NEW YORK'S EXCHANGE NOW ONLY FREE MARKET OF THE WORLD'S CAPITALS

European Investors Restricted in the Few Bourses that Remain Open.

HEAVY CABLE ORDERS.

Sales Totaled 809,000 Shares at From Three to Five Points Advance.

H. G. S. Noble, President of the New York Stock Exchange, said this afternoon: "The fact that the New York Stock Exchange alone had a free and unrestricted market to-day is a tribute to the sound condition of American finance."

The New York Stock Exchange to-day carried the financial markets of the world on its shoulders without weakening. The United States, with its immense resources of gold and its freedom from the European war situation, stood as the rock of Gibraltar against panic and disaster. In all the capitals of northern Europe the stock exchanges were either closed or were under such restrictions that little business was done. The financiers, the investors, the security holders and the speculators of London, Berlin, Paris, Vienna and the smaller centres all turned toward New York as the one open and free market for their transactions.

After a day of enormous transactions, totalling 809,000 shares, the market closed with stocks averaging three to five points above yesterday's closing. There was a shout of exuberant joy that the storm had been weathered without trouble and that New York now stands pre-eminent in world finance.

The long period of liquidation and sagging prices that depressed financiers during the last year is now regarded as a most fortunate condition. If American securities had been inflated instead of at rock bottom, the market could not have withstood the European war panic as it has done. The enormous bank reserve accumulated during the recent business hesitation came in good stead as foreign monetary centres are scraping together every available penny.

To-morrow's markets depend on the news from Europe, but New York brokers consider the worst of the financial storm over.

Following the opening of the exchange at 10 o'clock there were fifteen

MADE SURE OF DEATH BY WEIGHTING BODY

Filled Pockets With Weights and Put Strap About Neck Before Leaping.

The police of Harbor Precinct A found to-day the body of an unidentified man in the water off St. George, S. 1. The man apparently had committed suicide, as heavy weights were found in the pockets of his coat. There was also a leather strap with a weight attached, twisted around his neck.

The body was badly decomposed. The dead man was about fifty-five years old, 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighed 250 pounds. He was dressed in a black suit, white underwear, white shirt, black shoes and socks. The body was removed to the morgue.

BODY OF MARSHALL, MISSING LAWYER, IS FOUND IN BAY

Attorney Who Disappeared Last Saturday Is Found in Bay Off Belford.

A body believed to be that of Elliott Marshall, the wealthy Wall street lawyer, who has been missing from his home at Montclair, N. J., and his office at No. 49 Wall street, was found off Belford, N. J., by fishermen to-day.

A partial identification was made from gold cuff links and a shirt marked with the initials "E. M." In other respects the body and the clothing corresponded with the descriptions sent out by a committee of Mr. Marshall's friends who raised a $50,000 fund to search for him when no trace of him was found forty-eight hours after his disappearance, last Thursday.

Coroner Fay reported that the body seemed to have been in the water for nearly a week. It was found at a considerable distance from shore by a fisherman from Seabright named Rogers, who towed the corpse to Belford, the little hamlet formerly known as Port Monmouth.

There was no indication of violence about the body, Coroner Fay said, and no evidence that the body had been robbed. The friends of Mr. Marshall, before sending out circulars throughout the United States and employing private detectives to trace him, had learned that all his legal papers at his office were in perfect order and that his fortune, amounting to about $500,000, was intact and not menaced by any

WAR BULLETINS

From St. Petersburg it is reported that the Government is anxious for war. It is charged elsewhere that patriotic demonstrations are being encouraged to rouse the military spirit of the nation. Fourteen Russian Army Corps are moving toward the frontier.

From London comes a despatch that Russia is mobilizing 1,280,000 men on the Austrian frontier.

From Berlin comes the report of military activity by the Russians on the frontier. Germany is ready to mobilize a great army on the first warlike move by the Czar. Some German regiments have been sent to the frontier.

From Vienna it is reported that a strict censorship prevails throughout the nation, and also in Serbia, but it is known that great bodies of troops are concentrating on both sides. A battle is expected at any moment.

London reports that all Europe is looking to the Russian Czar as the central figure in the warlike moves. It is in his power to localize hostilities or bring on a general war.

From Paris comes the report that President Poincare reached that capital to-day. He was greeted by a patriotic outburst. France is said to be concentrating troops along the frontier. If war comes Alsace-Lorraine, wrested from France by Germany, will be one of the danger spots.

From Paris also comes the report that Austria has given official notice that she would respect the territorial integrity of Serbia.

Report Comes From St. Petersburg That Attack on Servian Capital Has Begun—Big Bodies of Troops on March in Both Countries—Montenegrin Soldiers Hurry to Support Fellow Serbs.

RUSSIA CALLS OUT ARMY OF 1,280,000 MEN.

Kaiser Wilhelm Reported to Have Told Austria to Await His Orders Before Beginning a General Assault, but German Troops Have Been Sent to Check Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 29.—A despatch from Belgrade says the Servian capital has been bombarded and the bridge over the river Save blown up.

BERLIN, July 29.—From the highest source it is learned here this evening that a break between Germany and Russia is impending. It is believed the negotiations between the Kaiser and Czar have failed.

It was learned that confirmation of the partial mobilization of Russian troops which resulted in the alarming developments here came to the Foreign Office in despatches from Vienna.

No orders for a corresponding step in connection with the German army have apparently yet been issued.

At 8.30 to-night an unofficial statement was made to the correspondents at the Foreign Office in which they were advised against over-emphasizing the gravity of the situation.

While it was admitted that the possibilities of diplomacy had been virtually exhausted, it was pointed out that Russia's reply had not been received and that the possibility of a satisfactory adjustment still remained.

LONDON, July 29.—Austria-Hungary and Servia resounded to-day with the march of troops toward positions of attack and defense, while military aviators on both sides flitted through the air along the frontiers in an effort to discover their opponent's positions.

No idea of the plan of campaign could be obtained by the general public, owing to the rigidity of the censorship in regard to military movements.

It was known that the Austro-Hungarian government had requisitioned the entire train service and that private transportation in the dual monarchy had ceased, and it was gleaned from despatches from Servian points that the Bosnian frontier was looked upon as the most likely point of attack of the Austrian troops, and thither the soldiers of King Peter were hurried in great numbers.

The Montenegrin soldiers, evidently preparing to support their brother Serbs, also concentrated along the Bosnian frontier.

KAISER HOLDS AUSTRIA BACK.
It is reported unofficially, and generally credited, that the Kaiser has ordered Emperor Francis Joseph to withhold the invasion of Servian territory by Austrian troops until the word is given from Potsdam.

Meanwhile Wilhelm and Czar Nicholas are in constant communication. This is admitted at the Foreign Office. The Kaiser has forbidden all demonstrations calculated to rouse the war spirit. War news is being suppressed in the papers. The Kaiser is bending every personal effort in the direction of a limitation of the conflict to Austria and Servia. Until satisfied of the failure of his efforts to induce Russia's neutrality, the Kaiser will continue, through pressure on Emperor Francis Joseph, to hold the Austrian army on the north bank of the Danube.

Baron Rothschild, speaking of the European situation to an interviewer to-day, said:

"I think the situation looks rather better to-day, but I do not know personally of any developments. At the same time it looks as if there were more chance of the war being localized. Yesterday was a blacker day than to-day. I think things look a little brighter. I do not quite know why, but I have the feeling that they are."

Baron Rothschild then reiterated his opinion that the war would be confined to Austria-Hungary and Servia.

It is reported that the present mobilization order affects only the Russian frontier contiguous to Austria and not the German frontier. It is confined to the military districts of 1914.
