The Jarr Family. Copyright, 1912, by The Press Publishing Co., The New York World.

MR. JARR'S ONLY SON QUALIFIES AS A HERO. MASTER WILLIS JARR knew full well where the dentist's was. In fact, he had been led up to the door of the neighborhood molar mechanic and bicuspid operator some several times. Surgical, medical and dental ethics are all the same. Representatives of all these professions directly or indirectly advertise to pull trade, but professional pride prevents them from coming out and pulling in the flatterer and unwilling at their doors.

HEROES OF EVERY DAY.

THERE apparently was no thought of himself. He raised the woman to her feet, kissed her and clasped her in his arms. So they went to their death. On a cake of ice in the midst of the roaring Niagara current, after he had desperately tried and failed to fasten a rope about her, man and wife died bravely in the sight of hundreds of people on the shore.

AN EARLIER CHANCE FOR THE CHILDREN.

CHILD-GARDENING pays better than any other known kind of cultivation. The earlier the work begins and the more gentle and encouraging the care and pruning, the firmer the stem and the finer the flower. The country would do well to look more closely at this end of the education problem.

Reflections of a Bachelor Girl. By Helen Rowland

Copyright, 1912, by The Press Publishing Co., The New York World. "Matrimonial Number." In the average man's opinion, the ideal wife should be both a thing of duty and a toy forever. When a man marries nowadays it is usually either because he has met some woman who has carried him off his feet or some woman who is willing to set him on them.

Fables of Everyday Folks. By Sophie Irene Loeb

Copyright, 1912, by The Press Publishing Co., The New York World. THE "GOOD FELLOW." ONCE upon a time there was a good fellow. There are various kinds of good fellows. Yet a real good fellow is one who never misses an opportunity to be one. Neither does he have to prove it.

THE EGG.

EGGS are much served in the day's news just now. They come mostly boiled. They come mainly high. Whatever it costs, let us be grateful for the egg. All honor to the hen that lays it. It is the most wonderful of all foods. It is the safest, simplest, purest, most healthful, most faithful, most widely available article that man can put into his stomach.

Schooldays. Kind "Aches" and Follow the String. (Copyright, 1912, by The Press Publishing Co., The New York World.) By Dwig

A large cartoon illustration of a school scene. A teacher is at a desk, and students are engaged in various activities. One student is holding a sign that says 'WOMEN OF AMERICA - MAMMOUTH PE CAVE'. Another student is holding a sign that says 'DOWE LOOP DOWE OR A WINE DOT W DOT FOR THE HAWK'. There are various speech bubbles and labels throughout the scene.

LIONS AND LIMELIGHT.

MOVING-PICTURE film showing a lion hunt in Africa with the lion charging full tilt toward the camera only to be brought down by a bullet in the neck of time, was shown at a private entertainment in this city the other night. From Versailles comes the story of an enterprising moving-picture man who arranged an open-air act between a lion and a lamb, using a real lion and a real lamb, but becoming terrified at the goings-on of the lion, left the latter in possession of the field and the camera.

"The Great Within." By Cora M. W. Greenleaf.

WHEN emergencies arise and we don't know what to do, it is often with surprise we discover something new in ourselves; some unknown trait will awaken and come to life. When necessity is great opportunities arise.
