ONLY 4 MEN WILL WORK AT RECEIVING END IN SERIES

Each Club Expected to Depend on the Catchers Who Have Given Such Good Accounts of Themselves During Season.

New York, Oct. 7.—In all likelihood only four men will be called upon to work at the receiving end of the bat during the coming world's championship series between the Philadelphia Athletics and Boston Nationals. Each club will undoubtedly depend upon the two catchers who have given such a good account of themselves all through the playing season. They will take an important part in the strategy for as soon as a pitcher starts the ball and much of his calling is a contest he assumes an immense amount of responsibility. In fact there is no telling how many of the games are directed from behind the plate. In addition to exchanging signals with the pitcher as to the weakness of strength of the batters, he has to be a quick thinker, keen-sighted, always alert and invariably accurate in throwing to head off the base hit.

In this department Connie Mack is probably the more fortunate in having Lutz and Schang, both of whom have had previous experience in world's championship games. Lutz played in the 1910, 1911 and 1913 games each time on the winning side, and this will be the fourth time his services will be needed for the retention of the flag in Philadelphia. Although only thirty years old, Lutz has had a lot of experience during the nine years he has been identified with professional baseball. He stands 5 feet 10 1/2 inches and weighs about 170 pounds. Last year he took part in only one of the five games played for the championship.

Schang, on whom most of the work behind the bat devolved in the Athletics-Giants series a year ago, bore the heaviest of the work throughout this year's American league season. Last year he caught in four of the five games played in the world's series and may do the larger share again in the coming contests. He is 24 years old, is 5 feet 9 inches tall and weighs about 180 pounds. His experience in major league baseball dates back just four years. In Thomas, the veteran catcher, is another on whom Manager Mack could call in case of accident to either of the two mentioned, but he has not been in the same much during the past season and it is not likely that his services will be needed. The Athletics also have a fourth catcher in McAvoy, late of the Baltimore International league team, but it is not at all probable that he will be called upon to go behind the bat against the Braves. Manager Stallings has two very reliable receivers in Givens and Whiting, both of whom have been wonderfully successful this past season. Both are young men and each has been identified with professional baseball for five years. The success of the team, phenomenal as it was, in landing the National league pennant this year, speaks volumes for the work of the battery, and the catchers naturally are not to be overlooked for the parts they played so well in bringing about the outlook for victory.

Gowdy, who did the lion's share of the catching for the Braves during the season, stands one inch over six feet and weighs 197 pounds. Whiting, who is 25 years old, just one year older than Gowdy, also is a six-footer and weighs 182 pounds.
