GRAYS WILL PLAY HOME SUNDAY

Santa Fe Club Is Marked Victim for Locals on Traction Park Diamond; Amarillo Here 29 and 30.

Albuquerque and Santa Fe will play a game of that good old baseball on Traction park diamond Sunday afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock. The only thing that will prevent the appearance of the two clubs as advertised is a downpour of rain.

Amarillo Here Next. Amarillo, Texas, a team which has a splendid record for victories this season, will play two games in Albuquerque next week, Saturday and Sunday, July 29 and 30.

Raton and Las Vegas. The Las Vegas Maroons, which are regarded as the best team in the west, will play the Albuquerque Grays at Traction park on Sunday, July 29, and the Grays will play Raton on Saturday and Sunday.

OLDTIMERS SWIFT ON BASES

Looked as if It Was a Lost Art Until Ty Cobb and Eddie Collins Began to Chase Around the Diamond.

It is in the base stealing department that the biggest difference between the old-time ball players and those of recent years is found. Until the advent of Cobb and Collins, a comparison between the Grays of twenty years ago and those of later years, showed a remarkable falling off.

In 1886 in the National league three men stole more than fifty bases. Marty Stovey led the American association with ninety-six steals. In 1887 Stovey broke all records by stealing 143 bases.

Billy Hamilton came to the front as the American association's best base runner in 1889. He put seven-league steps to his credit, leading Stovey by two. Fogarty did the best work in the National stealing ninety-nine bases. Twenty-nine men in the two leagues went over the fifty mark.

Some fans may argue that the catchers of the olden days were not as strong as those of the present time. A glance at the names of the catchers on the rosters of the two leagues will refute that theory.

BATTERS' STYLE IS HARD TO CHANGE

The Way a Man Gets Up to Bat Does Count Much in When It Comes to Swatting Sphere Says Jennings.

Hughie Jennings, who has piloted the Detroit Tigers to three American league pennants, believes a player knows best how to stand at the plate and swing at a ball. For that reason Hughie doesn't tamper much with the style of his batters.

When the Tiger team returned to Detroit after the southern training trip Jennings had three different pictures taken of each player at the bat. One was his position at the start of the swing, another about half way, and the third just as the ball connects with the bat.

Jennings says that there were only a few of his players whose form was really ideal. Cobb, Crawford, Delahanty, Morantz, Melchore and Stange all bat in a manner pleasing to Jennings.

From a purely technical standpoint, according to my way of thinking, Take Claude Rossman, for instance. When he joined us several years ago, he had the most awkward, ungainly pose at the bat I ever saw.

"Of course if a player is in a slump or is really a weak hitter, I believe in trying new styles and systems. Maybe he takes his step forward a moment too quick, or maybe too late. Then he may be hitting the ball at the wrong angle when it meets the bat.

"Then another thing that people talk a good deal about is the preliminary position of the batter at the plate. Take George Stone. He has a crouch that probably doesn't benefit him a bit. When it may not hurt. But just notice Stone's legs the crouch when he swings at the ball. It's a nice batter. He leans forward and posts the ball squarely and is really straightened up when he swings at the ball, so that preliminary stoo doesn't count for a thing.

OF INTEREST TO THE FANS

SHORTEST OUTFIELD IS PLAYED BY OAKS. "Baker" Baker is playing the shortest center field of any middle grade in major league baseball.

The Cardinal center fielder has some excellent reasons for playing in close. He says: "I've accepted more chances than any center fielder in the game this year. The fielding averages will prove it. I expect to close the season with a record of having accepted over 100 more chances than any outfielder in the game."

idea is to pull the left and right fielders away from the foul lines and have them work in left center and right center. That gives the middle man a chance to get the liners and Texas leaguers in short center. I've noticed a whole bunch of them this year.

TY COBB LITTLE OF TRICKS AS SPEDDY BASE RUNNER

King Kelly once offered to bet Jack Crooks $5 that he could give him the ball, he is 10 feet away from the bag and make it without being touched. He was so clever in dodging one way when the fielder expected him to go the opposite way he could not touch him.

Famous as Kelly was for his work on the bases, Ty Cobb is a better runner, for Ty has more speed and is equally quick in getting around the base with the ball.

RANCH HOME TO BE PUEBLO STYLE

One Hundred Thousand Dollar House on Urracca Ranch to Be Built After Manner of New Mexico Indians.

Cimarron, N. M., July 19.—Perhaps one of the oddest dwellings in America will be a magnificent structure upon which work has already started on the ranch of George H. Webster near here, and which will be an exact duplicate of an old Indian pueblo.

The master of this unique residence, formerly of Chicago, is owner of the famous Urracca ranch, comprising 80,000 acres of land in New Mexico, upon which he is to build his home.

According to the style of the old Indian pueblo, the rooms will have ceilings at different heights, suggesting a sloping effect in the building. The interior of the residence is to be strictly modern. The wood work will all be rough hewn and stained and some fireplaces are to be installed in all the rooms, twenty in number.

CEMENT DEPOSITE AT TUCUMCARI

TUCUMCARI, N. M., July 19.—The Commercial Portland Cement and Land company, through Agent M. B. Rice, has recently located several thousand acres of cement deposits near Logan, this county, from which they claim a very fine quality of Portland cement may be manufactured.

The American iron, then by Carl Schick, manager of the mining department of the Rock Island system of railroads, Chicago, shows the cement rock now owned by the Canadian Oil people to be admirably adapted to the manufacture of Portland cement.

Several miles of the stream were some other and two sites selected, one of them to be finally selected after surveys are made and estimates of the cost determined.
