KNELT BESIDE THE GRAVE.

HOMAGE OF THE COMTE DE PARIS TO M'CLELLAN'S MEMORY.

A Visit Later to Philadelphia and a Dinner with George W. Childs—Planting Trees on Mr. Childs's Lawn at Wootten.

The Comte de Paris left New York yesterday noon, accompanied by his suite. The party was met at the Windsor hotel by Col. John P. Nicholson of Philadelphia, Gen. O. O. Howard, Gen. Daniel Butterfield, and others, who escorted the Comte de Paris and his suite to the Pennsylvania Railroad station. Among those who were to go to Philadelphia in the party were Gen. Gregg, Col. Goodman, Col. George Meade, Henry T. Coates, Gen. Martin T. McMahon, Gen. Connor, Lieut. Leach, and Gen. Abner Doubleday and Mrs. Doubleday. The car of President Roberts of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company was attached to the Chicago Limited and placed at the disposal of the Comte de Paris, his suite, and those accompanying them.

At Trenton the party was met by Gen. Donnelly, Adjt.-Gen. Stryker, Secretary of State Kelsey, and others, making in all an assemblage of thirty. They drove to the cemetery in a dozen carriages. As the monument erected near Gen. George B. McClellan's grave came into sight it was pointed out to the Comte de Paris, who reverently raised his hat and bowed his head. As the coaches drew up as near the McClellan plot as it was possible for them to get Gen. Stryker advised him to remain in the coach until the rain, which was falling hard, had spent its fury.

"No, no," was the reply. "I care nothing for the rain. I cannot wait. I have longed for this opportunity of paying my respects to the great soldier and my friend too long to wait a minute longer than I am compelled to."

He got out of the carriage, and nearly all of the party followed his example. He led the way, and as the party neared the grave they raised their hats. The Comte de Paris bowed his head for a moment as he stood beside the grave. Tears were visible on his cheeks, and his lips moved as in the utterance of a prayer. Then he moved toward the foot of the grave. The rain was still coming down. Stooping for an instant, he gazed intently upon the little mound and then knelt down on the wet turf. The scene brought tears to the eyes of many of the party.

After plucking a few leaves from a plant he arose, and shortly afterward the party entered the coaches and were driven to Gen. Stryker's residence in West State street, where a luncheon was served, and where were met George W. Childs, ex-Secretary of the Navy Robeson, Gen. E. Burd Grubb, Minister to Spain, and a number of State officials. Subsequently the party resumed their trip to Philadelphia.

From Trenton the Comte de Paris sent this despatch to Mrs. McClellan:

"Deeply impressed by visit to grave of my beloved chief, I send you expressions of my sympathy and wishes for your welfare."

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—The Comte de Paris and his party arrived here at 2:20 P. M. on a special train over the Pennsylvania Railroad from Trenton. Accompanying the Frenchmen were Gen. Gregg, Gen. Howard, Gen. Butterfield, Gen. Stryker, and J. P. Nicholson of this city, who translated the Comte de Paris's history of the war of the rebellion; Dr. Goodman, Joel Cook, Major Joseph G. Rosengarten, and George W. Childs. The party was taken to the City Hall, where Mayor Fitler, the Presidents of Select and Common Councils, the heads of the departments of the municipal government, members of both branches of Councils, and a number of conspicuous Philadelphians were waiting in the Mayor's office. After the introductions were over Mayor Fitler made a speech of welcome, and President Smith of the Select Council read a series of welcoming resolutions passed by Councils. The Comte de Paris made a brief reply.

After the reception at the Mayor's office the visitors returned to the Pennsylvania Railroad depot, where they boarded President Roberts's private car, which was attached to the 3:45 train for Bryn Mawr. At Bryn Mawr they entered carriages and were driven to George W. Childs's country house, Wootten, three miles back in the country. It has been the custom of Mr. Childs to have all distinguished visitors to his country place plant a tree in commemoration of their visit, and the Comte de Paris, the Duc d'Orleans, and the others of the party observed this custom to-day. Each member of the party planted a different species of tree on the lawn at the back of the house. The trees planted by the French visitors stand between those planted by Gen. Grant and Sherman, and with those already planted by other visitors form quite a grove.

After the ceremony of tree planting had been concluded the party returned to the house and dinner was served. On Mr. Childs's right was seated the Comte de Paris, and on his left the Duc d'Orleans. The other guests were the Count d'Haussonville, Col. De Parseval, Capt. Monhain, the Marquis de Lasteyrie, M. Recamier, the Duc d'Uzes, Gov. Beaver, Mayor Fitler, ex-Attorney-General Wayne McVeagh, George M. Roberts, Gen. Sherman, R. B. Hayes, Gen. Butterfield, Col. Wilson, Superintendent of the Military Academy at West Point; Gen. Gregg, Gen. O. O. Howard, Austin Corbin, and Col. J. P. Nicholson, Col. Rudolph Ellis, and Major J. G. Rosengarten of this city.

OCTOBER STORE NEWS.

The dressmaking staff is now in excellent shape to fill orders for this season—4th floor. Elevators up.

Same may be said of the millinery staff in cases where a special fancy cannot be indulged from the collection of stock goods—on the mezzanine floor.

If there's an idea, or a combination of ideas, in the wearing of dress stuffs that isn't in this fall's collection we'd be glad and surprised to be told of it—main floor, left centre.

Old prices are still fashionable in the store spite of McKinley's swollen tariff.

LOCATION OF THE CARPETS.

Carpets are back of the furniture—3d floor.

Beside feeling pretty sure of saving you money in the carpet direction we're exceptionally strong in assortment of new designs and colorings.

Carpets—3d floor.

SHOES.
DON'T BELIEVE
THERE'S ANY BETTER.

Candidly, we don't believe there's any better foot wear anywhere outside than inside the store—quite certain, too, no other dry goods house in the city keeps a shoemaker's shop on the premises as an adjunct to the Shoe Department. While we'd sooner not be driven to it, we're able to make a Lady's Boot, Slipper, or Tie to measure in a day—any shape, style, finish, and leather, or cloth to match any costume.

Shoes—2d floor.

PAYABLE THIRTY DAYS AFTER DEATH.

Suit Over a Note Given by a Farmer to His Son-in-Law.

SAUGERTIES, Oct. 6.—The General Term has just rendered a decision in a rather novel suit in which there are several interesting legal points. In 1888 Samuel P. Freligh, a wealthy farmer of this town, died. Shortly after his demise his son-in-law, Cornelius W. Carnright, presented to the executors for payment a $1,500 note, purporting to have been made by Freligh in his life time. The note was peculiar, inasmuch as it was made payable after death. It read as follows:

QUARRYVILLE, Sept. 2, 1871.

Thirty days after death I promise to pay to Cornelius W. Carnright fifteen hundred dollars, with interest.

SAMUEL P. FRELIGH.

As the executors refused to pay the note, Carnright brought suit against them. They defended on the ground that there was no consideration for the note, it not containing the words "for value received," and not being made payable to order or bearer. It was also alleged that it was a forgery, had neither been written nor signed by Freligh, and that the note, being made payable after the maker's death, was a suspicious circumstance on the question of forgery.

The case was tried at the Ulster Circuit Court in Kingston in November, 1889, before Justice Ingalls and a jury. The Court held that, although the note was not payable to order or bearer, and did not express a consideration, the burden of proof was on the defendants to show that there was no consideration. The jury found for the plaintiff, sustaining the note's validity and genuineness, giving a verdict for $3,411.77, being the amount of note with interest. The defendants appealed to the General Term, which affirmed the judgments with costs. Justice Landon wrote the opinion, with Justice Mayham concurring. A dissenting opinion was written by Justice Learned. The case will be taken to the Court of Appeals.

A Bad Send Off.

Thomas Smith, alias Joseph White, an ex-convict, pleaded guilty yesterday, in the General Sessions, before Judge Cowing of stealing a gold watch from Joseph Nigsch of West Hoboken, on the Bowery, on the night of Sept. 23. Attached to the indictment was this letter to Assistant District Attorney Lindsey, constituting an unpleasant send off before the court for Smith:

MR. LINDSEY: The notorious Joe White, about whom I wrote to you the other day, is in the hands of the law only a few weeks ago that I saw, been again arrested for the theft of a watch in compliment being a Hoboken man. While passing under the name of James Smith he is the same scoundrel who sent my innocent boy to the state prison to save himself.

A BOHEMIAN SEARING FATHER.

Judge Cowing sentenced Smith to State prison for four years.
