

SPORTS

Baseball.

Standing of the Clubs

National League.
	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
New York	24	14	.632
Cincinnati	27	18	.600
Chicago	22	18	.550
Philadelphia	21	17	.553
Brooklyn	19	19	.497
St. Louis	22	25	.463
Pittsburgh	18	21	.462
Paston	12	27	.309

American League.
	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Washington	27	17	.614
Detroit	28	19	.595
Philadelphia	25	17	.595
St. Louis	21	17	.553
Boston	22	22	.500
Chicago	20	22	.476
New York	17	24	.415
Cleveland	14	29	.329

Federal League.
	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Baltimore	22	15	.595
Chicago	24	19	.558
Cincinnati	21	17	.553
Brooklyn	17	18	.487
St. Louis	21	24	.467
Pittsburgh	19	22	.463
Kansas City	20	25	.444
Indianapolis	17	22	.438

Western League.
	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Siox City	23	13	.639
Denver	25	18	.581
St. Joseph	26	19	.575
Des Moines	24	21	.533
Lynch	24	24	.500
Omaha	21	22	.488
Wichita	19	29	.398
Topeka	15	31	.328

GAMES TOMORROW

National League.
Cincinnati at Boston.
Chicago at Brooklyn.
St. Louis at New York.
Pittsburgh at Philadelphia.

American League.
New York at Chicago.
Washington at St. Louis.
Philadelphia at Detroit.
Boston at Cleveland.

Federal League.
Buffalo at Kansas City.
Brooklyn at Indianapolis.
Pittsburgh at Chicago.
Pittsburgh at St. Louis.

WESTERN LEAGUE.
American League.
Detroit, 4; Philadelphia, 1.
St. Louis, 2; Washington, 1.
Chicago, 4; New York, 6.
Boston, 2; Cleveland, 1.

National League.
No games.

Federal League.
St. Louis, 18; Kansas City, 6.
Chicago, 7; Indianapolis, 2.

FEDERAL LEAGUE
Brooklyn, 3; Chicago, 4.
First game.
Brooklyn 2-0 0-0 1-0-3 12 2
Chicago 0-11 6-20 0-6-4 7 0
Batteries: Summers and Owsen; McGuire and Wilson.

Alfredo J. Otero, the well known Jemez mountain stock grower, is in the city for a few days on business from his home in Jemez Springs.

BREAD
GET A LOAF IN FRONT OF YOU and you'll at once want to start eating our matchless Bread—it is so appetizing, so satisfying and pleasure-giving. It is made of the purest of ingredients in the cleanest and best appointed of bakeries, with every care taken in the handling, from mixing to putting on the counters for sale. Children particularly crave for this bread, and it is best for their sturdy growth.

PIONEER BAKERY
307 South First St.

LUMBER & BUILDER SUPPLIES
Wholesale and Retail
Albuquerque Lumber Co.
423 North First Street

Chicago Mill & Lumber Co.
General Planing Mill
3rd and Marquette Phone 8

J. L. GOBER
General Auctioneer
Household Goods a Specialty.
Phone 423, P. O. Box 224.

WOODMEN OF WORLD HOLD IMPRESSIVE MEMORIAL

Eloquent and Feeling Addresses, Beautiful Music and Striking Decorations Mark Memorial Service.

Marked by an impressive and beautiful program and attended by more than 500 persons, the memorial service of the Woodmen of the World at the Elks' theater yesterday afternoon was one of the most noteworthy events of the kind ever held here. The stage setting was not only a fitting tribute to the deceased, but also a masterpiece of scenic art. The program was a masterpiece of scenic art. The program was a masterpiece of scenic art.

The addresses were, every one of them, fine in feeling and language. The eulogy by Rev. Moise Bergmann was particularly memorable. The singing of Mrs. Ada Pierce Winn and Charles J. Andrews was splendid, and the orchestral selections could not have been bettered. The accompaniment to the singing by Mrs. Mabel Stevens Himes was perfect. The program in full was as follows:

Funeral March..... Chopin
Orchestra.
Invocation, Rev. Herman P. Williams
Opening Liturgical Ceremonies.....
By the Lodge
Soprano solo..... J. W. Metcalf
Ada Pierce Winn.
Response..... By the Lodge.
Orchestra.
Roll Call of Absent Sovereigns.....
Address..... Clerk
Address..... Hon. Edward A. Mann
(Introduction by Miss Adele Morelli)
"The Gift of His Beloved Sleep"
(Prayer by)..... Chas. J. Andrews
Address..... "Honor"
"Honor, Thos. N. Wilkerson
(Introduction by Miss Frances Black)
"Madrigal"
Orchestra..... Simonetti
Address..... "Memorandum"
"Honor, Bernard S. Roddy
(Introduction by Miss Margaret King)
Soprano solo..... Recessional (Re De Koven)
Ada Pierce Winn
Unveiling Monument, By the Lodge
Pew..... "Why Should the Spirit of a Mortal Be Proud"
Miss Helen McElroy
Eulogy..... Mabel M. Bergmann
Benediction.....
Rev. Herman P. Williams
Pleasant March..... Mendelssohn
Orchestra.

FIRM FOUNDATION.
Nothing Can Undermine It in Albuquerque.

People are sometimes slow to recognize true merit, and they cannot be blamed for so many have been humbugged in the past. The experience of hundreds of Albuquerque residents, expressed publicly through newspapers and other sources, places Doan's Kidney Pills on a firm foundation here.

T. M. Spindle, retired merchant, 1118 S. Walter St., Albuquerque, N. M., says: "I first used Doan's Kidney Pills eight or ten years ago when I was living in southern Texas. I was in the mercantile business there and sold Doan's Kidney Pills. I had been subject to attacks of kidney complaint all my life. At night my back was painful. Often the attacks were so bad that in order to get up, I had to catch hold of something for support. The kidney secretions passed too frequently both day and night. I often had dizzy spells and couldn't see for a few minutes. Being in that part of the country was no help to me. Doan's Kidney Pills proved to be just the medicine I needed. I attribute my getting rid of kidney complaint through using this medicine. I am glad to say that the cure made has been permanent."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McIlburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

HAHN AUTO CO.
(No Trouble to "Show" You)
W. W. STRONG, Prop.
708 W. Central. Phone 257.

CADILLAC LUBRICANTS, GOOD-RICH TIRES, TIME SIZE THAT FITS YOUR CAR; MICHELAN TUBES—NUPF RED.

We have a complete line of Wall Paper and Paints. Can do your work on a minute's notice.

C. E. QUEL
2 S. 2nd St. Phone 147.

CAMEL Cigarettes

CAMEL Cigarettes—20 for 10c—are a blend of choice quality Turkish and domestic tobaccos. They will not bite your tongue or parch your throat.

You haven't money enough to buy a more delightful cigarette—and no premiums or coupons could make you change over from Camels if you'll give them a try-out.

Stake a dime on the Camel today. Do not look for premiums or coupons; as the cost of the tobaccos in Camel Cigarettes prohibits their use.

If your dealer can't supply you, send 10c for one package or $1.00 for a carton of ten packages (200 cigarettes), postage prepaid. After smoking 1 package, if you don't find CAMELS as represented, return the other nine packages, and we will refund your money.

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO.
Winston-Salem, N. C.

Cigarettes

20 for 10c

MOTOR TOURISTS IN BUNCHES NOW COMING

Rush of the Summer Season Begins in Earnest with Nine Cars here Yesterday on Way to Coast.

SALESMEN MAKE RECORD RUN TO SAN ANTONIO

New Accident at Fourth and New York Calls Out Demand for Warning at Street Car Crossing.

On a business trip to Socorro Saturday, Tom Danahy, of the Putney grocery house, Jack Harlan and R. Dieckmann made a record run in an automobile from this city. They left here in a Ford car at 7 o'clock and were in Socorro at midnight. That was the fastest time ever made over the route followed, which was via Carthage and San Antonio. They finished their business in Socorro and returned to Albuquerque the next day.

MANY TOURISTS PASSING THROUGH THE DUKE CITY
The effect of the regular weekly road bulletins furnished by Col. D. K. B. Sellers, president of the Ocean-to-Ocean highway, to the Information Bureau at Kansas City and to the Automobile Club of Southern California at Los Angeles is being seen in the increased number of automobile tourists who are passing through this city. The bulletins furnish fresh and reliable data on the state of the roads, and tourists naturally prefer to take to the "short cut way."

Yesterday nine automobiles with tourists aboard came in to town over the Ocean to Ocean highway. Colonel Sellers, father of the weekly bulletins service, met, welcomed and directed them all. Among the auto tourists were a party of four from Kansas City to Los Angeles; party of three from Pittsburgh to the coast; party of five from San Diego to the east; party of three from St. Joseph, Mo., to Globe, Ariz.; party of five from Pueblo to El Paso, and party of two on their way to Dallas, Ariz.

Simultaneous publication in Santa Fe and New York city today of the master's notice of sale of the New Mexico Central railroad on July 1st, under mortgage of the Independent Steel and Wire company, the Pittsburgh Trust company, and other creditors, marks one more step in clearing away the numerous encumbrances of the road and its allied properties, necessary to clear the way for the sale of the properties to the Gulf, New Mexico and Pacific Railroad company, which will complete the road to Albuquerque. The road fields at Hagan, Roswell and Farmington. Pending of the road has been completed in France, subject to the clearing of the title to the Central and its allied properties. Their entangled condition has made this a long and tedious process of which the pending master's sale is a part.

"It is probable," said Col. W. S. Hopewell, promoter of the Gulf, New Mexico and Pacific project, this morning, "that the bondholders will buy in the Central property at this sale. It is one of a number of legal proceedings which must be worked out before our project can go forward. Our plans have moved smoothly up to this time, but we will not be able to go much further until the court proceedings of which this sale is one are finally disposed of. This, we hope may be accomplished soon."

ROADS IN GOOD SHAPE FOR AUTO TRAVELING
Fresh advice received by Colonel Sellers enabled him to sketch road conditions today from as far east as Kansas City to as far west as Yuma and Kingman, Ariz. The roads from Los Jons, Colo., to Kingman, Ariz., and from La Junta to Yuma, over the Santa Fe, Grand Canyon and Needles route and the Ocean to Ocean route, are all in fine condition. Heavy rains have been falling in Kansas, but these seem to be all over now, and it is expected that in three or four days the roads there will be normal.

Colonel Sellers is planning to improve his bulletin service. With the increase of auto touring, he believes a more frequent service is justified, and he will try to have his correspondents along the route, from coast to Kansas City, give him up-to-the-minute information on roads twice a week, instead of weekly.

WANT CROSSING SIGN AT FOURTH AND NEW YORK
An accident to a transcontinental tourist party, which might have been very serious, at the street car crossing at Fourth street and New York avenue Saturday evening, has drawn attention of motorists to a dangerous spot in the city's automobile paths and a monument was started today for a sign at this crossing, where numerous accidents and near accidents have been reported. Home people of course are careful at this crossing, but strangers coming in on the Fourth street highway are wholly without warning of it, and accidents like the one Saturday night may occur at any time. Either the city or the traction company will be asked to place the crossing sign.

TULLIOS' PROPERTY IS TO BE SOLD BY COURT
Judge Reynolds in the district court today gave judgment for $4,669 to Juan Garcia and Frank Hubbell, trustees, against Angelo and Teresina de Tullio, under a note and deed of trust. Laurence F. Lee is appointed special master to sell at auction the property covered by the deed of trust.

The Bank of Commerce (now merged with the First National bank) is given judgment for $900 against Oscar Lohman.

FIFTEEN DAYS IN JAIL, JACK DONAHUE'S SENTENCE
Jack Donahue, more or less well known locally, particularly to the police, was given fifteen days in jail by Police Judge Craig this morning on a charge of vagrancy. He was arrested Saturday night by Captain O'Keefe. Donahue recently returned to this city from El Paso.

COVINGTON DISTRICT JUDGE
Washington, June 8.—Representative J. Harry Covington of Easton, Md., was nominated by President Wilson today to be chief of the District of Columbia supreme court. He is a Democrat and has taken a leading part in framing the trust legislation.

JOHN A. LEE PASSES PEACEFULLY AWAY THIS MORNING

Pioneer and One of Most Influential Men in City's Upbuilding Dies at Age of Seventy-Four.

John A. Lee, pioneer of Albuquerque, and one of the strongest forces in the upbuilding of the community during a residence of more than thirty years, died at his home, 362 West Copper avenue this morning at 7 o'clock, aged 74 years. While Mr. Lee had not been in robust health for a number of years, or since his retirement from active business, ten years ago, he had been feeling quite well until early Sunday morning when partial paralysis resulted from a clot on the brain. The end came quietly and peacefully, twenty-four hours after the attack. With Mr. Lee at the end were his sisters, Miss Julia and Miss Lou Lee, with a brother, Samuel Lee of Denver, and the only surviving new relative, Attention to reach Samuel Lee, who is a civil engineer, had not been effective up to noon today, although word was expected from him at any time. Funeral arrangements will be deferred until notice can be had of the time of his arrival in Albuquerque. It is expected that the Elks' lodge will have charge of the funeral, Mr. Lee having been a charter member of the Albuquerque lodge; and committees of the order will be in charge of the remains until the funeral service which will take place at the family home.

MORTUARY
Benjamin Leboy.
The funeral of Benjamin Leboy, whose death occurred Sunday morning, was held this afternoon at 2:30 at the Crofton chapel, with interment in Santa Barbara cemetery. Deceased was the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. John Leboy, and death resulted from pneumonia. The family lives at 1922 North Arroyo street and came here six months ago from Trinidad.

JOHN A. LEE PASSES PEACEFULLY AWAY THIS MORNING

Pioneer and One of Most Influential Men in City's Upbuilding Dies at Age of Seventy-Four.

John A. Lee, pioneer of Albuquerque, and one of the strongest forces in the upbuilding of the community during a residence of more than thirty years, died at his home, 362 West Copper avenue this morning at 7 o'clock, aged 74 years.

While Mr. Lee had not been in robust health for a number of years, or since his retirement from active business, ten years ago, he had been feeling quite well until early Sunday morning when partial paralysis resulted from a clot on the brain. The end came quietly and peacefully, twenty-four hours after the attack. With Mr. Lee at the end were his sisters, Miss Julia and Miss Lou Lee, with a brother, Samuel Lee of Denver, and the only surviving new relative, Attention to reach Samuel Lee, who is a civil engineer, had not been effective up to noon today, although word was expected from him at any time. Funeral arrangements will be deferred until notice can be had of the time of his arrival in Albuquerque. It is expected that the Elks' lodge will have charge of the funeral, Mr. Lee having been a charter member of the Albuquerque lodge; and committees of the order will be in charge of the remains until the funeral service which will take place at the family home.

The bride's choice

"For my new cottage home I shall omit the useless inner doors, extra chimneys, mantels, fancy lamps that are never lighted, books which are never read, vases which contain no flowers, etc."

"My first purchase will be an outfit of

AMERICAN & IDEAL
RADIATORS & BOILERS

"Because they are much cooler, need no repairs, keep all ashes, smoke, and soot out of the living rooms, are safe, and will last as long as the cottage shall stand. These savings and economies will help in time to pay for the finer furnishings. The cottage will be kept cozy warm all over and health thus protected. If we prosper and move to a larger house, we will get our full money back or 10% to 15% higher rental to cover cost."

Estimates of cost of outfits complete cheerfully furnished.

BEEMAN & AYER,
PLUMBERS AND HEATERS.
Phone 511. 207 E. Central west and established a lumber business at Winfield, Kansas. He prospered there, but followed the railroad construction, and established the first lumber business in Albuquerque in the spring of 1881, the year the Atchison main line was completed into this city. From that time until his retirement from active business in 1904 Mr. Lee had one of the largest lumber businesses in the southwest and was one of Albuquerque's most active and influential citizens. He held numerous positions of trust in the community and was one of the city's first candidates for mayor, making the race for that office immediately after incorporation and being defeated by Henry Jaffa, the first mayor. Mr. Lee was energetic, public spirited and heartily in sympathy with every public movement in the community, giving liberally to the support of public enterprises. His acquaintance among other citizens of Albuquerque and the state was very large and his friends were numbered by thousands.

John A. Lee was born in Ireland and came to America with his parents at the age of two years. The family settled in Muskegon, Michigan, where Mr. Lee spent his early years and received his training in the lumber business, which he followed throughout his life. In 1881 at the beginning of the Civil war, Mr. Lee went into the Mexican where he engaged in contracting, returning to Muskegon after a few years to make his home until the death of his father. Later he came to Albuquerque, where he established a lumber business at Winfield, Kansas. He prospered there, but followed the railroad construction, and established the first lumber business in Albuquerque in the spring of 1881, the year the Atchison main line was completed into this city. From that time until his retirement from active business in 1904 Mr. Lee had one of the largest lumber businesses in the southwest and was one of Albuquerque's most active and influential citizens. He held numerous positions of trust in the community and was one of the city's first candidates for mayor, making the race for that office immediately after incorporation and being defeated by Henry Jaffa, the first mayor. Mr. Lee was energetic, public spirited and heartily in sympathy with every public movement in the community, giving liberally to the support of public enterprises. His acquaintance among other citizens of Albuquerque and the state was very large and his friends were numbered by thousands.

John A. Lee was born in Ireland and came to America with his parents at the age of two years. The family settled in Muskegon, Michigan, where Mr. Lee spent his early years and received his training in the lumber business, which he followed throughout his life. In 1881 at the beginning of the Civil war, Mr. Lee went into the Mexican where he engaged in contracting, returning to Muskegon after a few years to make his home until the death of his father. Later he came to Albuquerque, where he established a lumber business at Winfield, Kansas. He prospered there, but followed the railroad construction, and established the first lumber business in Albuquerque in the spring of 1881, the year the Atchison main line was completed into this city. From that time until his retirement from active business in 1904 Mr. Lee had one of the largest lumber businesses in the southwest and was one of Albuquerque's most active and influential citizens. He held numerous positions of trust in the community and was one of the city's first candidates for mayor, making the race for that office immediately after incorporation and being defeated by Henry Jaffa, the first mayor. Mr. Lee was energetic, public spirited and heartily in sympathy with every public movement in the community, giving liberally to the support of public enterprises. His acquaintance among other citizens of Albuquerque and the state was very large and his friends were numbered by thousands.

John A. Lee was born in Ireland and came to America with his parents at the age of two years. The family settled in Muskegon, Michigan, where Mr. Lee spent his early years and received his training in the lumber business, which he followed throughout his life. In 1881 at the beginning of the Civil war, Mr. Lee went into the Mexican where he engaged in contracting, returning to Muskegon after a few years to make his home until the death of his father. Later he came to Albuquerque, where he established a lumber business at Winfield, Kansas. He prospered there, but followed the railroad construction, and established the first lumber business in Albuquerque in the spring of 1881, the year the Atchison main line was completed into this city. From that time until his retirement from active business in 1904 Mr. Lee had one of the largest lumber businesses in the southwest and was one of Albuquerque's most active and influential citizens. He held numerous positions of trust in the community and was one of the city's first candidates for mayor, making the race for that office immediately after incorporation and being defeated by Henry Jaffa, the first mayor. Mr. Lee was energetic, public spirited and heartily in sympathy with every public movement in the community, giving liberally to the support of public enterprises. His acquaintance among other citizens of Albuquerque and the state was very large and his friends were numbered by thousands.

John A. Lee was born in Ireland and came to America with his parents at the age of two years. The family settled in Muskegon, Michigan, where Mr. Lee spent his early years and received his training in the lumber business, which he followed throughout his life. In 1881 at the beginning of the Civil war, Mr. Lee went into the Mexican where he engaged in contracting, returning to Muskegon after a few years to make his home until the death of his father. Later he came to Albuquerque, where he established a lumber business at Winfield, Kansas. He prospered there, but followed the railroad construction, and established the first lumber business in Albuquerque in the spring of 1881, the year the Atchison main line was completed into this city. From that time until his retirement from active business in 1904 Mr. Lee had one of the largest lumber businesses in the southwest and was one of Albuquerque's most active and influential citizens. He held numerous positions of trust in the community and was one of the city's first candidates for mayor, making the race for that office immediately after incorporation and being defeated by Henry Jaffa, the first mayor. Mr. Lee was energetic, public spirited and heartily in sympathy with every public movement in the community, giving liberally to the support of public enterprises. His acquaintance among other citizens of Albuquerque and the state was very large and his friends were numbered by thousands.

John A. Lee was born in Ireland and came to America with his parents at the age of two years. The family settled in Muskegon, Michigan, where Mr. Lee spent his early years and received his training in the lumber business, which he followed throughout his life. In 1881 at the beginning of the Civil war, Mr. Lee went into the Mexican where he engaged in contracting, returning to Muskegon after a few years to make his home until the death of his father. Later he came to Albuquerque, where he established a lumber business at Winfield, Kansas. He prospered there, but followed the railroad construction, and established the first lumber business in Albuquerque in the spring of 1881, the year the Atchison main line was completed into this city. From that time until his retirement from active business in 1904 Mr. Lee had one of the largest lumber businesses in the southwest and was one of Albuquerque's most active and influential citizens. He held numerous positions of trust in the community and was one of the city's first candidates for mayor, making the race for that office immediately after incorporation and being defeated by Henry Jaffa, the first mayor. Mr. Lee was energetic, public spirited and heartily in sympathy with every public movement in the community, giving liberally to the support of public enterprises. His acquaintance among other citizens of Albuquerque and the state was very large and his friends were numbered by thousands.

John A. Lee was born in Ireland and came to America with his parents at the age of two years. The family settled in Muskegon, Michigan, where Mr. Lee spent his early years and received his training in the lumber business, which he followed throughout his life. In 1881 at the beginning of the Civil war, Mr. Lee went into the Mexican where he engaged in contracting, returning to Muskegon after a few years to make his home until the death of his father. Later he came to Albuquerque, where he established a lumber business at Winfield, Kansas. He prospered there, but followed the railroad construction, and established the first lumber business in Albuquerque in the spring of 1881, the year the Atchison main line was completed into this city. From that time until his retirement from active business in 1904 Mr. Lee had one of the largest lumber businesses in the southwest and was one of Albuquerque's most active and influential citizens. He held numerous positions of trust in the community and was one of the city's first candidates for mayor, making the race for that office immediately after incorporation and being defeated by Henry Jaffa, the first mayor. Mr. Lee was energetic, public spirited and heartily in sympathy with every public movement in the community, giving liberally to the support of public enterprises. His acquaintance among other citizens of Albuquerque and the state was very large and his friends were numbered by thousands.

John A. Lee was born in Ireland and came to America with his parents at the age of two years. The family settled in Muskegon, Michigan, where Mr. Lee spent his early years and received his training in the lumber business, which he followed throughout his life. In 1881 at the beginning of the Civil war, Mr. Lee went into the Mexican where he engaged in contracting, returning to Muskegon after a few years to make his home until the death of his father. Later he came to Albuquerque, where he established a lumber business at Winfield, Kansas. He prospered there, but followed the railroad construction, and established the first lumber business in Albuquerque in the spring of 1881, the year the Atchison main line was completed into this city. From that time until his retirement from active business in 1904 Mr. Lee had one of the largest lumber businesses in the southwest and was one of Albuquerque's most active and influential citizens. He held numerous positions of trust in the community and was one of the city's first candidates for mayor, making the race for that office immediately after incorporation and being defeated by Henry Jaffa, the first mayor. Mr. Lee was energetic, public spirited and heartily in sympathy with every public movement in the community, giving liberally to the support of public enterprises. His acquaintance among other citizens of Albuquerque and the state was very large and his friends were numbered by thousands.

John A. Lee was born in Ireland and came to America with his parents at the age of two years. The family settled in Muskegon, Michigan, where Mr. Lee spent his early years and received his training in the lumber business, which he followed throughout his life. In 1881 at the beginning of the Civil war, Mr. Lee went into the Mexican where he engaged in contracting, returning to Muskegon after a few years to make his home until the death of his father. Later he came to Albuquerque, where he established a lumber business at Winfield, Kansas. He prospered there, but followed the railroad construction, and established the first lumber business in Albuquerque in the spring of 1881, the year the Atchison main line was completed into this city. From that time until his retirement from active business in 1904 Mr. Lee had one of the largest lumber businesses in the southwest and was one of Albuquerque's most active and influential citizens. He held numerous positions of trust in the community and was one of the city's first candidates for mayor, making the race for that office immediately after incorporation and being defeated by Henry Jaffa, the first mayor. Mr. Lee was energetic, public spirited and heartily in sympathy with every public movement in the community, giving liberally to the support of public enterprises. His acquaintance among other citizens of Albuquerque and the state was very large and his friends were numbered by thousands.

John A. Lee was born in Ireland and came to America with his parents at the age of two years. The family settled in Muskegon, Michigan, where Mr. Lee spent his early years and received his training in the lumber business, which he followed throughout his life. In 1881 at the beginning of the Civil war, Mr. Lee went into the Mexican where he engaged in contracting, returning to Muskegon after a few years to make his home until the death of his father. Later he came to Albuquerque, where he established a lumber business at Winfield, Kansas. He prospered there, but followed the railroad construction, and established the first lumber business in Albuquerque in the spring of 1881, the year the Atchison main line was completed into this city. From that time until his retirement from active business in 1904 Mr. Lee had one of the largest lumber businesses in the southwest and was one of Albuquerque's most active and influential citizens. He held numerous positions of trust in the community and was one of the city's first candidates for mayor, making the race for that office immediately after incorporation and being defeated by Henry Jaffa, the first mayor. Mr. Lee was energetic, public spirited and heartily in sympathy with every public movement in the community, giving liberally to the support of public enterprises. His acquaintance among other citizens of Albuquerque and the state was very large and his friends were numbered by thousands.