

LONDON FULL OF VISITORS FROM ALL NATIONS

Magnificent Decorations and Finishing Touches Are Complete for Coronation Ceremonies Tomorrow.

POLICE INADEQUATE TO HANDLE BIG CROWD

Metropolis of Globe Patrolled By Thousands of Troops and Injured Cared for By Corps of Ambulance Men.

(By Evening Herald A. P. Leased Wire) London, June 21.—London was taxed to its capacity. It was coronation show day and thousands flocked to the suburbs to the city's west end to see the decorations and watch the preparations for tomorrow's great event.

The decorations were practically completed and afforded a never-ending source of attraction for the crowds which in various and sundry forms, formed a continuous, ever moving mass from Victoria embankment to Westminster Abbey and Buckingham Palace.

The patience of the crowds was rewarded by the appearance from time to time of regiments of infantry accompanied by bands which were arriving to take part in lining the route for tomorrow's procession from the palace to the abbey, and the passing of state carriages containing dominant partners, members of every parliament and legislature of the empire, who had come to pay homage to the sovereign and who were received in audience by the king and queen this morning.

This being the day for special intervention by the king and queen services were held in all the churches and meeting at public halls were addressed by the bishops of London, the bishop of Ely and other leaders of religious thought.

The police who have strenuous work ahead of them, already are doing double duty. Even on the street traffic at times gets the better of them and today it occasioned considerable delay in the center of the city.

Several of the ambulance men have been engaged for coronation day and already many have been placed on duty.

The sky was overcast today but according to the forecasters there is every reason to expect a fine day for the coronation.

The streets through which the king and queen and the royal procession pass on their way from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Abbey for the coronation, and the huge royal cortege, have been decorated on a scale never before attempted in London.

The Mail, as the new admiralty, with the outlet into Trafalgar square and Whitehall, has been flanked by great stands for officials and distinguished guests, which show out the beauty of St. James park, and the gardens of the residences opposite, but behind these stands on the one side, Clarence House, the residence of the duke of Cornwall, St. James palace, Marlborough house and the houses forming Carlton house terrace have been most elaborately decorated, forming a facade of brilliant colors.

From the admiralty arch to the abbey the West minister city council took charge of the work and with the assistance of a committee of artists have carried out a scheme worthy of that great thoroughfare and in harmony with the magnificent architecture of the public buildings and government offices which adorn the center of British officialdom.

The committee departed entirely from the traditional idea of Venetian masks and tulle and paper flowers, which are invariably brought out on any public occasion in London, and have adopted a plan unique so far as London is concerned.

Along either side of the street have been erected 64 columns of fibrous plaster, which have been made to look as permanent as the buildings behind them. These columns, connected with garlands, bear gift figures of Victory, lions and griffins. At the Charing Cross end of Whitehall and again at the Parliament square end, there are terminal columns 35 feet high, surmounted by white lions supporting the porticoes, the crest of arms of the city of Westminster. These lions bear white rosettes on the blue collars and red rosettes on the gold collars, with black vermilion marks on the body and the gold particles printed on the side. They have been modeled on six feet 6 inches high. The remaining columns, 36 in number, bear alternately a winged figure of Victory blowing a trumpet, or a griffin. On each column bronze caplets carry the shield of the kings and queens of England.

TAFT TAKES CREDIT FOR DECISION

President is Guest at Function Where Sheepskin is Handed to Nearly Nine Hundred Men of Noted University.

(By Evening Herald A. P. Leased Wire) New Haven, Conn., June 21.—The two hundred and tenth commencement was held at Yale university today when diplomas were awarded to 897 men. President William H. Taft joined the members of the corporation, of which he is a fellow.

Among the gifts to Yale university announced by President Taft at the alumni dinner today was one of $5,000 by the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity in honor of James J. Hogan, the football captain of the class of 1905. The income of this fund will be awarded at the end of his first year in the college to a worthy freshman who possesses the traits that characterized Hogan—high standing in the college world and high character.

Speaking at the Yale alumni luncheon here today, President Taft declared that the decisions of the United States supreme court in the Standard Oil and American Tobacco cases have pointed a clear road over which the honest business man can travel in safety. It was the first public reference the president has made to these decisions and was brought forth by the presence on the platform with him of Associate Justice Lamar.

"I believe those decisions," said the president, "have done and will continue to do great good to all the business of the country."

The president took reflected credit, he said, from the five appointments he had made to the supreme court. The decisions in the two big cases, he declared, proved conclusively that he had chosen well.

Welsh's duty was accepted yesterday by Tom Jones. Wolgast's manager and certified checks for $1,900 each, were posted today to bind the match. Should Welsh or Wolgast meet defeat in their coming battles with Holm and Moran, respectively, the proposed match will be cancelled.

Wolgast, who will be a spectator at the Welsh-Holm contest, has been conditioning himself in Southern California for his fight with Moran on the fourth of July, and has announced that he will keep on meeting all comers until the lightweight division has been shown of its dangerous challengers.

What Victims of Great White Plague Mean to Economic System of Each Community Computed By Expert.

FIVE HUNDRED CASES TOTALLED $75,000

(By Evening Herald A. P. Leased Wire) Denver, June 21.—What victims of the great white plague cost the community, the family and the individual, in hard dollars and cents, was told by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis today by Dr. Edwin A. Locke and Cleveland Floyd of the Boston Consumption hospital department. The figures were based on a careful study of the cases of five hundred male patients and are claimed to be accurate as it is possible to figure the cost of this disease to the community.

Of these cases, 241 died, cost the community $177,500 each, or a total of $42,775. The 256 living have cost $28,128 each, a total of $72,912, a total community loss for the 500 of $72,983.

The cases showed an individual loss in wages of $26,079. Four hundred and twenty-two of the victims were heads of families with an average weekly earning before stricken with the disease of $17.50. Their average earnings decreased to $7.85 after they were taken sick. Death left 361 families entirely without means of support with the other 239 which are reduced to an income of about $10 per week.

"Control of tuberculosis in small towns," tuberculosis as a factor in the increased cost of living," were other subjects taken up today.

SELF DEFENSE TO BE HENWOOD PLEA

It Will Be Contended That While He Had No Trouble With Man Killed, He Was Defending Himself.

(By Evening Herald A. P. Leased Wire) Denver, Colo., June 21.—The work of selecting a jury to hear the case against Frank Harold Henwood, charged with the murder of George F. Copeland, was resumed today. Both prosecution and defense are examining closely the records of prospective jurors and it is hardly probable that the selection of the jury will be completed today.

The line of questioning adopted by Attorney John T. Bottom, representing Henwood, indicates that he will make self-defense his plea. While Henwood had no trouble with Copeland, Attorney Bottom intends to show that Henwood at the time was defending himself against a violent death at the hands of Von Phut and that Copeland was accidentally struck by one of the bullets intended for Von Phut.

President Taft believes that unless the law is amended forthwith the country will again be flooded by "injurious nostrums" and "snake oils" which were common before the pure food law was first enacted.

The message was transmitted to both the senate and house Representatives. Sherman of Kentucky, has already introduced a bill bearing on the subject.

New York, June 21.—President Taft this morning quitted Washington a special message, which will be presented to congress today recommending an amendment to the pure food laws. It is the result of a recent supreme court decision which ruled that a manufacturer could legally label a product as a "cure for consumption" even though he failed to establish the requisite qualities of his medicine so long as the label complied with the law in publishing truthfully the chemical contents of the remedy.

The president wants congress to pass further legislation providing for the punishment of anyone who misuses or misrepresents the law of supply and demand," declared Mr. Havemeyer.
