congressmen When Laid Before Today's Session: New Mexico papers of All Political Complexions Denouncing Delay Occasioned by Famous Quartette of Patriots, Causes Committeemen to Sit Up and Take Notice: Kansan Declares Matter is Reflection Upon Body of Which He is Member and Fergusson Tells How It Happened: Fall Thoroughly Discredits Scheming of Few Democrats.

HEARING IS CONCLUDED AND MEN ARE NAMED TO PREPARE THE REPORT

Staff Correspondent The Evening Herald Room 44, Post Bldg.

Washington, April 29.—Conservation was crowded in the house committee on territories this morning by the reading of a variety of newspaper clippings from New Mexico newspapers of a variety of political affiliations, reminding Fergusson, Jones, McGill and Hand in their alleged efforts to "get" early statehood and at the same time have the constitution rewritten to suit their interests. Judge Fall produced a newspaper article and a copy of a telegram from the four progressive Democrats named, which created somewhat of a sensation. The telegram was to Summers Burkhart of Albuquerque, N. M., and said that Fergusson, Hand, Jones and McGill found it impossible to get early statehood without a change in the enabling act and in the amendment clause of the constitution. The telegram said it was utterly useless, unless this change were made, and accused Judge Fall, former Governor Curry and other Republicans with causing delay in the action on statehood.

Congressman Young was on his feet in a minute. He denounced the statement in the telegram to Burkhart as a reflection on the committee, on its good faith and its efficiency of work. He soon had voluminous explanations and excuses coming from the progressive Democrats from New Mexico.

H. B. Fergusson took the lead in this respect. He announced the late oratory given last in an impassioned speech, protesting that the progressive Democrats of New Mexico have only good intentions and explaining that the failure to secure admission without changes in the constitution was a condition existing in the senate and not in the house. He said "They" did not for a minute, desire to reflect on the house committee on territories and he was asked in connection of any meeting to that effect in the telegram to Burkhart. He said, however, that he and his friends believed that the situation in the senate was such that the amendment they suggested would be necessary. It was plain that the four progressive Democrats had been named, among them, Jones of Oklahoma, who had been named in the telegram at the last session.

Judge Fall replied to Mr. Fergusson and his scathing arraignment of the tactics of this little band of Democratic leaders was one of the features of the session today. Judge Fall did not choose his words and it was evident that he had intended to make the Democrats severely in the manner in which he disclosed every move they had made, since the statehood campaign opened.

When it had concluded, they made no reply. The committee then declared the hearing closed as to both New Mexico and Arizona and referred the whole matter to a subcommittee with request to report in a few days. The members of the subcommittee are:

Wells of Ohio, Republican; Dwyer of New York, Republican; Humphreys of Mississippi, Democrat; and Martin of Colorado, Democrat.

This committee is believed to be favorable to immediate admission of both territories. The campaign which has been waged by the press of New Mexico for the immediate admission to the union of that territory has had an excellent effect on the members of the committee and on the house generally.

Its effect has been to offset the attempts at delay on the part of the disgruntled Democrats here by exposing their motives and refuting the stand in the face of their declarations that they would guide by the will of the people following the general election. Brady O'Neil of Arizona declared today that he believed the Arizona statehood workers would be willing to submit a proposition to reconsider the incorporation into the constitution of the recall of the judiciary if it were not made a condition for immediate admission. This has practically been forced upon Arizona by the fight made by the New Mexico progressive Democrats in steering up a fight over the amendment clause of the new Mexico constitution.

The committee, it is said, will hardly be likely to ask New Mexico to reconsider the amendment clause of the constitution which was adopted by the voters of the territory by Arizona. The Arizona Democrats are not pleased by the position in which they have been placed by the New Mexico leaders. The way the situation now presents itself to the subcommittee of the house committee on territories will likely pass a report favoring the immediate admission of both territories but providing that at the first state election, these two amendments to the constitution shall be voted upon by the people of the respective territories. Neither amendment will be compulsory in statehood and it is not believed here that either territory will change its constitution. The only effect therefor, will have been the delay occasioned by the hearing before the committee.

The chief interest is now directed towards the senate, where already Senator Bailey and Senator Owen have forewarned to fight certain provisions in the Arizona and New Mexico constitutions, respectively.

Whether or not Senator Owen will receive the cooperation of the progressive Democratic leaders of New Mexico is not known. The Republican delegation here is exerting its influence at this time to prevent a fight and to get the New Mexico constitution approved without delay. If the matter is allowed to drag along until the closing days of the session again, another day may prevent the admission of either of the territories at this session.

SIZING UP TAFT'S NEW SECRETARY INDICATES HE WILL DO

Charles D. Hilles Is Making Many Friends for the Administration at a Time When They Come Handy.

HE MUST BE DIPLOMAT AND POLITICIAN TOO

Special Correspondence to the Herald. Washington, D. C., April 29.—Already official Washington has taken the measure of Charles D. Hilles, the president's new secretary, and nobody who has had occasion to do business at the White House during the past three or four weeks entertains any doubt that this official will make the administration a lot of friends, and make them at a time when the administration needs the friends.

But it is certain that the president knew that Hilles was the man for the place even before he went over to the treasury department one day and told Mr. McKim that he wanted this assistant to come to the White House and take up the duties Charles D. Norton was about to lay down.

For two years the president had Hilles in his official family. He had been appointed assistant secretary of the treasury when the new administration took hold, and he had distinguished himself in that position. Before that, the official had made a place for himself in New York and in Ohio.

Away back in the days when the late William McKinley was governor of Ohio and the president was a state judge in the same commonwealth, Dewey Hilles—that is what they called him then—began to rise above the crowd, began to be heard of beyond his own immediate neighborhood. He had been born in the Buckeye state and his public career, which has led to the post of confidential adviser to the president of the United States began there.

First the young man, who was then a Union veteran and a prominent Ohio politician, became a clerk in the day's industrial school at Lancaster. Then he went into the newspaper business, becoming city editor of the Lancaster Gazette. Afterward he returned to the school as financial agent, and later was superintendent. In this position he attracted the attention of the trustees of the New York juvenile system, and a few years later he was named as the head of that institution.

This move brought him into touch with the New York state political leaders. Among them was the presidential campaign three years ago came on, and Hilles was asked to help fix things in the Empire state and in New England. He has always had a preference for practical politics, and this gave him an opportunity to demonstrate his aptitude for the great American game. Also it brought him into the Taft administration.

The secretaryship of the president is a difficult job. It is about the most difficult in the whole government service. The man who occupies that position stands between the house of our nation and the great horde of office seekers, officials, senators and representatives. Every man who goes to the executive offices thinks his business is the most important before the president. He thinks he should be ushered in at once, and given an immediate hearing.

It became known today that the Albuquerque railway clerks are pulling strings to land M. H. Blackwell, chief clerk in Denver, as superintendent of the fourthteenth division. The clerks will submit the matter to the Commercial club of Albuquerque and ask the assistance of that organization. Denver is working hard to get the headquarters, Omaha being the most formidable competitor.

Los Angeles, April 29.—John J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the structural iron workers and his brother James B. McNamara, charged with a series of dynamite outrages, are obeying to the letter the instructions of their attorneys, to refuse interviews to all other persons. Jail officials say the prisoners are showing no nervousness over the charges. All, including Orin Manning, the so-called "Harry Orchard" of the case, sleep soundly, and possess hearty appetites.

When the legal forces which are to engage in a battle over the men's alleged guilt are gathered, several days hence, the first court step in the case will be taken. Clarence Darrow, chief counsel for the defense, left his way here from Chicago. W. Joseph Ford, assistant to the district attorney, Mr. Fredericks, is expected here Monday from Indianapolis.

It is thought he will bring with him considerable documentary evidence, possibly a copy of the alleged Chicago confession of McManigal. There is some talk of a change of venue to another county, although Mr. Fredericks declares there is no reason for a change. McManigal made another change of front today by holding an interview with Attorney Hillen of the defense. The latter, said afterwards that McManigal admitted having made a statement to the district attorney but said reasons for doing so which Hillen said were eminently satisfactory to the defense.

HAMMOND IS NOT PLEASED WITH FREE LIST EITHER

Only Democrat in House to Vote Against Reciprocity Measure Tells Why He Will Support Similar One Now.

HE WILL GIVE BACK WHAT FARMERS LOSE

Washington, April 29.—Representative W. S. Hammond of Minnesota, the only Democratic member of the ways and means committee who voted against the Canadian reciprocity bill in the house, in a speech in that body today declared that he would support the Democratic free list bill only because it would give some return to the farming interests of the country for injuries they were likely to receive as a result of the Canadian trade agreement.

Mr. Hammond believed that the Canadian trade agreement was not in line with Democratic policies, as expressed in previous years. Since the agreement apparently is destined to go into effect, he said the free list bill should be passed also. "If it were not for the Canadian trade agreement, which I think is absolutely deplorable, a larger class of our citizens of 'advantages' than other classes obtain under our tariff laws," said he, "I would not deem it necessary or advisable to enter the legislation now under consideration."

Chihuahua, Mexico, April 29.—More than 100 freight cars loaded with 1,000 federal troops and equipment left here over the Mexican National railroad today for Juarez. The troops are commanded by General Rabago and Oro and are provided with guns and ammunition for heavy action. Under the terms of the armistice arranged with Madero the federal government bound itself not to move more troops, and if the reported sending of a strong force from Chihuahua is true this will constitute a grave breach of the agreement and may precipitate immediate fighting.

General Reyes has book passages direct to Mexico but will see Corral while en route. Rebels have Gomez. Vasquez Gomez expects to be a peace envoy. El Paso, Texas, April 29.—It is expected with the arrival here tonight of Vasquez Gomez he will be named by General Madero as the insurrecto peace commissioner.
