

CONGRESSMEN RELAXING AFTER HEAVY MENTAL EFFORTS

PLUMLEY - VERMONT
(PLUM TUCKERED OUT)

MOON - TENNESSEE

LAFFERTY - OREGON

BURNETT - ALABAMA
(SHORTEST MAN IN CONGRESS)

STENOGRAPHER
(ONLY MAN WHO DOESN'T REPOSE)

MURDOCK - KANSAS

HINKAID - NEBRASKA
(WINKLING INTO HIS SEAT)

UNDERWOOD - ALABAMA
(MAJORITY LEADER)

CARAWAY - ARKANSAS

JOHNSON - WASHINGTON

WATKINS - LOUISIANA

GLASS - VIRGINIA

THOMPSON - OKLAHOMA

STEENERSON - MINNESOTA
(NORWEGIAN GIANT)

TAYLOR - ARKANSAS

SEMPER - NEW YORK

HAYES - CALIFORNIA

HADGEN - IOWA
(CAN YOU BEAT THIS FOR A TWIST?)

BARTLETT - GEORGIA

ANDERSON - MINNESOTA
(RESTING HIS JAW)

Having Spent Millions of Their Uncle Sam's Money, Lawmakers at Washington Seek Repose in Comfortable Postures--Impressionistic Sketches by Lou Rogers

It's a heavy job to shovel millions of dollars around over the country hour after hour and get the piles to look even. By 5 P. M. all the Congressmen—the fat ones and the lean ones, the small ones and the giants—are trying to settle on some part of their anatomy that hasn't yet been sat on. The results are all entertaining and some of them startlingly limber. Should Lieb of Indiana sit down on his mustache nobody would get excited. If Steenserson, the Norwegian giant, rested placidly on his shiny bald dome it would be taken as a matter of course. There is no parliamentary law to fix the limit of reposeful contortion.

GUM ON THIS SIDE